OPIUM PARLEY IS SHROUDED IN PESSIMISM

COMPROMISE SOUGHT TO COMPOSE QUARRELS

Lord Cecil Repudiates American Accusation of Money Influencing Motives of Several Powers.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Geneva, January 21.—Despite French and Swedish efforts at mediation the international opium conference adjourned today until Saturday in anything but a conciliatory mood and with many of the delegates still pessimistic as to the outcome. Stephen G. Porter, head of the American delegation, described the situation tonight as "distinctly discouraging."

The recess of the plenary sessions was taken until Saturday on motion of Sweden, backed by the other Scandinavian countries. It was taken in order to find a means for elucidating and coordinating the proposals, declarations, suggestions before the conference on the question of the suppression of the opium-smoking in the Far East, which has become the pivotal problem and may eventually cause the collapse of the conference.

May Urge Compromise.

President Zahle said tonight that although he would strive through conciliatory initiatives to bring about a solution for the opium-smoking question satisfactory to the American delegation and those delegations which opposed the American position, the best he really expected to accomplish was the introduction of a resolution at Saturday's meeting for the appointment of a joint committee representing the first and the present opium conferences. Such a committee, Dr. Zahle explained, could study the various suggestions offered by the Americans, British and French and seek a compromise formula and urge the first opium conference to adopt this.

Dr. Zahle gave it as his opinion that the question of opium smoking belonged solely to the first opium conference, which was confined to the powers having colonies in the Far East, and expressed the view as president of the more general conference that Mr. Porter's motion for a review of the first conference would receive the unanimous approval of the delegates.

Unanimity Impossible.

Unanimity seems out of the question, for the reason that all the countries having possessions where opium is smoked would undoubtedly vote against Mr. Porter's motion.

The entire day was given over to attempts to save the conference from a crash. It began with a spirited repudiation by Lord Cecil, of Chelwood, head of the British delegation, of Mr. Porter's accusation that financial considerations entered into the powers' reluctance to end opium smoking within a fixed period. It continued with a brilliant oration by M. Daladier, the youthful French colonial minister, who quoted from resolutions in the American congress and from the speech of Mr. Porter himself made at Geneva last year in an attempt to prove that the Americans themselves realized that no laws against opium smoking could be effective so long as heavy international smuggling of opium went on unchecked.

Never Consider Color.

Alluding to the recent appeal by Mr. Porter for cessation of the exploitation of the inhabitants of the east, M. Daladier declared that France ever stood for treating all men from the standpoint of their sentiments and aspirations, and never took into account the color of their skin. He closed by committing France to the complete abolition of opium in Indo-China within 15 years after the council of the League of Nations proclaimed that illicit opium production

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK

Thought

Thinking is the only practical way to accomplish anything. Action can only follow the direction of thought. A plan guides every effort.

There are plenty of jobs that require very little thinking, but no real man wants to waste his time on them. No job is so small that a man who will use his head can't make a stepping stone of it to bigger things.

Make it your habit to think things through—then see them through. Use your intelligence every step of your way!

Dinner for Solons, Given by Coolidge, Veiled in Mystery

EARLY RATIFICATION ASKED BY PRESIDENT

Hughes and Shipstead Not Invited, Though Both Democrats and Republicans Were Present.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, January 21.—Considerable mystery developed around a hastily arranged dinner at the white house for members of the senate foreign relations committee Wednesday night.

Senators were suddenly called by telephone about 5 p. m and asked to come to the white house for dinner at 8 o'clock. Some had other engagements which they were unable to break at that late hour.

After the gathering dispersed, senators positively asserted that the only subject discussed was the Lausanne treaty dealing with the open door in Turkey, which was signed some months ago. President Coolidge was represented as having asked early ratification.

Silent on Big Problems.

Chairman Borah, of the new foreign relations committee, denied that the Paris agreement, the world court, Russia or any other current problems were mentioned.

Because of the suddenness of the affair, and the fact that only a few hours before the senate had adopted the Johnson resolution calling for all details regarding the negotiation of the Paris agreement, excited speculation was current in the capital.

There was some curiosity as to why Secretary of State Hughes was not invited, and also why Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, farmer-labor member, was not asked, while the democratic minority members were invited.

The dinner was said by some of those present to have been in the nature of a complimentary affair for Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, who is a guest at the white house. He represented the United States in the negotiation of the Lausanne treaty.

Senators Are Puzzled.

Why the president should have revived the question of the Lausanne treaty just when there were so many current foreign problems before the senate puzzled many senators, especially in view of the fact that it comes with barely six weeks left of the present session of congress and with a heavily loaded program of routine business already scheduled.

Little has been heard of the Lausanne treaty for many months. It has been pigeon-holed in the senate foreign relations committee since it was signed in 1923. President Coolidge, after discussing the situation with Child, came to the conclusion that early ratification was desirable and accordingly recommended this to the senators.

Immediately after the treaty was negotiated between the United States and Turkey, hostile criticism came from various American groups, notably one led by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany under the Wilson administration.

His criticism was that the treaty was instigated by great oil interests, that it failed to protect the Armen-

MAIN HIGHWAYS OF GEORGIA OPEN TO TRAFFIC AGAIN

Practically All Damage Done by Flood Conditions Repaired—Schedules Almost Repaired.

All main highways from Atlanta are now open for traffic, damage from the recent floods having been sufficiently repaired to make it possible for automobiles to travel over any of the principal routes, according to announcement made by officials of the state highway department Wednesday afternoon. It was stated, however, that these reports covered conditions only within the state and that tourists bound for points in other states would be wise to inquire about conditions beyond the Georgia line before making the trip.

For instance, the road to Birmingham is passable in so far as the Georgia part of the highway is concerned, but department officials have no information regarding conditions in Alabama.

Most of the highways, while passable, contain bad spots, but the department believes that these conditions will be remedied by Friday provided no further rain comes to undo the repair work which is now being rushed by emergency forces of workmen.

The best road is probably that to Columbus, it was stated, although direct highways to Augusta, Macon, Chattanooga and Birmingham—as far as the state line—are open to traffic.

$150,000 Damage Done.

Damage to the state highways as the result of the protracted rainy period probably will amount to $150,-

Aged 'Abode of Love' Colony

:: 70-YEAR-OLD "MESSIAH" ENRICHED BY CULT ::

To Organize Branch Chapter

BY CHARLES M. M'CANN.

London, January 21.—Free love and the adulation of many middle-aged-to-elderly women have so enriched the "Abode of Love" colony in the little village of Spaxton that 70-year-old A. Smythe-Piggott, the "messiah" and head man of the cult, is planning to inaugurate a branch chapter.

The countrymen and women of the vicinity are enthusiastic for "Messiah" Smythe-Piggott and his free-loving coterie of fading ladies. Young girls are never admitted to the cult, so that the villagers feel sure of their own daughters' safety. And while the "Abode of Love" has existed in Spaxton the village has become one of the richest in England.

Smythe-Piggott gives liberally to charity from the funds accruing to him as "messiah." Villagers are never permitted to want for their modest requirements.

The "messiah's" age has not interfered with his activities within the cult. He has abandoned the clerical garb which he wore a generation ago when he founded the Spaxton colony. Britain was shocked at the time, but forgot about the "Abode of Love," while the institution flourished and gathered to itself a steady stream of adherents.

Smythe-Piggott's intention to found another cult center became known only through his purchases of real estate in Acton, a middle-class suburb of London. The doctrines of the Acton cult will be those of its Spaxton parent, but the "messiah" will be a modern. His new role demands that his aged, but supple limbs be encased in long woolen hose, and the rest of his body be garbed in the fashionable jacket and plus-fours of the golf links. Why the veteran charmer of women must forsake his earlier costume is unknown, but perhaps the styles in free love are changing.

Three sturdy children, one of them a girl named "Life," belong to the "messiah," but presumably the two boys will remain in school and the girl at the Spaxton "abode," where she has been reared.

The free-love colony at Acton probably will be populated like the earlier one—Smythe-Piggott; his athletic-looking secretary, and a flock of women beyond the prime of life. At Spaxton these elderly dames seem to worship the master. It is they who attend his devotional exercises in the "Temple of Beauty," an old village chapel, where mysterious rites have been conducted for years.

None without the colony knows what goes on there, uninitiated servants of the colonists are permitted to attend the preliminary services, but when the "messiah" has preached his sermon, the unbelievers are driven from the temple. The 50 servants of the "abode of love" know no more of the ritual than do the villagers. They care for the lovers and for the cult property, including the magnificent estate and numerous motor cars.

All that is known of the cult is that it practices free love; that many persons have been converted—by the disciples themselves—and that those who once enter seem happy and reluctant to withdraw.

JURY IN GIBBY MURDER TRIAL IS DEADLOCKED

VERDICT IS EXPECTED IN CASE THIS MORNING

Gibby Tells Jury He Killed Quinn Because He Feared Death at Brother-in-Law's Hands.

Turner Gibby, a 16-year-old boy, who went on trial Wednesday in Fulton superior court for the murder of John Quinn, his brother-in-law, probably will know his fate this morning.

After deliberating two hours and a half Wednesday night, the jurors announced that they had been unable to agree on a verdict and requested Judge G. H. Howard to adjourn court until 9 o'clock this morning. The case went to the jury at 9 o'clock at night.

Claude Brackett, counsel for defense, carried the news to the youthful slayer, where he sat talking with a bailiff.

Slayer Disappointed.

"We won't know until tomorrow, eh?" he repeated after his attorney "Won't know until tomorrow"—and he rose to his feet, stretched himself and looked in the direction of his aged mother, who sat just outside the inner railing of the court room.

A disappointed look was on the face of the boy as he walked to meet her. But it disappeared, and his eyes brightened noticeably as they exchanged greetings. Three other elderly women were with the mother. Other friends of the boy were grouped about.

"I wish you could go home with us, son," said one of the women.

"So do I, but I don't guess I can tonight," he answered.

M'LENDON LAUDS ORATORY CONTEST

Debate Launched by The Constitution Called "Finest Thing Georgia Has Ever Done."

"One of the finest things for the upbuilding of Georgia citizenship that has ever been done," was the way Secretary of State S. Guyt McLendon referred to the oratorical contest on fundamentals of American government launched in Georgia under auspices of The Atlanta Constitution, the Georgia High School association and the American Bar association.

"Knowledge of the fundamentals of American government, of the constitution and the great basic principles upon which our nation rests, will do more to make good citizens of our young men and women than any other one thing," declared Secretary McLendon.

Mr. McLendon is known as probably the best posted student of the

Secrecy Is Dominant Note as Prisoner Starts Trip to Prison.

Somewhere in the blue grass of Kentucky and the cliffs of Tennessee Wednesday night the Chapman special pounded the rails toward Atlanta, carrying the blase Gerald Chapman, fugitive extraordinary, back to the federal penitentiary. Somewhere near Atlanta, early today, the flier will halt long enough at some most remote and mysterious point to disgorge itself of the prisoner, who escaped from the United States prison here in March, 1923, after having served a few months of a 25-year sentence for a $2,400,000 robbery in New York city. Somehow, Chapman will be whisked from the train to the prison without anyone seeing him or his capable escort, composed of W. N. Berrong and G. W. Hughes, deputy wardens, from Atlanta.

The utmost secrecy was thrown around return of the bandit to the federal prison here. It is known, however, that Chapman, heavily shackled with handcuffs and leg irons, was placed aboard a Big Four railroad passenger train at Indianapolis, which arrived at Cincinnati late Wed-

STORM OVER FULL PAYMENT OF WAR DEBTS TO AMERICA BREAKS IN FRENCH CHAMBER

HANCOCK TO PUSH PLANS TO MERGER SCHOOL SYSTEMS

President of Atlanta Board Says That Constitutional Amendment Will Be Asked If Needed.

PROBLEMS OF LAW ARE BEING STUDIED

Legal Question Presents Only Serious Barrier Confronting Merger, Says Wrigley.

Although admitting that a constitutional amendment may be required to effect the proposed merger of city and county school systems, John T. Hancock, president of the board of education and a leader in the consolidation movement, Wednesday afternoon stated that plans for establishment of a metropolitan district will be pushed regardless of statements by Mayor Walter A. Sims that the merger would be unconstitutional, and announcement of the chief executive's plan to call for a referendum on the entire school question as soon as possible.

"It never has been claimed that a constitutional amendment will not be needed," Mr. Hancock said, "although I have been given an opinion by Attorney General George M. Napier stating that the new district could be created by action of the legislature.

Studying Legal Problems.

The proposals are now being investigated by one of our subcommittees. If it is found that those sections of DeKalb and Clayton counties now in the Atlanta and College Park districts cannot legally be included in the new district, we will ask the legislature to pass the constitutional amendment, and ask the people to ratify it in the election this fall.

"If such an amendment is not required, we plan to learn the attitude of the public at a referendum proposed for late in February, and if a majority of the people favor the merger, the legislature will be requested to take such steps as are necessary in forming the new district."

Mr. Hancock, who is chairman of the subcommittee named to investigate legal phases of the merger, stated that the body will be called together this week and that a full report will be completed in time for presentation at the next meeting of the general committee.

Only Serious Obstacle.

Arthur Wrigley, president of the Fulton county school board, who also is chairman of the general merger committee, when informed of Mayor Sims' statement Wednesday, said that the legal question presents the only serious barrier confronting the merger, and that it is the principal point to be threshed out before further definite steps are taken.

Plans to ask a referendum late in March or early in April to determine the question as to whether the school department is to continue under control of the board of education, or whether the entire department, includ-

Police Told To Destroy All Liquors

Hospitals Have All They Need for Present, Says Mayor in Order.

All intoxicants confiscated by the Atlanta police department in the future, regardless of amount, color, potency or other qualifications, must be destroyed, according to an edict issued Wednesday by Mayor Walter A. Sims.

In the past the best liquor seized in raids or obtained through other channels, has been turned over to city hospitals for medicinal purposes, but enough is now on hand to supply such needs for a year, the mayor said.

"According to the present practice, all liquor not used for evidence or given to hospitals is poured out," Mayor Sims stated, "but as enough is on hand to supply needs of the hospitals for at least a year, there is no excuse for saving any more of it. Of course, enough will be saved to use as evidence in convicting violators of the prohibition laws, but even that will be destroyed in the future as soon as it has served its purpose."

The mayor denied that any particular case was responsible for the order, but said that it was issued simply because it no longer is necessary to save whisky for medicinal use.

Coining of Stone Mountain

:: LOCAL COMMITTEE PRESENT AT CEREMONY ::

Memorial Half Dollar Begun

Philadelphia, January 21.—Coining began today at the Philadelphia mint of the Stone Mountain half dollars, commemorating the valor of the soldiers of the Confederacy and the carving of the colossal memorial on the Georgia mountain.

The new coins, made from designs submitted by Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, are the size of the standard half dollar and will be turned over to the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association at Atlanta in exchange for their par value in current coinage. The action of congress authorizing the issuance of the coins provides for a maximum coinage of five million pieces.

A committee from the south was present when the first of the half dollars was struck off. They were Mr. Borglum and Hollins N. Randolph, president, E. Rivers, business manager, and Joseph H. McCord, treasurer, of the memorial association, and Rowland B. Mahany, of Washington, D. C.

The obverse side of the new half dollars bears the familiar "In God We Trust" across the top in an arc.

Beneath this are 13 stars in two groups of four each and one of five. The feature of the obverse side embraces the figures of Generals Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, both mounted. Lee is gazing into the distance in a direction toward which Jackson is pointing. To the lower left of the mounted figures are the words "Stone Mountain," with the year of coinage.

WASHINGTON JURY TO HEAR EVIDENCE AGAINST WHEELER

Testimony About Montana Solon Is Being Assembled for Presentation Early in February.

Washington, January 21.—Testimony as to the charge of accepting a fee after his election for appearing before a government department in connection with oil land leases, on which Senator Wheeler, of Montana, was indicted last spring in his own state, is being re-assembled by the department of justice for submission to a grand jury in the District of Columbia early in February.

A number of witnesses called in the Montana proceedings have been subpoenaed to come to Washington, and information has been received by Senator Wheeler's associates that he also will be formally summoned, but the senator himself has refused to make any statement concerning the matter for publication.

Department of justice officials also withheld announcement on the subject, but it was understood the prosecution, in moving for action in Washington, intended to bring the case into the territory in which the alleged incidents leading to the original indictment took place. It was also indicated that the scope of the proceeding might be widened.

Senator Wheeler, who has characterized the proceedings against him as "a frame-up," was formally charged in the Montana indictment with arranging, in violation of legal restrictions resulting from his election, to receive a fee of $10,000 from Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil man, for services in the leasing of public lands. At the time the grand jury action was taken, he was engaged in directing the senate Daugherty investigation.

SENATE REQUESTS COOLIDGE TO CALL ARMS CONFERENCE

McKellar Resolution Asks President To State Whether Britain Has Violated Arms Pact.

Washington, January 21.—President Coolidge is authorized and requested to call a second arms conference under an amendment to the naval appropriation bill, approved today by the senate without either discussion or a record vote before that measure was passed.

At the same time, Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, offered a resolution, requesting the president to inform the senate if the last arms conference treaty limiting the navies of the great powers was violated by Great Britain in the construction of the Rodney and the Nelson, which have been described in the senate as combination battleships and aircraft carriers. The resolution went over under the rules, but Senator McKellar said he would press for early action on it.

Sponsored by King.

The amendment relating to a second arms conference, which would deal with both land and naval forces, was sponsored by Senator King, democrat, Utah, and accepted with out objection by Chairman Hale of the naval committee.

Young Napoleon of Finance

:: ANOTHER GET-RICH-QUICK SCHEME FAILS ::

Admits $1,300,000 Forgeries

New York, January 21.—After confessing forgeries totaling $1,300,000 in a scheme to enrich himself and investors, Moe Turman, managing director of the Equity Finance & Service Co., was indicted today for second degree forgery and released on $5,000 bail.

Clients who had been assured—and for a while received—300 per cent per annum on money loaned Turman, started an investigation a week ago. Turman disappeared. He wandered through Buffalo, St. Louis, Jefferson City and Kansas City and then, last night, returned here, as he was reported to have said in his confession, "to take the medicine." With his wife he went to the office of the district attorney to tell all about it.

The indictment was based upon the alleged forgery of one $6,000 note. There were eight complainants, however, who charged Turman with having swindled them of nearly $300,000. There also were bundles of notes, allegedly forgeries, representing large sums.

Prosecutors believe Turman's forgeries and misappropriations will total $2,000,000. His reported confession accounts for nearly three-fourths of that amount. Six thousand canceled vouchers bearing on the case are in the possession of the authorities.

"I started borrowing from Peter to pay Paul in my struggles to pay high interest on $100 I borrowed to send my widowed mother and her children in Chicago," Turman told prosecutors.

"I discovered a get-rich-quick scheme. I tried to be a Napoleon of finance a la Ponzi, and flopped. My bubble busted just when it looked most real."

But through the confession and during his arraignment, the 27-year-old prisoner maintained that criminal intent had been absent from his career; that he was playing an interesting game with dollars, until the play became too fast.

Years ago, he said, he left his mother in Chicago and came here to seek means of support for her and his sisters and brothers. The $100 loan started him borrowing.

He became a "shoe-string" broker. Friends loaned him small sums, which he, in turn, loaned to merchants, who thus were enabled to discount their bills for 6 to 8 per cent, of which Turman got half.

Business improved rapidly. He advertised. He went in for charity and affiliated with society. He became secretary of the Brooklyn Jewish center and, until he resigned a few days ago, was president of the Young Judea movement.

At last he induced an uncle, some cousins and friends to help him finance the Equity company. To those who invested money in the company, Turman is alleged to have promised, and paid for a time, fantastic interest rates, which were supposed to represent profits on deals made through tips from men high in Wall street finance.

The list of complainants includes Lizzie Wilsker, who charges she entrusted $34,000 to Turman and didn't get it back; Moses Laidhold, whose claim is $90,000; Aaron Laidhold, $32,000; Sidney Smith, $30,000; and others.

They received high interest for a time. Then when their loanings or investments with the Equity company had reached considerable size, the interest ceased, they charge, and principal was not forthcoming on demand. The company itself is a complainant, Turman's associates claiming to have lost upward of $340,000.

UNJUST TO DEMAND PAYMENT IN FULL, DEPUTY DECLARES

SPEECH IS APPROVED BY PREMIER HERRIOT

Repudiation Not Asked, But Compensation Demanded for Loss of Men and Money Expenditure.

BY JOHN O'BRIEN.

Paris, January 21.—The storm over America's insistence that France pay her war debts, long brewing under the surface, has broken in the French parliament.

When Louis Marin, a Poincaire deputy, declared in the chamber of deputies Wednesday night that it was unjust to call on France to pay her debts, he was greeted by the practically unanimous applause of the chamber. Giving this sentiment official approval, Premier Herriot jumped up and indorsed Marin's statement, which, Herriot added, was meant not only for France but for the world.

"If America insists that France owes her, we must remember that America owes France," Marin asserted with some heat. France does not intend to repudiate her debts, he added, but demands compensation for her sacrifices of man power, which were not comparable with money.

Compares War Losses.

"France lost a million and a half sons," he declared. "America lost only 49,000. France's war costs were 230 milliards of francs. When France is paying that, how is it possible for her to pay her foreign debts?"

"We have heard much about a business man's settlement of war debts," M. Marin said. "If we were forced to treat on that basis we might ask that some credit be allowed us for eleven billion days of mobilization at five francs per day; we might ask what is the cash value represented by France's holding 715 kilometers of trenches during 1915, while England was looking after 40 and the Belgians 18 kilometers; also, what would be the prices of 1,425,000 lives lost.

"The dollar has become king of the financial world. Never has a country in the history of the world enjoyed such financial and moral power as the United States does now. They cannot demand from a country bled unto death a policy of compensation. It must not come to pass that financial domination will be made the instrument of political domination."

As the deputies voiced their enthusiastic approval, Herriot earnestly stepped forward:

"I thank Marin for bringing up France's war sacrifices," he said. "I ask the chamber not to forget that the present discussion is meant not only for France, but for the world. France is right in recalling the holocaust and showing her wounds in Whole Chamber on Feet.

The entire chamber, with the exception of the communists, leaped to its feet applauding Marin and Herriot. The deputies demanded that Marin's speech be placarded throughout the country as an official statement of the French position and an appeal to the world.

"The allies refused to demand payment from Germany," Marin concluded, "and now they ask France to pay. They refused the guarantee pacts they had promised us. Why shouldn't they give financial aid as compensation? If the present government refuses to adopt a firm attitude toward the allies, somebody will appeal to the country, which will have the last word."

SENATE REQUESTS ARMS CONFERENCE

dicated that he favored a second conference, administration officials have made it plain that he did not consider the time appropriate. For that reason, administration senators had been expected to oppose the King amendment.

While no formal explanation was given, it was understood that these senators offered no resistance to the proposal in the hope of expediting passage of the bill. They had been informed that unless the amendment was written into the measure, there would be a protracted fight from the democratic side.

May Be Eliminated.

A similar proposal, relating only to sea forces, however, was incorporated in the last annual naval supply bill, but the house did not include it in the pending measure, and it is the expectation of some senators, at least, that the King amendment will be eliminated when the bill is considered by house and senate conferees.

The King amendment, as approved, suggests no time for the holding of the conference, leaving that to the discretion of the president.

Senator King said privately he wanted to include Russia among the nations to be invited to the conference, but that he had been told if he did so, his amendment would meet with vigorous opposition. He added that he still was hopeful that by the time the conference was held, there would be a degree of diplomatic relations with Russia that would make it possible for that country to be invited.

McKellar's Resolution.

Final action had been taken on the naval bill before Senator McKellar offered his resolution concerning the Rodney and Nelson. He presented it for incorporation in a resolution he presented yesterday, which would call upon the president for information as to what steps had been taken to arbitrate the question of the elevation of the guns on 13 American battleships, against which Great Britain has entered a protest on the ground that it would be violative of the naval limitation treaty.

With respect to the Nelson and the Rodney, the McKellar resolution would ask the president to obtain from Great Britain the information and inform the senate whether these ships conform to the provisions of that treaty.

Calling attention that the craft had been described in the senate as combined battleships and aircraft carriers, Senator McKellar's resolution would ask whether this is a fact and whether their construction did not violate provisions of the treaty limiting the tonnage and armament of aircraft carriers.

ians, and that it approved the return of the Turk to Europe.

It was said at the time that the treaty was granted by the American representatives in order to induce the Turks to grant the famous Chester concessions to the American syndicate, but that it failed to protect American missionaries and teachers and deprived Americans in Turkey of the protection of American consular courts, enjoyed for a century, and made them subject to the jurisdiction of Turkish courts.

Another group, headed by Dr. James L. Barton of the American board of missions, and chairman of the Near East Relief, approves the treaty and believes that its rejection by the senate would lead to closing of all commercial and other American institutions.

Senator Borah, now chairman of the foreign relations committee, is said to have been cold toward the treaty when it was first negotiated.

FORBES, THOMPSON KEEP OFF STAND

Chicago, January 21.—(By The Associated Press.)—Spirited legal tilts over the competency of proffered evidence marked the final phases today in the veterans' bureau conspiracy trial.

The defense closed its case without having called Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, or J. W. Thompson, co-defendant, to the stand. The action surprised the prosecution, although there had been previous intimations that the defense attorneys considered their reply to the government's evidence ample without the testimony of the principals.

Several days will be required for rebuttal testimony and closing arguments, and the case probably will go to the jury the latter part of next week. Elias H. Mortimer, the principal government witness, likely will be recalled by the prosecution.

Two important allegations in the prosecution's case were disputed today by the defense. W. R. Edwards, member of the Colombian concession syndicate, in which Thompson was interested, testified he never heard of an offer of a $100,000 a year consulting engineer's post for Forbes. Mortimer had testified the offer was held out as "a bait for hospital contracts." Controverting Mortimer, in that his testimony against Forbes had been animated by a hostility engendered by Forbes' relations with Mrs. Mortimer, the defense ordered in evidence a letter in Mortimer's own handwriting, exonerating both of any improper conduct.

"I have investigated these rumors and wish to say that I have never made any of the statements accredited to me," the letter said. It was addressed to Mrs. Mortimer, under date of November 23, 1922, almost a year before Mortimer appeared before the senate veterans' committee. "Further," it said, "I now, as always, hold you in the highest esteem and above reproach in every way. I have also heard the same rumors regarding Col. Charles R. Forbes and Mr. Sidney Bieber and wish to deny these charges also."

The letter first was produced before the senate committee more than a year ago, where Bieber was identified as an associate of Mortimer in various liquor withdrawal projects.

A defense statement, commenting upon the refusal to put Forbes and Thompson on the stand, said that "the complete refutation of all the government's charges" made further testimony unnecessary.

PESSIMISM REIGNS AS OPIUM PARLEY RESTS

in China had been appreciably reduced.

A Swedish delegate, M. Sjostrand, made a powerful appeal for conciliation. He declared that if the conference took action immediately by a vote, it would be tantamount to a breakdown of the conference, and this might check the entire development of the League of Nations. In supporting the Swedish motion for adjournment until Saturday, the Finnish plenipotentiary insisted that collapse of the conference would be fatal for the league.

Still Knocks for Hearing.

Mr. Porter said he had now been in Geneva 64 days and was still knocking at the door of the conference for a hearing on the question of opium smoking.

"I confess I am discouraged as regards the situation, but I accept adjournment because I am ready to confer with anybody."

Mr. Porter then solemnly warned the conference that he would never sign a convention which did not effectively suppress the opium traffic, and he added:

"If I did sign, the chances are that it would not be ratified by the United States senate."

Lord Cecil approved adjournment as the most feasible way out of the deadlock, but he continued: "Contrary to what Mr. Porter has said, I make no declarations of what I will or won't accept."

HANCOCK WILL PUSH PLANS FOR MERGER

ing supervision of finances, is to be returned to control of council, developed Wednesday morning after a conference between Mayor Sims and administration leaders of council.

At the same time, the mayor stated that he thought the proposed merger illegal because of the constitutional amendment passed by the legislature last year, and ratified in the November election, which prohibits merging of any branches of city and county government in cases where a city lies in two or more counties.

He pointed out that a constitutional amendment would be required before the consolidation could be effected, which, of course would mean that no action could be taken toward forming the proposed new district before fall. In the event that nothing was done at that time, no action would be possible until 1927, as the general assembly does not meet next year.

Forms of Referendum.

Several forms of referendum have been proposed recently, one of which would ask the people to decide whether the schools continue to operate under the present system, whether they should be divorced entirely from city government, and operated under a school tax to be levied by the board of education, or whether their control again should be placed under city council.

At the last session of the legislature, a charter amendment was passed giving council the right to take over control of the schools, subject to a referendum. A motion later was passed by council asking that the legislature rescind its action, but the paper was vetoed by the mayor, and the veto sustained.

Backers of the merger base their claims as to its legality on a constitutional amendment passed in 1920, by which school systems located in more than one county can be merged if consent of all counties affected is obtained.

It is practically certain that some action will be taken soon in the school situation, as Mr. Hancock has stated that the department will be unable to operate throughout the year on the money given by council in the January apportionment sheet. The total of $3,100,000 for operation of the schools for this year is approximately $600,000 less than is needed for "minimum school needs," according to Mr. Hancock.

Practically all civil and school authorities, including Mayor Sims, have expressed themselves as favoring the merger, and every attempt will be made to put it into effect as soon as possible.

In answer to a letter from C. C. Bowling, a member of the College Park city council, in which he referred to reports that an ad valorem tax rate of $1.40 might be necessary to support the new district, Mr. Hancock explained that the maximum tax rate, under the constitution, is $1 on $100, and could not be changed except by amending the constitution.

Amendment Necessary.

However, an adjustment of the rate of assessment would be necessary, Mr. Hancock said. In Atlanta, he stated, property is assessed on 70 per cent of its market value, while in Fulton county, taxes are levied on assessments of 70 per cent of the Atlanta valuation, making the assessment really only about 49 per cent of the real market value.

A uniform rate of assessment would have to be installed before the metropolitan district could be established, Mr. Hancock said. The present plan is for the governing body of the district to certify to counties in which the district is located the amount needed, not to exceed, of course, the amount allowed by the constitution.

Bowling's Statement.

Commenting on other phases of the situation, Mr. Bowling said:

"As to constitutional amendments and charter amendments, there seems to be a good deal of confusion, some persons referring to charter amendments as constitutional amendments. If you were going into court you would want a technical lawyer. But the schools are supposed to expound the state constitution, and yet there has appeared in the public prints very little evidence of any popular comprehension of constitutional provisions as affecting our schools. Professor Sutton and John T. Hancock are evidently correct in their assumption that no constitutional amendment will be necessary for the metropolitan district—unless an ad valorem tax rate would be required of over $1, which seems preposterous; and unless a constitutional amendment may be necessary in order for Atlanta to surrender her privileges under the constitution of 1877. If the latter is true, it would be a simple matter—if Atlanta wishes to surrender her privileges of supporting her schools with a percentage of her total revenues instead of by ad valorem taxation.

"As to location of high school buildings, everyone assumes that grammar schools will be localized. If Atlanta comes into the new district, Mr. Howell's suggestion of a boys' high school and a girls' high school each for north side and south side, Atlanta would seem to be the solution; and there should be at least a co-educational high school for East Point, College Park and Hapeville. As College Park and East Point alone are supporing a high school, it will be seen that the patrons in this end of the county would not be content without a high school here, where ozone and land are cheap.

"For a few decades, the tendency was to political subdivision, and the creation of many small offices. The political pendulum is now swinging in the opposite direction, but is impeded by much quibbling over unimportant, or imaginary details. Give us your definite reports, if you please, so that we may get down to business."

DR. W. E. LAMBRIGHT TO REST IN WEST VIEW

Funeral services for Dr. W. E. Lambright, 49, retired Atlanta dentist and prominent real estate man, who died suddenly Tuesday at Miami, Fla., will be held from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Rev. Ashby Jones will officiate and interment will be at West View cemetery.

Dr. Lambright retired from the active pursuit of his profession following a paralytic stroke several years ago, and devoted himself to real estate business. He was in Florida at the time of his death preparing to build a large modern apartment house in Miami. He was owner of the Hamilton, Fairview, St. Regis and El Patio apartments in Atlanta.

Fogs in London have been so heavy at times recently that people had to walk to work, all train, street car or bus transportation being paralyzed.

FIGHT ON PISTOLS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

Further approval and commendation of The Constitution's crusade against the advertising, sale and carrying of pistols were voiced Wednesday in communications from other papers, civic clubs, private individuals and in the form of letters addressed to The Journal of Labor, a publication which has joined The Constitution in the fight on concealed weapons.

The war on the pistol has not been limited to any class or creed, but Georgians from all walks of life have thrown their influence into the fight. Thousands have indorsed the effort to prevent the sale of concealed weapons. Clubs, teachers' organizations, leading attorneys, legislators, business organizations and individuals have expressed their interest and promised their aid.

R. F. Tigner, 91-year-old citizen of White Sulphur Springs, Ga., stated in a letter that he has never owned but one pistol and that was during the Confederate war. He further avers that he found no use for the weapon even at that time.

Directors of the Atlanta Automobile association have indorsed the campaign and praised the "courageous stand" of The Constitution.

Congratulations on the "success of the war against pistol-toters" are contained in a communication from B. F. Fuller, of Calhoun, Ga. The hope that the movement will spread over the southern states also is expressed.

Journal of Labor.

The Journal of Labor carries the following story:

"Since joining with The Constitution in the fight launched by that newspaper for the abolition of the 'hip-pocket pistol,' The Journal of Labor has received many congratulations and expressions of approval. These words have come in from all sides and have indicated beyond doubt that the people are determined to bring about a change in the laws governing the sale of such weapons.

"Following the announcement of The Journal of Labor to support The Constitution in its fight against pistols and to follow the lead of that great daily in refusing to publish advertising matter regarding pistols for sale, The Constitution printed a strong editorial in which The Journal of Labor was highly commended for its action and support for the cause of putting down the pocket pistol. And as an example of the way people of this section feel about the pistol and its abolition, there has been a steady stream of letters and telegrams and rural messages coming into the office of the Atlanta morning paper.

"Other newspapers and periodicals have joined in the fight and are supporting The Constitution and The Journal of Labor in the effort to do away with the prolific cause of homicides in this and other cities of the south. Civic organizations, religious bodies, churches, colleges, and associations in every part of the south are also joining in the fight, while words of support have been received from police officials, judges and court officers with reference to the matter."

Mr. Tigner's letter follows:

"Editor Constitution: I am 91 years old and have never seen a use for a pistol. I never owned one except during the civil war, and had no use for it then.

"I see many suggestions of what to do with the pistol. Why not tax is out of use? It might help to pay part of Georgia's taxes.

"B. F. TIGNER."

White Sulphur Springs, Ga., January 19.

The letter from Mr. Fuller follows:

"Editor Constitution: I wish to congratulate you on the success you are having in your fight against the pistol toters. I hope the good work will spread over all the southern states, and that the legislature will put its shoulder to the wheel and pass such laws as you advocate.

"B. W. FULLER."

Hartwell Kiwanians.

The Hartwell Kiwanis club joined in the fight as is evidenced by the following resolutions passed at a recent meeting.

"Resolved, That the Kiwanis club of Hartwell hereby puts itself on record as favoring the movement now on foot to outlaw the pistol in this state and that The Atlanta Constitution be furnished with a copy of this resolution."

The following letter from C. V. Hohenstein, executive secretary of the Atlanta Automobile association:

"At the board of directors' meeting of our association members of the board unanimously indorsed and commended the anti-pistol campaign initiated and inaugurated by The Atlanta Constitution. It is evident that your courageous stand on this vital question is meeting with the approval of practically the entire community, and it is the sincere hope of the members of the board that you leave no stone unturned to push this campaign to a successful conclusion.

"C. V. HOHENSTEIN,
"Executive Secretary Atlanta Automobile Association."

Other Communications.

Other letters and comments from leading Georgia newspapers follow:

"Editor Constitution: All people should love law and order, and every lover of either admires the fearless stand of The Constitution against pistol carrying.

"T. A. CUNNINGHAM.
"Atlanta, Ga."

Comment from the press follows:

(From Jackson, Ga., Argus.)

"The Atlanta Constitution is waging a crusade against the sale of pistols. It is a fight that ought to bear fruit. The handy pistol is a potent cause of crime. Eliminate whiskey and pistols and you will stop 75 per cent of all crime."

(From Clarkesville Advertiser.)

"The Atlanta Constitution, The Journal of Labor and all other papers should be commended for their stand to outlaw the cowardly pistol, and while they say they will not publish any more advertisements in the interest of the sale and manufacture of these deadly weapons, they should bear in mind that many of the little weekly papers in Georgia never would publish these advertisements."

(From Houston (Tex.) Post.)

"The war on pistol 'totin'' in Atlanta is surely being taken seriously by the authorities in the Georgia city when a judge sentences three offenders to 10 months each on the local chain gang. Pretty stiff sentences for what many people regard as a sort of necessary evil. But jail, or the threat of jail, is the only thing that will deter many from this dangerous habit."

(From Cochran (Ga.) Journal).

"It seems that there is a strong agitation now to outlaw the deadly pistol, which is one of the greatest menaces to civilization, and perhaps the greatest crime agency in the world, especially in America, where life seems very cheap.

"Moonshine whiskey, reinforced by this hip pocket devil, is the cause of more deaths than all the wars our country has ever waged. It is an enemy to humanity and has no real place among a civilized people. Its main object is trouble all the way up from the criminal negro and irresponsible white upstart, robbers and highwayman, to the better class who imagine they have to carry them for protection."

(From Athens Banner.)

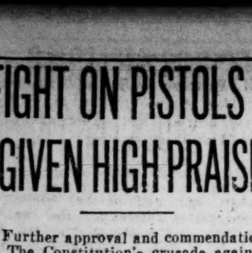

"The Atlanta Constitution is conducting an active campaign against pistol 'toting' and the general use of pistols by criminals. The movement inaugurated by The Constitution is bound to bring results for the good of the country and for the protection of morals and society. The pistol has grown to be the greatest menace to the public and practically every murder is caused by the use of these weapons. The death toll from pistol has grown to an alarming state and unless there are drastic laws enacted by both state legislatures and the federal congress there is no telling where the death toll will reach."

(From Rome News.)

"As dangerous as the pistol is in the hand or pocket of anyone, it is more dangerous in the hand or pocket of an intoxicated person than of one who is sober. Pistols and liquor form a double menace.

"The Atlanta Constitution is engaged in a forceful campaign against the pistol, which has been given the indorsement of law enforcement officers, churches, lodges, newspapers and all individuals or organizations that stand for law and order. The Constitution is advocating even more stringent laws against deadly weapons."

GOVERNOR STARTS ECONOMY DRIVE

Following announcement that the state had been compelled to borrow $2,100 to pay for construction of the new electric chair at Milledgeville, Governor Clifford Walker Wednesday outlined several plans he has in view for future economies in administration of state government.

The electric chair was installed by R. E. Turner, Atlanta city electrician, under authorization of an act passed by the last legislature. No provision for payment was made in the bill, however, it being expected that the expenses could be met out of the state contingent fund. Governor Walker pointed out, however, that appropriation for this fund is only $25,000 and a large part of it is taken up by various expenses of the legislature itself and other set expenditures which have to be met. Practically all incidental expenses at the capitol, such as printing bills, and telephone charges, have to be met out of this fund, as well as rental of the governor's mansion and other similar expenditures.

Appropriation Exhausted.

The appropriation for maintenance of the state capitol and grounds already has been exhausted and the contingent fund is in a badly depleted state.

Several departments are making extensive alterations in their offices this year, the governor said. Expenses of this work are being met entirely out of funds of different departments. The public service commission and the offices of the state game and fish commissioner are making the most extensive alterations.

As an economy move, the private telephone exchange at the capitol is to be abolished and straight line telephones into different departments substituted. Another proposal calls for use of state convicts at the capitol for janitor service, which would result in a reduction of several thousand dollars in the annual payroll at the statehouse.

The governor also is planning a direct appeal to all department heads calling for rigid economy in all official transactions, including reduction in light bills, printing bills, and other incidental expenses.

The governor also plans to go before the legislature and suggest consolidation of a number of state departments under one head, believing large savings could be made if activities of the state government were consolidated under five or six principal departments.

TSINGTAO SEES THREAT IN SOLDIER MOVEMENT

Tsingtao, Shantung Province, China, January 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The vanguard of Shanghai's repatriated soldiers, numbering 4,000, arrived here by ship today and were trans-shipped to Tsinan, the provincial capital. Six thousand more are due tomorrow.

The presence of the former soldiers is looked upon here as constituting a menace to the entire province, where inability to provide work for the men may result in their turning to banditry from necessity.

The soldiers sent to Tsingtao from Shanghai composed the army of Chang Tsung-Min, who was holding the Shanghai area on behalf of the present Peking government. He was forced to surrender the area to armies under Chi Hsieh-Yuan, ally of Wu Pei-Fu, deposed Peking military leader. General Chang's troops, after the defeat, were permitted to enter the foreign settlements of Shanghai, where they were disarmed and interned. In all there were 10,000 men so treated.

Their presence in Shanghai constituting a great expense to commercial interests there, it was decided to charter ships and have them transported to Tsingtao, where they could be released. This was done.

Decision on Receivership Suit Against Car Company Will Be Announced Friday

Judge W. D. Ellis Declares No Actual Crisis Had Arisen as Result of Halting Trolley Service.

Decision on Judge Newt A. Morris' suit for a receiver for the Atlanta Northern railway will be rendered by Judge W. D. Ellis Friday morning at 9 o'clock in Fulton superior court.

The hearing, which began Monday morning, was not concluded until Wednesday afternoon, when Attorney Ben Conyers, in behalf of the railway company, and Judge Morris delivered concluding arguments. Judge Ellis announced that he would render a decision Friday morning and ordered court to reconvene at that time.

Judge Morris spoke for almost two hours. He declared that the State Public Service commission had been created for the purpose of protecting interests, both of the public and corporations serving the public, and that violations of rules and regulations prescribed for corporate interests, coming under jurisdiction of the commission, were flagrant violations of the laws of the state.

Judge Sees No Crisis.

Judge Ellis suggested that the law did not "require impossible or confiscatory things of corporations," in his opinion, and that no crisis had arisen to necessitate a receiver's appointment. Judge Ellis explained that his suggestions were made in an effort to shorten arguments in the case.

"There is no doubt that when the state grants a charter certain things are required," he said, "but the state contemplates that a reasonable compensation shall result. I cannot conceive of law requiring that any individual or corporation do impossible things or confiscatory things."

In discussing the receivership plea, Judge Ellis said in his opinion no actual crisis had arisen on account of stopping car service. He pointed out that if Marietta had no other means of transportation, if it was heatless and without lights, then perhaps the court would be justified in appointing a receiver.

"But Marietta has two railroads, as well as bus lines and automobiles to relieve the situation," he concluded.

Satisfactory Remuneration.

Mr. Conyers resumed his argument following the remarks of Judge Ellis. He maintained that the law contemplates a satisfactory remuneration for a public service corporation and that when a company has proved that this remuneration has not been received there is no legal obstacle to prevent cessation of service.

Judge Norris replied that the right of the Atlanta Northern railway to suspend service is not at issue, but that the question is whether the company had a right to suspend it in the manner it did.

"According to the law," he said, "this company should have gone before the public service commission and asked for a raise in fares or other relief. Inferentially, the law expressly prohibits arbitrary cessation of service."

Judge Interrupts.

Judge Ellis interrupted him here and asked:

"Could the company go before the public service commission now after it has stopped its service?"

"No more than an escaped convict could write a judge that he was coming back to serve his term under certain conditions," Judge Morris replied. "This company, under the law, must continue to serve the public until it surrenders its charter."

"There is a way for railroads in Georgia to cease operation, if that operation is being done at a loss," Judge Morris said, "but the Atlanta Northern railway either didn't know it, or didn't care to know it. Its officials did not set out to cease operation through due process of law. They just stopped it."

Judge Morris quoted from the 1918 act of the Georgia legislature in an effort to show that railroads in the state are not forced to operate at a loss necessarily, provided they go about seeking relief in due process of law.

Ben Conyers' Argument.

"That kind of argument cuts no ice in this particular instance," declared Attorney Ben Conyers, representing the Atlanta Northern railway, "and Judge Morris knows that it doesn't. If the contract simply authorizes a company to render a public service, there is no law which will compel it, even by mandamus proceedings, to operate unprofitably.

"Lack of patronage has made it necessary that the Atlanta Northern abandon operation of its interurban line. Lack of patronage has made a corpse of this railway system and now the petitioner asks this court to galvanize that corpse by forcing it to continue operation of a line that has never paid a dollar in the entire 20 years of its existence.

"I fail to see the difference between taking this line bit by bit, morsel by morsel, and grabbing it and gulping it at one time. It's all piracy. If the petitioner wants this line, if he wants it to further increase the value of the holdings he has secured along this line, let him have it condemned and return to its builders its junk value, but don't make them continue to operate it until they have spent every penny they possess in an effort to maintain a service which people along the line have demonstrated they do not want by patronizing other forms of transportation.

Is Not a Creditor.

"The petitioner is not a creditor of this company and owns no stock in it. The position he maintains is that he has an interest in it because he has property along the line and the value of that property would decrease materially if he should be deprived of the service. He is an unfortunate investor, but the law grants an unfortunate investor no right to make others assume his losses and that's exactly what the petitioner in this instance is seeking to do."

Mr. Conyers then quoted from decisions handed down by the supreme court of the United States and the supreme court of Georgia to substantiate his contention that railroad companies cannot be forced to continue unprofitable operation and to show that certain conditions may justify abandonment.

"In some states," said Mr. Conyers, "the law gives general creditors and stockholders the right to ask the court to intervene in the administration and operation of public service companies, but that doesn't hold in Georgia. In this state not even a general creditor is permitted to seek intervention and in this instance the petitioner is neither a general creditor nor a stockholder.

Same Principles Involved.

"Every case he has cited has involved making an unprofitable business run on and on despite the losses that are incurred in the operation. The same principles are involved in this case and the weight of authorities on the question is in direct contradiction to the views he has expressed.

"The petitioner doesn't seem able to grasp the fact that the Atlanta Northern railway has abandoned the entire system. Not just a portion of the trolley wire. Not just one crosstie. Not just one rail. It has abandoned everything. It has not another penny to devote to its unprofitable operation and has abandoned it. Higher fares, under conditions as they exist now, will not be of material assistance in making it a profitable line.

"The laws of this state say that if a service is devoted to serving the people of the state, that service must be regulated by the public, but laws also bring out that this regulation must be reasonable and not arbitrary. It is beyond the power of congress or state to make a railroad continue unprofitable operation and laws are intended not only to protect the people who depend upon the lines for transportation, but also to protect people who have invested their money in them."

JITNEYS AND BUSSES BARRED BY EAST LAKE

ordinance does not apply to sightseeing busses or "what is generally known as taxicabs."

Holt Gewinner, president of the Georgia Bus association, stated Wednesday night that the action of the East Lake council in banning jitneys and busses from entrance into that municipality would have no effect on the present jitney controversy, inasmuch as, insofar as he knows, jitneys and busses have never run into East Lake.

East Lake Ordinance.

The ordinance, as enacted by the East Lake council, follows in full:

"Be it ordained by the mayor and council of the town of East Lake, and it is hereby ordained:

"Section 1. That from and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person, association or corporation to operate upon or along any part of the public streets, roads or alleys within the corporate limits of the town of East Lake any motor vehicle for the transportation of passengers for hire not operated upon rails, indiscriminately receiving or discharging passengers, or running on a regular route or over any portion thereof, or between fixed termini. This ordinance shall not apply to sight-seeing busses nor shall it apply to what are generally known as taxicabs called by the residents of East Lake or the members, visitors or employees of the East Lake Country club of the Atlanta Athletic club.

"Section 2: That any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished for each offense by a fine not to exceed $100, or by imprisonment not to exceed 60 days, either or both.

Three Busses Added.

Three more large busses will be added to the Marietta line today, it was announced Wednesday night by

$3,544,563 GAS TAXES TO STATE

Georgia received a total of $3,544,563.92 from the state tax of three cents per gallon on all gasoline sold in this state during 1924, according to figures made public Wednesday by W. B. Harrison, tax clerk in the office of Comptroller General William A. Wright. This sum is considerably in excess of the estimated income from this source when the bill was passed in the legislature of 1923, the highest estimate made at that time being $3,000,000.

Of the money collected, one-third goes to the state highway department, one-third to the counties for highwork, divided on a basis of post road mileage ratio, and one-third to the general treasury for retirement of the state W. & A. warrants. The last obligation will have been fully met by July next, it was stated, after which time the state highway department will receive two-thirds of the gasoline tax collections.

Collections for the final quarter of 1924, when all checks are received, will be the largest of the four, it was stated by Mr. Harrison. This is somewhat unusual, the heaviest purchases of gasoline usually being made in the third quarter, when the holiday season is on and weather conditions are better adapted to automobile travel than later in the year. Checks for more than $20,000 still are expected for the final quarter collections. Collections for the four quarters are given as follows: First, $737,278.68; second, $868,350.38; third, $971,255.83; fourth, (incomplete), $967,712.03.

Some of the larger companies and the amount of their gasoline tax payments for the 12 months are as follows:

Standard Oil, $370,070.56; Gulf Refining company, $298,206.42; Texas Oil company, $116,507.54; Waco Pep, $40,763.58; Pan-American, $27,553.32; Reed Oil company, $17,896.56; Peoples Oil company (Augusta), $8,490.39; American Oil company (Savannah), $7,747.17; National Oil company, (Atlanta and Savannah), $5,926.65; Gossett Oil company (Griffin), $5,690.25.

Freight service is expected to be begun on the line Monday. There will be two deliveries a day, according to plans.

TIME FOR OPERATION OF JITNEYS EXTENDED.

Marietta, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—The ordinance which was to go into effect Wednesday at midnight barring jitneys off Marietta streets to prevent competition with the street car line was moved up to go into effect at the end of another five days, at a meeting of council here this afternoon.

Council was in session less than 10 minutes. This was the only matter considered, which means that Marietta is marking time on the jitney-street car situation, and will allow the jitneys to operate until street car service is assured.

At a meeting at Log Cabin, in Lemons district, a town of 200 people, between Marietta and the river, resolutions were adopted asking for an early restoration of the street car service, "which is considered absolutely necessary to the continued convenience and prosperity of our people." "Is is the sense of this meeting," the resolutions further said, "that the present condition of the transportation situation is not satisfactory."

Metropolitan Grand Opera Guarantee Fund Is Opened; $125,000 Asked This Year

Prospects for Financial and Artistic Success Are Better Than Ever, Says Colonel W. L. Peel.

Declaring that prospects for financial and artistic success of this year's season of Metropolitan grand opera are brighter than ever before, Colonel W. L. Peel, president of the Atlanta Music Festival association, Wednesday mailed letters and pledge cards to all former guarantors for the annual week of grand opera.

The amount of the guarantee fund to be raised this year, the letter states is $125,000, the same as in 1924. No increase was asked by the Metropolitan Opera company, he stated, although some of the expenses of the New York company have increased during the twelve months since the last visit of the company to Atlanta.

Selection of opera for this year, as announced in the newspapers last Sunday, is perhaps the best balanced offering the association has been able to make in years, Colonel Peel pointed out. He called special attention to the outstanding success of the current season in New York, "La Gioconda," with its beautiful ballet, "The Dance of the Hours," Verdi's "Falstaff," the revival of which after a lapse of 15 or 16 years created a furore last fall at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the ever popular magnificent Wagnerian masterpiece, "Lohengrin," all of which will be presented here.

A large increase in out-of-town patronage is anticipated this year, it was stated, due partially to the steady growth in interest in Atlanta's opera season, over the entire south, and partially to increased hotel facilities which Atlanta this year is able to offer her guests. In former years, it was said, the association frequently has been obliged to return money for tickets already purchased, because holders were unable to secure hotel accommodations for the week.

Letters have been sent to all former guarantors, but officials of the association asked that all who wish to join in the guarantee get in touch with Colonel Peel at his office in the Atlanta Trust company building, whether they received letters or not.

Preston Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, will address the Citizenship Club of Atlanta, at its luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce, at 12:30 o'clock today. The power company's position in the jitney bus controversy will be his subject, President W. G. Hastings announced.

H. J. Gewinner, president of the Jitney Bus association, has been invited to present his attitude and position at another Citizenship club luncheon next Thursday.

2 SERIOUSLY INJURED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Salisbury, Md., January 21.—Thrown from their automobile when it was hit by a passenger train in Snowhill today, Edward Gillespie, 23, and his wife, a few months his junior, received injuries that may prove fatal. The Gillespies have been married only a few months. Their home is in Pocomoke City.

Their car was rolled over the rails in front of the locomotive cowcatcher for about 125 feet. The couple received internal injuries. They were brought to a Salisbury hospital.

ROSE AND DISMUKE WILL KEEP JOBS

Washington, January 21.—(Special.)—Both F. D. Dismuke, prohibition director at Atlanta, and J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue at Atlanta, are to be retained in the federal service, according to assurances here Wednesday, which came in answer to recent rumors that changes were likely at Atlanta involving these two officers.

At a recent meeting of the Georgia state central republican committee in Atlanta, plans were made for replacing Director Dismuke and Collector Rose, as well as H. G. Boatwright, of Cordele, United States district attorney for south Georgia.

Dr. W. Y. Gilliam, chairman of the committee, and Henry Lincoln Johnson, national republican committeeman for Georgia, were instructed by the committee to present to President Coolidge, with the indorsement of the Georgia republican organization, the names of W. R. Tucker, of Gainesville, Ga., to succeed Director Dismuke; J. H. Watson, colored, of Albany, Ga., to succeed Mr. Rose as collector of internal revenue, and O. M. Duke, of Flovilla, Ga., to replace Mr. Boatwright.

While news of the intended retention of Collector Rose and Director Dismuke was received from Washington, John B. Dove, recently appointed republican adviser of Georgia, intimated that he is preparing a new list which will be forwarded to Washington in the near future.

"No one has authorized the statement that there will be no changes of federal officials in Georgia," Mr. Dove stated. "We are planning to put the party on a firmer basis in this state than ever before and there may be several changes. I have wired Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and other officials regarding them.

"Offices for carrying out of the new policy of entering Georgia politics will be established in the near future. We intend to bring to Georgia the benefits of a two-party organization. That's why I have been placed at the head of affairs in the state."

Dove received a telegram of his appointment to the office as state adviser of the republican party Wednesday, a week ago. The appointment was announced in a message from Senator Howard Sutherland, republican, of West Virginia, he said.

BOYS BELIEVED DEAD FOUND BY DRUG SQUAD

New York, January 21.—Detectives of the narcotic squad searching a downtown section for drug peddlers today identified three 14-year-old boys whom they found living in a furnished room as boys missing from Harlem homes since January 1, all of whom had been reported killed by drowning or railroad accidents in the south.

The boys, Frank Altenheim, John Ward and Joseph Burke, said that on January 1 they went to Pottstown, Pa., stayed there four days, and then went to Wilmington, Del., whence they returned to New York two days later.

PLAN AUDITORIUM FOR THEATER GUILD

Possibility that the Little Theater Guild of Atlanta, some time in the near future, would establish permanent headquarters downtown, with an auditorium which would hold 500 or 600 people, and where rehearsals and plays could be held, was expressed at a meeting of the guild Wednesday night in the banquet hall of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Another important announcement made at the meeting was that Edwin Vail, director of the Lyric players, had consented to direct a play for the guild at an early date.

Mr. Vail was present at the meeting, which was the first held under the administration of Mrs. Willard C. Patterson, newly-installed president, and he promised the guild his cooperation. Mr. Vail touched on the necessity of educating the public to demand more worth-while plays and pointed out that the guild must strive for the betterment of the artistic end of the drama as opposed to the commercial side.

Brief talks were made by the new president, Mrs. Patterson; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. B. M. Boykin, chairman of the committee on international relations of the Atlanta Woman's club, and Mrs. Edgar Neely, president of the Atlanta Drama league. Mrs. Earl Sherwood Jackson gave a reading from Robert Browning.

Officers of the guild are Mrs. Patterson, president; Mrs. Jackson, dramatic director; J. O. Wood, first vice president; George Bush, second vice president and chairman of the dramatic committee; Miss Lila Wash, secretary; Henry Quillian, treasurer, and Charles Chalmers, chairman of the house committee. Twelve new members were announced at the meeting.

But they are such unusual 'jamas that they must come to light. They simply must.

BUILDING SUPPLY MEN HOLD FINAL SESSION

Discussions concerning problems of dealers and manufacturers featured the closing session Wednesday morning of the Southern Builders' Supply association's sixth annual meeting, held in the Biltmore hotel.

The convention halls were opened at 10 o'clock and unfinished business matters were taken up. The newly-elected board of directors of the association called a special meeting for officers of 1925, nominated Tuesday, who discussed plans for the ensuing year and outlined activities.

In the afternoon the visitors were shown over the city and taken to Stone Mountain, where they viewed the progress of the carving of the Confederate memorial.

Reports indicate that the results of the convention will be closer relationship between the customer and the dealers and manufacturers and that a prosperous year will be enjoyed during 1925.

While in the city the delegates were given special courtesy cards to a number of the leading golf clubs of the city, besides a nice entertainment program.

Another Distinguishing Mark of Miller Bonds

WE have adopted, as a policy, a plan which safeguards first mortgage bonds secured by leasehold. Under this plan the net earnings of the property are pledged, not only to pay interest and principal of the bonds, but also to pay ground rent, insurance, taxes and other obligations of the lease. Monthly payments out of earnings are made by the borrower to a trustee, and cover these charges against the land lease.

This system of protecting leasehold bonds has been thoroughly approved by lawyers and real estate authorities. For the moment it is the Fifth Distinguishing Mark of Miller Bonds. We trust, however, that this leasehold provision will not long be confined to Miller Bonds, since it may be used with equal effectiveness by first mortgage bankers everywhere in their own leasehold issues as they see fit.

The Four Distinguishing Marks of Miller Bonds enable every investor to check up and test any issue of Miller First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds just as he would any other bond issue for Safety, Validity, Character of Security and Interest Rate. From comments which investors have made to us, we believe that these Four Distinguishing Marks actually meet an important need—the need of complete information about real estate mortgage issues. Call, telephone or mail the coupon below for descriptive circular of the 6½% bonds secured by the Hart Building, New York City, which embody the Four Distinguishing Marks and also the above-mentioned leasehold feature of the Miller plan.

Bright Era of Industrial And Commercial Expansion Seen by Senator George Delivers Principal Address at Freight Bureau Session—New Directors Are Elected.

Expressing belief that the United States is facing one of the greatest eras of industrial and commercial expansion that this country has ever known, Senator Walter F. George, junior senator from Georgia, delivered the principal address before the twenty-third annual meeting and banquet of the Atlanta Freight bureau Wednesday night in the ballroom of the Biltmore hotel.

The elaborate affair was attended by about 300 members of the bureau and guests, among the distinguished guests being Senator George, Governor Clifford Walker, Mayor Walter A. Sims, members of Atlanta city council, aldermen, members of the Fulton county commission and judges of the supreme court of Georgia.

The meeting was presided over by W. B. Willingham, chairman of the board of directors of the bureau. An interesting report of activities during the past year of the freight bureau was given by Harry T. Moore, secretary and traffic manager. The report indicated that the bureau, during the past year, has made great progress toward receiving lower freight rates for commodities coming into and going out of Atlanta, enumerating a long string of commodities upon which freight rate reduction has been brought about by means of the bureau's activities. The report also showed that 60 new members have been added to the bureau during the past year, bringing the total membership up to 275.

The report of the secretary, as well as that of the treasurer, I. A. Hirshberg, were unanimously adopted by the bureau membership.

New Directors Named

A nominating committee, named by Chairman Willingham, nominated the new directors for the bureau for 1925, all of whom were unanimously elected: Following are the directors:

J. R. Bachman, H. E. Choate, F. B. Coleman, R. C. Clonts, John M. Cooper, Beaumont Davison, G. P. Dozier, Thomas R. Frazer, Arthur I. Harris, I. A. Hirshberg, George M. Hope, W. C. Holleyman, F. A. Hovt, Bolling H. Jones, K. K. Kelley, F. M. Marsh, J. R. Mobley, E. S. Papy, Jack Pappenheimer, James J. Ragan, Meyer Regenstein, Ralph Rosenbaum, Howard See, George W. West, Harold B. Wey, W. B. Willingham, Sr., George Winship.

Among those who made brief addresses in addition to Senator George were Mayor Sims, Virlyn Moore, chairman of the Fulton county commissioners; Chairman Willingham, Harry T. Moore, Bolling Jones and Edgar L. Watkins, attorney for the Atlanta Freight bureau. All of the speakers congratulated the bureau upon the work that it has accomplished in protecting Atlanta interests.

No More Paternalism.

Senator George spoke along the lines of the extent to which business is dependent upon governmental policies. He pointed out how all nations of the world are turning back to the old, tried and tested policies of government, and how this swing is destined to bring to the United States an era of expansion in all lines of business, provided that it is not abused.

"The one hope of the United States for expansion of industry and commerce is based on the fact that the government has adopted a 'hands-off' policy in business, leaving it to the individual," said Senator George. "If the individual will not abuse this privilege, and see to it that the old radical forces which are always waiting in the offing do not step in, then business all over the country will progress in leaps and bounds."

PROF. SUTTON SPEAKS TO CHICAGO DENTISTS

Chicago, January 21.—The destiny of most children is seated before they see schoolhouses, Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools of Atlanta, Ga., said in addressing the 61st annual convention of the Chicago Dental society here today. The need of earlier care of the teeth among children was today's topic of the 10,000 dentists here.

Declaring that the importance of health education cannot be minimized, Mr. Sutton said it is the duty of welfare workers to "get at the bottom of things and lift the rising generation up to their possibilities." He said Atlanta is saving money formerly spent on reeducating backward children by fixing their teeth. The numbers of morons has been greatly reduced, he said, and former delinquents are "measuring up in every way now that their teeth are sound."

Dr. Harold S. Smith, Chicago, said this city is paying a half million dollars every year to educate children who are backward in their studies because of diseases due to neglect of their teeth.

Last year, in America 150,000 persons dropped dead from heart disease, said Dr. Dan U. Cameron. "A great percentage of these cases have been attributed to degenerative conditions due to bad teeth."

BLUE RIDGE BANK ELECTS OFFICERS; IS ON HONOR ROLL

Blue Ridge, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fannin County bank, the officers submitted a very satisfactory report of the past year's business, and the usual 8 per cent dividend was paid and a substantial amount left in the undivided profits account.

This bank's surplus and profits account now stands at $21,000, or $6,000 more than its capital stock. This places it on the roll of honor among the banks of the United States, a position which only one bank in ten holds.

The old board of directors were re-elected, consisting of William Butt, J. B. Chastain, J. M. Eaton, J. F. Holden, James R. McKinney, G. W. Phillips and Sam Tate. The old officers were reelected and John L. Love, of Morganton, Ga., was added to the list of employees. Colonel William Butt is attorney for the bank and chairman of its finance committee.

Those actively engaged in the bank and giving all their time to its service are J. F. Holden, cashier, Miss Ellen Carver and John C. Love, assistants.

On March 13, Cashier Holden will have completed 25 years' continuous service with this bank and its predecessors.

MAIN HIGHWAYS OF GEORGIA OPEN

000 when all reports are in, Chairman John N. Holder stated Wednesday, although it was also pointed out that definite figures on this point would not be available until all repair work had been completed and final reports turned in.

Advices already received by Chairman Holder show that six bridges have been destroyed, while an even greater number of culverts have been washed away by flood waters in various rivers and streams. In addition to the direct loss by damage to bridges and highways, Mr. Holder also pointed out that contractors engaged in construction projects on the roads probably have lost $25,000 or more by injury to partially completed work, and equipment.

In addition to the six bridges destroyed, two others, it is said, still are in danger from flood waters, one a concrete and steel structure at Montezuma and the other a bridge over the Ocmulgee about three miles east of Abbeville.

Bridges Damaged.

Among the bridges most seriously damaged is one located between Griffin and Newnan, spanning the Flint river, near Senoia, which is of wood and steel construction. The loss to this piece of construction alone will total around $50,000, it was pointed out by Chairman Holder.

A significant phase of the reports received by Chairman Holder, it was stated, was that of all of the bridges destroyed or damaged, that there is not a single instance where a bridge that was erected by the highway department that has been washed away, all of the bridges being those which were constructed by the various counties and "inherited" by the department when it took over the road system of the state. This feature, according to Mr. Holder, was a creditable one for the department. This applies also, it was said, to a number of culverts that have been washed away.

Schedules Almost Normal.

A rapid return to normal schedules was reported Wednesday by railroads running out of Atlanta. Damage to railroad tracks consisted mostly of sections of track washed away by the heavy floods and small bridges and culverts destroyed. These are being replaced as rapidly as possible, and it is believed that railroad travel in all parts of the state will be normal again by Thursday night at the latest.

The A., B. & A. railway reported that all interruptions of service on its lines because of the high water have been remedied and that normal freight and passenger traffic has been restored. The company stated that while floods had caused considerable property damage to its track at various points, there had been no loss of life.

The Southern and Central of Georgia, Wednesday, were still using the tracks of the Georgia, Southern & Florida line between Macon and Jacksonville, while the Southern was running no trains between Macon and Brunswick.

Several N., C. & St. L. trains ran late Tuesday night, but practically normal schedules had been restored on that line Wednesday.

Stokes, vice president and general manager of Davison-Paxon-Stokes company, will be elected president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, according to announcements preceding the eleventh annual election, which will be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight at an elaborate banquet at the Biltmore hotel. A full set of officers will be elected and an elaborate entertainment program has been prepared by a committee under the direction of Samuel Rothberg. More than 400 leading Atlanta merchants are expected to attend.

Ernest G. Hastings, of Washington, Pa., and president of the Caldwell chain of department stores, will be principal speaker. He is recognized as one of the leading figures of the nation in the retail field, and will speak on "The Mental Side of Retailing."

The nominating committee, of which F. J. Paxon is chairman, will make its report. A president, a vice president, and six other vice presidents representing various lines of trade affiliated with the association will be elected.

The report of A. L. Myers, retiring president, and that of Executive Secretary C. V. Hohenstein will be features of the dinner.

A musical program will be followed by the annual drawing for prizes. Many beautiful gifts are donated each year for the annual drawing.

COMMITTEE TO HUNT LANDING FIELD TODAY

Mayor Walter A. Sims, Colonel Charles H. Danforth, of the Fourth Corps area headquarters; Lee Cone, president of the Atlanta Aero club; Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the international relations committee of the Atlanta Woman's club, and Mrs. Arthur Hazzard and Mrs. Newton C. Wing will make an inspection tour today in search of a landing field for the world fliers, who will arrive in Atlanta March 13. Lieutenants John Harding and Lowell Smith are coming to Atlanta on invitation of the Woman's club.

Two lectures will be given by the fliers at the Wesley Memorial church auditorium, one for children in the afternoon of March 13, and another at night for adults, according to announcement by Mrs. Wing.

The international relations committee from the Woman's club, which is in charge of entertainment features of the visit, is planning an elaborate entertainment for the visitors. Details will be announced later.

1 KILLED, 2 HURT IN ELEVATOR FALL

Charles L. McDonald, 45, of 213 Stewart avenue, is dead and two other men are seriously injured as the result of an elevator accident late Wednesday afternoon in the A. C. Miller company's building at 115 Courtland street.

McDonald died of internal injuries while in an ambulance en route to the hospital, following an heroic attempt to save another workman, F. W. Ewing, who was pinned beneath the elevator.

O. G. Hughes, who is said to live on Washington avenue, is in a serious condition—probably suffering from internal injuries—in a local sanitarium.

F. W. Ewing, 20, of 523 South Main street, College Park, is suffering from several broken ribs. His condition is not serious.

Ewing an employee of a local elevator company, was repairing a freight elevator in the Miller company building when supports gave way and he was pinned beneath the car. McDonald and Hughes, who were assisting him, went to his rescue.

An automobile on the elevator shifted as the two men were lifting it from Ewing's body and both were pinned between the auto and the wall.

McDonald is survived by his widow; his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McDonald, of Parksville, S. C.; three brothers, Gene and Walter McDonald, of Parksville, and Fletcher F. McDonald, of Rome; and two sisters, Miss Annie McDonald and Mrs. Emma Brunson of Parksville.

The body was removed to H. M. Patterson funeral parlors, where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

JURY TRYING POPHAM LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

Tallahassee, Fla., January 21.—After deliberating for ten hours, the jury in the case of William Lee Popham and associates, who have been on trial in federal court here for 10 days on charges of fraudulent use of the United States mail, was locked up shortly before 10 o'clock for the night.

It was announced that if they reach a verdict during the night, that it would be sealed and delivered to Judge Grubb when he convenes court at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

MAYFIELD SEATING IS RECOMMENDED

Washington, January 21.—The contest against the election of Senator Mayfield, democrat, Texas, apparently was ended today when the senate elections subcommittee, which has conducted extensive hearings on the case, recommended unanimously that he be seated.

The subcommittee report on the charges filed by George E. B. Peddy, republican and independent democratic candidate against Mayfield in the 1922 election, will be presented to the full election committee Friday, and early action is expected by Chairman Spencer, republican, Missouri.

The subcommittee's action concluded hearings continuing for more than a year, in which particular attention was given to Peddy's charges of excessive expenditures, fraud and intimidation in the campaign. Pending conclusion of the case, Senator Mayfield has been holding the disputed seat in the senate.

Mr. Peddy, in filing his contest, asserted that Senator Mayfield was the candidate of the Ku Klux Klan, and that this organization had conspired in the election to defeat and violate federal and state statutes. The name of the klan was brought frequently into the hearings.

In the course of the injuiry, the subcommittee had the ballots of the election recounted, and it was declared such count favored Senator Mayfield. At the last session the committee declared unfounded the charges of excessive expenditures, but eight additional witnesses were heard at this session on the charges of fraud and intimidation.

The subcommittee, in addition to Chairman Spencer, included Senators Watson, Indiana, and Ernest, Kentucky, republicans; and King, Utah, and Neely, West Virginia, democrats.

Soaks Right In and Quickly Limbers Up Stiff Creaky Joints

Pharmacists call it "Joint-Ease" because it's for Swollen, Sore Painful, Creaky Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain-racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

AUGUSTA'S LEVEE LESSON.

There is an irresistible lesson in the magnificent protection to Augusta afforded by her $2,000,000 levee system.

With the Savannah river rising to a rampage height of 36½ feet Monday night, the streets of that city was water-proof, as far as the river was concerned.

The citizens proceeded about their respective businesses during Monday, when the river's stage kept creeping up foot by foot.

The city was protected by the great levee system that it had foresight and nerve enough to build.

As it is, instead of property damages that would have reached into the six figures at least, and possibly with heavy loss of lives, immeasurable in monetary values, the city of Augusta gets an advertising abroad, and a sense of security and pride at home worth many times more than the investment in the levees.

It is a lesson that is unfailing in practice. It pays any city—any county or state, as for that matter—to construct its essential improvements, and use the credit facilities afforded by law for doing so.

Under Georgia's conservative statutes the credit of a municipality in bond issues can never be strained. How absurd it is, therefore, not to utilize the bonding ability in providing for the developments that create greater property values and greater contentment and health and prosperity of the whole people.

Atlanta could do no more progressive act than to bond for the building of an adequate school system—one that would give assurance that no child in Atlanta should be denied the privileges of graded and high schools.

Atlanta's public debt today is barely one-half of what her digests make possible, and every pressing, needed improvement should be made by the utilization of her legitimate credit.

It is the way of progress. Let the story of Augusta's levee development impress its lesson!

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

On this page is a communication from the Bainbridge Motor Car company, commending the very excellent analysis of the appalling automobile theft situation in Georgia, published in The Constitution Sunday.

It developed, with astounding figures, a situation that ought to reach every member of the Georgia assembly and impress the necessity for remedial action at the approaching session.

The Constitution time and again has urged legislative action that would put a stop to, or certainly materially lessen, automobile thieving in the state. It is inexplicable that such a law has not been enacted, for it is as simple as the law of realty registration, and just as important.

In 1924 there were 1,200 automobiles stolen in Georgia, involving property losses, including repairs to cars recovered, estimated at fully $6,000,000. This led, in number of thefts, any state in the Union in proportion to number of licensed cars. The stolen car is usually employed in illegal pursuits until sold. A great deal of the whisky running is conducted by means of stolen automobiles.

If Georgia's legislature should enact a simple law requiring the conveyance of cars be made only by registerable instrument, such as fee-simple deeds, bonds for deeds, leases, etc., and then require that such instruments of conveyance shall be registered with the clerk of the county in which the transaction takes place, the wholesale thievery of cars would stop. Any honest man buying a car would demand evidence of title and character of title, and a thief who could not present such an evidence would be thus exposed in his crime.

Certainly Georgia cannot go along in the present careless, indifferent, crime-breeding course regarding automobile ownerships and transfers. It is ridiculous to assume as much. The 1925 legislature must take heed of this situation.

SOUTH'S PORTS ON PARITY.

The United States Shipping Board has acted wisely in dissolving the preferential rate agreements that discriminated against some of the ports to the advantage of others. It means, as very forcibly expressed by Commissioner F. I. Thompson, who instigated the last hearing, "the emancipation" of the south Atlantic and gulf ports from a most unfair and unreasonable shipping penalty, and will be the means by which Savannah and other southern ports can and will become active bidders for the coastwise and export commodity shipments from the middle west. With preferentials of 7½ cents a hundred in favor of some of the eastern ports as against the southeastern ports, and of 15 cents a hundred as against gulf ports, the south's shipping interests have necessarily suffered since the discriminations have existed, and without cause.

The effect has been disastrous for the shippers, directly reaching the welfare of the producers, as well as a general penalization of southern port interests for the reason that delays have resulted from congestion, and perishable and semi-perishable commodities have been lost in great quantities. Wheat is semi-perishable, and the congestion of export wheat on New York and Philadelphia docks, without adequate elevator facilities, has but recently caused enormous losses.

The Constitution has waged a vigorous fight for the removal of these discriminating rate differentials, and the victory won before the shipping board, if utilized properly without the arousing of any rate wars between individual ports, will have an influence most helpful to general business.

TEXAS' NEW GOVERNOR.

There was an element of unstudied spirituality in the ceremonies inaugurating Mrs. M. A. Ferguson the chief executive of Texas that augurs well.

It had a touch of sincerity that appealed.

The woman, a wife, mother, matured, and possessing a full measure of common sense, realized the great responsibility that she was assuming.

At the same time she showed no frivolity, no levity, no spirit of conquering self-satisfaction.

She realized the gravity of the hour, and the force of her personal as well as official influence as the chief administrator of one of the nation's great states.

In pleading for a "higher standard of morals and purity of life and conduct," and in making "cooperation" the keystone of her official policy, she touched the highest notes of administrative idealism.

Mrs. Ferguson begins her term as governor with the inspiration of a Woodrow Wilson picture hanging from the executive walls, a white rose of purity on the executive desk and the Book of Books before her as an unfailing guide. A more auspicious setting could not be conceived.

Texas, wrought from the intrigues of invisible government by the force of a noble woman in whom the people have confidence, will now find in her an executive of ability and character—and a dynamic force for harmony and progress.

You needn't sing at your work to prove that you are happy. The work itself will be the best evidence of that.

A learned professor says "the cave man was tame." Probably—after the cave woman clubbed him into submission.

Don't know whether the raincrows brought the long rain or the brethren who pray for it on principle.

It takes a vast army of men to trail a small regiment of bootleggers.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

Stone Mountain and Robert E. Lee

I.

From out the dim past's ghostly years, through avenues of chance,
He rides, unknown to human fears, the dust-worn Grey's advance.
Memory draws back the veil once more, again we see them ride

II.

Adown the corridors of time the echoed hoof-beats ring,
Again to southern skies sublime the flag we love they fling.
A babe held close to aching breast, as the grey line marches by.

III.

But there is one who, silent, stands alone, on charger white,
The fate of country in his hands; a deep desire for right
Within the noble heart of him, and so he dared to ride
Leading that grey line ever on that War be satisfied.

IV.

Out of the long-gone ghostly years he leads the host of grey,
Unheeding all our praise and tears given to him today.
Dust-soiled, grim-faced, sun-tanned they ride, Lee like a King, ahead,
Love, love and tears. O open wide Fame's gateway for our dead.

A Life-Review.

Writing in Collier's, of life as he has found it, Philosopher E. W. Howe says—

"I have not found life so bad as represented. I had poor surroundings until I ran away from home and as a boy worked with rough men as a printer, but I found them so kind that the experience remains a grateful recollection. The women where I boarded took an interest in me and tried to direct me in the right way, gently and pityingly.

"The strongest suggestions of heaven in my life have come from the tenderness and love of women. The most admirable thing in the world is the young girl of 12, 13 or 14; and I have known girls to retain all their admirable qualities to the age of 20, and longer, and shower blessings on husbands. Such conditions do not always last, but exist long enough to suggest gratitude."

It's never "grouchtime" with The Albany Herald. It says—

"Find a company of long-faced people gazing disconsolately out of the windows and wondering whether the world will come to an end today or tomorrow. Hear them sigh, as they disconsolately diagnose the evils of the day and wonder why the bottom hasn't dropped out of everything long since. See them mop their clammy brows as they wonder when the tornado will hit the town. Observe their rapt attention as the Grand Moloch of the Order of Community Grouches expatiates on the general delinquency of the times and the perversities of an untoward generation.

"And notice what happens when there breezes in through the front door one of these always-cheerful individuals, with the greeting: "Hello, folks! How's everybody at home?"

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EYES WE SEE NOT.

We sometimes think that we are alone. But we are never alone.

The absent eyes of scores of those who love us or who are interested in us are always looking our way. History has eyes. Every noble element in life which is able to inspire us to take better heart has eyes.

In our loneliest moments eyes from a thousand sources look down upon us. We can keep nothing from our better selves.

Then there is "God, who never rests or wearies," who looks with His gentle and kindly eyes upon every moment in which we breathe and have our being.

In this library where I write are three vacant chairs. Five cases filled with books and three tables all with laps overburdened with books—and each chair with a loved friend sitting there "keeping company" to me in my silent thoughts, with each book having eyes which I see not. Each night that I spend here is filled with beautiful happiness because some new and invisible friend drops in to fill the vacant chairs.

Many times I smile at some unseen and unknown Letter Friend who has so inspired me by some kindly, thoughtful expression of praise and appreciation.

I am very certain that most of my sins and mistakes are washed clean by the look from eyes that I see not.

Distant and unseeing eyes are always so very forgiving, so very tolerant and kind.

To my left I see a brown covered book containing the sweet and bubbling humor of a friend with whom I used to sit, talk and love the hours away. For years now the heart of the earth has had to love his silent soul, but his eyes twinkle to me tonight as I write and his strong and sterling self returns to be with me again.

Eyes we see not. How scattered they are! But we do better and are so much braver as we realize that they follow us wherever we go and in all that we do.

BITS OF SOUTHERN LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

Houston, Texas, January 21.—We went out to "Tall Timbers," Mike's country place named appropriately by his friend, Irvin Cobb this morning. And I had a romp with my namesake, a Chesapeake hunting dog. His running mate is named Cobb. But they call him "Ivory."

Fine animals, but Ajax has won my heart. He is a 5-year-old Belgian police dog who stays at the Houston home. Ajax tried to dispute the right of way with an automobile two months ago and has a limp, but it has not stilled his joyous spirit.

Every once in awhile, for no reason at all, Ajax begins a circle of neighboring estates barking as though he had treed a panther. It is a deep-throated ferocious bark, but it only means that Ajax wants to tell the world he is still alive and kicking.

It is a treat to see Ajax at play with a two-months-old water spaniel puppy. The puppy cuffs him around, nips at his ears and otherwise bullies him, but Ajax permits him like the gentleman he is. Now and then he picks the puppy up tenderly and shakes him.

Then he backs away, eyes him quizzically as much as to say: "Take that, you little fat rascal, and don't get fresh with your elders." Upon rare occasions Ajax is permitted to drowze in front of the open hearth, but when his master says quietly: "You've been here long enough!" Ajax walks out obediently but crestfallen.

During one sleepless night I was impressed more than ever with the fidelity of the dog by a habit of Ajax's. We were on a sleeping porch. Three times Ajax came quietly into the room, went to his master's bed and in the moonlight I could see him departing with a slowly wagging tail as though to say: "All's well!"

As I write Ajax is stretched alongside my chair. Now and then there is a faint growl and a twitching of his body—the dream of the chase. How devoted our dogs are. How tragic it is to lose them!

There is a famous dog in Houston of 25 years ago. He was a fox terrier named Sport. He was the member of a hunting expedition and after the hunt his picture appeared on first pages all over the country. The hunters treed a panther's belly and they fell to a panther, but his master was a young boy who had been taken along. Sport sensed danger and while cowboys were winding up their lariats to rope the varmint Sport dashed up the tree to a limb below—made a jump for the panther's belly and they fell to a ravine, the panther's sharp claws tearing him to shreds. Sport was miraculously saved by a great surgeon and lived to old age in the comfort that was his due.

Tonight we are going down to Eagle lake in Louisiana to shoot ducks. That is other members of the party are to do the shooting. I know as little about hunting as a flea does about geometry. I once shot a rabbit and saw it crawl away in the brush mortally wounded to die. The thought of it still gives me a twinge. Herein, I suppose, I am a real tenderfoot.

Bassett Blakely phoned this afternoon to ask me to join him at the Houston club. I asked him what the program was. "Just a crown down here," he said, "and we'll sit around, talk big and lie." I will be much more accomplished at this than at hunting.

Houston has a very superior traffic system. Not only do they flash lights at street corners for the motorist, but they ring bells to warn pedestrians. Most of our cities do not give pedestrians a thought—except to furnish ambulances.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

A Zealot.

One of the most interesting attractions for the hundreds of thousands of tourists who are flocking to Rome from all parts of the earth to attend the Holy Year celebrations is the great missionary exhibition in the pavilions of the vatican gardens. Weapons, utensils, tools, idols from the most backward races are shown here. Missionaries who labor in these countries accompany the visitors and explain the various objects on display. Six large pavilions house the collection and several native chiefs from New Guinea have accompanied the missionary fathers and are marveling at the grandeur of Rome and the tremendous monuments of civilization. One of the Papuan chiefs, who was converted to Christianity only a few years ago, was presented to the supreme pontiff. The former head-hunter is an enthusiastic believer, but it cannot be driven into his head that the drama of Calvary was enacted as long as 2,000 years ago, according to a Rome paper's account of his sojourn there. For he expressed a desire to meet some of the soldiers who had been present at the execution of Jesus. Whether the man had quite peaceful intentions is not mentioned in the dispatches, but it may well be that he had a similar feeling as Clovis, the king of the Franks. When Clovis was told of the crucifixion he exclaimed with savage fury: "Oh, if I only had been present with my Franks!"

* * * *

"You Gentiles."

The book of Maurice Samuels entitled "You Gentiles," which contains such a stinging slap in the face to Christian civilization, is subjected to severe criticism by Bertha Wallerstein in The Nation. The reviewer thinks Mr. Samuels rather bold to enter a field where scientists fear to tread by assuming that Mr. Samuels has endeavored to establish a fundamental biological or anthropological difference between Jew and Gentile. It is true Mr. Samuels does not see the possibility of Jew and Gentile parallel roads leading to the same goal of civilization and progress. That is indeed regrettable to a believer in humanity's indivisible unity. But it is not his unwillingness to see that blinds him. It is the suffering of the Jew, the never-ending persecution, the hatred and discrimination against his race, that has wrung this bitter cry from Samuels' heart. The Jew has been condemned for everything he does or thinks and not the least of all for being a cringing, apologetic creature. Here then is Samuels, a Jew who fights back. He is damned anyway, so he may as well be damned standing up as lying down, he writes. There will be Jews and Gentiles enough to sneer and shrug their shoulders at his contribution, just as there are plenty of people who say that there is no such thing as anti-Semitism. Samuels' background is the Rumanian ghetto. No man familiar with the scene or memory of pogroms, women and children violated and murdered, venerable fathers ripped by bayonets, young and old butchered in cold blood, can be expected to have such a pleasant opinion of the serenity and charitable character of Gentile civilization. Though we deplore the hopelessness of Mr. Samuels' outlook, we nevertheless concede the force of his arguments.

A Balkan War.

M. Joffe, soviet representative in Vienna, tells some reporters of the Vienna Neue Presse that there is a grave possibility of a new Balkan war. He points to the formation of an anti-soviet league, of which several of the Balkan states and their neighbors are members. "Do you think," he asks, "that Russia is forever going to countenance this plotting and arming at her borders?" So speaks the representative of proletarian Russia, but it rather sounds like an imperialist diplomat of the old school. As a matter of fact communism is adopting some of the old imperial characteristics in her foreign relations. Joffe and Radek have, time and again, asserted that Russia will never be able to develop the tremendous latent resources of the country without possession of Constantinople. This is the same argument that caused the British lion and the Russian bear to glower at each other for more than a century in the past. In addition, Russia seeks to extend her sphere of influence over Asia, a region where the lion considers himself supreme. A war in the Balkans would be a magnificent opportunity to throw the world in chaos once again with the chance that Russia may gain some advantage while other nations were at each other's throat. Still Russia has not the equipment to fight a war of any size. A border quarrel with Rumania or Esthonia, that she could possibly handle to her own advantage. But when it comes to Poland or Britain the situation changes.

A Joyful Age?

"We are actually living in the most joyful age, for all around us there is progress and advancement and wondrous achievement," remarks a California clergyman. Truly, there is quite a change in the world, with cross-word puzzles, jazz and radio. But whether this is the most joyful age of all times could easily be made a matter of doubt with a little inquiry among the ancients. The Babylonians knew how to amuse themselves long before the Moulin Rouge was built, and though the Romans stalked quite majestically at the Forum Romanum, they could have some rather gay parties in their closely-shuttered villas down the Appian way. The banquets of our days are solemn affairs compared with the feasts given by the patrician Jerusalemers in the days of Ben Sirach. Our ways of amusement seem often so artificial, so unnatural, while on the other hand moral censorship, highly developed in our days, drives people to excess. There ought to be a middle way. Progress and advancement ought to gladden the heart, to be sure. But a foaming cup, taken in moderation and without fear of snoopers, also goes a long way.

War Secretary Pays Tribute To General David C. Shanks

Washington, D. C., January 21.—(Special.)—Secretary of War John W. Weeks today addressed a letter to General David C. Shanks, retiring commander of the fourth corps area, giving him high praise for "meritorious and conspicuous service."

The war secretary cited one "especial" achievement, declaring that General Shanks had successfully directed the greatest troop shipments the world has ever known. This was during the world war when General Shanks supervised the port of embarkation at Hoboken, N. J., and directed shipments of more than a million and a half soldiers overseas.

The letter follows in full:

My Dear General Shanks:

Upon the occasion of your separation from the active list of the army I desire to express to you the department's appreciation of the valuable services you have rendered your country.

In the forty-four and a half years that have elapsed since you entered the military academy you have rendered excellent service in a wide variety of assignments—at Indian frontier posts, on college duty, with your infantry regiments, with the civil governments in the Philippines, with troops during the insurrection, and while detailed in the inspector general's department. You have made a noteworthy record as the commander of two corps areas.

Yet there is one especial achievement on your record, an achievement which contributed in a very definite and concrete fashion to our successful participation in the world war. From July, 1917, to September, 1918, you rendered especially meritorious and conspicuous service in the administration of the port of embarkation at Hoboken, N. J., in connection with the shipment of troops overseas.

Up to the time when you were relieved from that post and assigned to command of the sixteenth division—at your own earnest request for a combat command—you had efficiently and expeditiously handled the forwarding of over a million and a half American soldiers to the battle fronts of France. In the critical days of the early summer of 1918, you successfully directed what were probably the greatest troop shipments the world have ever known.

Like every great administrator you have understood the hearts and minds of the men who have passed under your control. Your little book on the "Management of the American Soldier," written during the stress of the war period, ranks as a military classic. You have shown a fine insight into the spirit of the American in arms and a keen understanding of the basic problems of military man-power.

As you relinquish active duty, you will have the soldier's satisfaction of having performed your duty in an exceptionally able manner and of having earned the gratitude of the nation. I hope you will enjoy the rest from your labors, which your services have earned.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) JOHN W. WEEKS,
Secretary of War.

Automobile Dealer Commends Article on Automobile Thievery

Editor Constitution: We commend most heartily the article on "Unprotected Automobile Owners Easy Prey for Wily Thieves" in your issue January 18.

We have been realizing for the past two years that something must be done or some legislation passed in order that the car owner and automobile dealer may be protected.

We as authorized Ford dealers are in position to have the facts daily before us as to this present locality.

If the automobile dealer expects to continue in business, he must certainly be protected as well as the automobile owner.

The writer will ask the representative from this county to introduce a bill in the next legislature along the same line as outlined in this article.

HEALTH TALKS

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO FEET.

The reason why bunions are not nearly so popular among the young set today as they were a decade or more ago, is that the vogue in shoes has finally taken the natural or anatomical line which has long been urged by the hygienists. Perhaps never before have we had such healthful shoes available as the shoe manufacturers of the country are giving us at present. Let us pray that this consummation may hold fast against the machinations of the quack interests in the shoe business. The diminishing prevalence of bunion is only one of the happy effects of the reform in shoemaking; there are many other foot ailments similarly preventable, however unresponsive they may be to the gimcracks or the shoe store "foot specialist."

The footprint of child or adult with normal feet has an inside line which is straight or perhaps bends slightly inward. A committee of health experts studied the thing carefully a few years ago and concluded that there are three types of feet: first, the straight sole line; second, the inflaring sole line; third, the outflaring sole line. The outflaring line is the one which the shoe manufacturers have always favored, until the last few seasons; probably it represents an abnormality brought about by long wearing of shoes built that way. The shoes which have enjoyed great popularity the last season or two have followed the straight inside sole line and they are a boon to the feet, these sport models, with the low, long and wide heels and the straight or inflaring soles.

Only three or four years ago there were but two or three standard makes of shoes which I could recommend. Today practically all of the better shoe manufacturers are putting out models which are as hygienic as one could wish.

There is still much room for improvement in the children's shoes, particularly shoes for little girls. It is still too difficult for a sensible mother to find the right kind of shoes for a girl of 10 or 12, shoes without heels or with something akin to the "spring heels" of baby shoes, and with the straight inside sole line and toes as wide as the naked foot with the weight of the body on it. Some of the atrocities offered by shoe dealers when the young girl's feet are concerned are indeed an affront to a mother's common sense. The sudden change from the comparatively sane lines of the children's sizes to the painful distortions in the "misses'" sizes is apparently a tradition preserved by the shoe manufacturers out of reverence for the past. While the vogue for sport footwear is on, the shoe manufacturers might well lay aside this tradition and get out a more liberal assortment of sizes in hygienic shoes for girls of the growing age. The deficiency here, under the old custom, means a great deal of cruelty to the feet, for it is just at the age of 10 to 15 that most cases of flatfoot, static valgus, "broken arches," "weak ankles," "weak feet," pronated feet begin to give trouble. As I have already mentioned in a preceding article, three factors contribute toward the causation of such trouble—faulty nutrition, neglect of physical education and improper footwear. They have shown a disposition to reform in all except the girls who are just between "children" and misses."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Masticate Carbohydrates.

In one of your articles you said: "Excessive eating . . . unmasticated food insures such engorgement of the liver." Does any food, soldid or liquid, pass through the liver? Should such liquids as soup, milk or orange juice be masticated? (Mrs. L. E.)

Answer.—Here is what I said: "Excessive eating, the habit of eating too fast, which necessarily means gulping down unmasticated or incompletely masticated food, insures such engorgement of the liver." "Such engorgement" referred to the state of portal congestion which I had just described, in a discussion about piles. Of course, food does not pass through the liver, but the products of digestion are carried through the portal vein to the liver. It is essential to masticate all foods of the carbohydrate class, which includes vegetables and fruits and greens, as well as cereals and cereal products, sugars and the like. It is not essential to masticate or try to masticate milk, soups or other liquids. Sometimes it is advisable to sip such liquids very slowly, if the digestion is feeble. Meats, eggs, fish, cheese need not be masticated much.

Insanity in Family.

Is insanity inhertied? Two members of my family have died in insane asylums. Would it be right for me to have children? (Mrs. F.)

Answer—Insanity is not inherited. But certain taints or defects which may be expressed as epilepsy or feeble-mindedness or hysteria or alcoholism or drug habit in one branch of the family and as insanity in another branch are heritable.

Chicken-Minded.

Is there any cure for chicken breast? It is noticeable, especially as I seem to stand very erect. The ribs seem soft and easily bent. Is there any cure for the smoking habit? I smoke not very much, but just to be sociable wtih the fellows. All my companions are older than myself (I am 15), and most of them are smokers. (S. F. P.)

Answer.—For your chicken-breasted condition possibly something can be done, but you must not delay consulting an orthopedic physician. For your chicken-minded condition I think the best treatment would be a few sound thrashing. If your sophisticated gentlemen companions ran their heads against a buzz saw you would have to do so too, to be sociable, wouldn't you?

Hygienic Heating.

We are planning a new home, and I had always thought a hot water heating system the best hygienically and economically, but there seems to be wide differences of opinion among the heating men. (P. J. E.)

Answer.—Hygienically, at any rate, the hot air furnace is best, in my opinion.

Famous Stars of Operatic Stage Will Be Heard Here In Summer Opera Season

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Following the raising of $50,000 to finance the establishment of an annual season of summer light opera in Atlanta, beginning with a six-weeks' season this year, it became known Wednesday that the officials of the new local musical organization have practically closed contracts with some of the most famous stars of the operatic stage, to take the principal roles in the opera to be given here.

A conductor who is universally regarded as the greatest living American conductor has been in correspondence with local officials for some time it was said. Negotiations are practically completed and, while the fact that the contract is not actually signed precludes announcement of his name, nevertheless his reputation is such that the securing of his services is tantamount to assuring the success of the undertaking from the jump.

Woman Star Coming.

A similar situation exists in regard to a woman operatic star who is well known in Atlanta and is one of the most popular performers ever to sing here. This particular star has been a member of the Metropolitan Opera company for several years and has appeared in Atlanta, during the annual grand opera season, in half a dozen different operas. In fact, she is among the list of singers announced as coming here next April for the Metropolitan's 15th annual season here. If she comes to sing in light opera during the summer months, Atlanta's fame as light opera center is assured.

One of the most inspiring gatherings in the history of the many which have made Atlanta history in the past, was witnessed at the Biltmore hotel on Tuesday night when a group of 100 of the most prominent men in Atlanta's commercial, financial and artistic life met to hear details of the proposal for the annual season of light opera which had been worked out.

It took something considerably less than 30 minutes to secure subscriptions of over $50,000 for the financing of the proposal and indications were that, when those who were unavoidably absent at the dinner were given an opportunity to join in the undertaking, the full authorized capitalization of $100,000 would be over-subscribed.

Plans Are Explained.

The plan which has been worked out for the inauguration of this, the newest and greatest forward step in the community life for many years, was briefly explained by Robert M. Parker, secretary of the temporary organization which has had charge of the drawing up of preliminary plans.

A charter has been secured and a skeleton organization formed, said Mr. Parker. The charter authorizes the issuance of $100,000 in capital stock in the Municipal Opera Association of Atlanta, the name chosen. The stock will be issued in shares of $50 each and is non-profit sharing.

Inasmuch as the movement is one entirely for the welfare of the city and is in the truest sense a civic enterprise, no profits on shares will be paid, but in order that, after the association has firmly planted its financial feet, the money of the men who financed its early stages may be returned to them, the stock has been made retireable, all except the little block which is necessary, under the law, to retain the charter rights. All stock carries with it, however, the right to vote.

After various speakers had told of what the establishment of this summer light opera would mean to the city, subscription blanks were passed around and, before the meeting adjourned, subscriptions to 1,000 shares, or $50,000 in stock of the organization, had either been signed or underwritten. Thus the association was at once placed upon a going basis and the six-week season for this summer, to be given in the auditorium, assured.

Meeting Is Held.

The meeting was called by Howard Candler, president of the temporary association. After dinner had been served in the grill room of the hotel, Mr. Candler briefly introduced the first speaker, Victor H. Kriegshaber, who is credited with having made the first suggestion for the movement.

Mr. Kriegshaber told of visits to St. Louis, where an annual summer season of light opera has been held for the past six years. That city now has its own open-air stadium where the operas are presented and it is the hope of the Atlanta backers of the proposal to eventually build a similar structure here. However, the first season will be held in the city auditorium.

The first year of summer opera at St. Louis showed a small financial deficit, Mr. Kreigshaber said, which was met by a group of guarantors who had underwritten the proposal. Since that time, however, each year has shown an excess of receipts over expenditures, and the St. Louis association now has a surplus of about $70,000. He predicted that Atlanta would meet with just as much success in this field as had St. Louis and half a dozen other cities which have similar organtzations.

Wilmer Moore Speaks.

Wilmer L. Moore delivered a magnificent talk in which he told of the incalculable benefits which such an annual season of summer opera would bring to the city. In paying a spontaneous tribute to Howard Candler, whose enthusiastic work has largely been responsible for the progress of the movement this far, Mr. Moore said, that if Atlanta would merely give average encouragement to Mr. Candler, he would in future years undoubtedly become "the Otto Kahn of Atlanta."

Mr. Moore expressed the belief that Atlanta's future development and greatness must inevitably rest upon her position as the southern center of finance, of education and of culture. Already she is recognized as the financial center of the south, he declared, and the educational institutions in her borders gave her similar place in education. During the past 15 years, he said, there has been evident a growth in the cultural and artistic life of the city which promises a similar "place in the sun" for the city in this regard.

The speaker declared that every man present had faith in the future of the city, as they had evidenced that faith in days gone by, and he expressed utmost confidence that the new venture, the Municipal Light Opera association, would win their support the same as other movements for the benefit of the city had won it in the past.

Mr. Moore also pointed out that, a few years ago, it was commonly said that it was difficult to induce the higher types of workers to come to Atlanta because of the lack of popular amusements here. That condition, he said, had already been partially remedied and the inauguration of a summer light opera season would be another large step in the same direction.

Will Draw Crowds.

Col. F. J. Paxon, speaking of the advantages of the proposal from a business standpoint, declared that it would attract people here from a radius of 300 miles and would do much to eliminate the period of light business which now occurred for about 3 months every summer. He said the benefit from a business angle would be felt by every class of enterprise and industry and would put many thousands of dollars of new money in circulation here every year.

Colonel Paxon also stated that the season would fill a great need in providing a means of recreation and amusement to the great mass of the people whose circumstances did not permit them to indulge in the more expensive forms of recreation and amusement available to the more fortunate citizen of larger means. The municipal opera, he said, is to be presented at a scale of prices within the reach of everyone. Seats will be sold at prices ranging from 50 cents to a top limit of probably $2.00. Whatever the more expensive seats cost, he added, there will be a large majority of the seating capacity at 50 cents.

There were a number of other speakers, all of whom voiced their unstinted indorsement of the proposal and, as stated, when the subscriptions to the association were asked, the $50,000 stipulated as a minimum subscription total was pledged in less than 30 minutes. Under the contract forms signed, the subscribers will pay into the treasury one-fourth of the price of their shares upon delivery of the stock, and the balance when called for, as needed for the financing of the association.

Inman Leads Way.

Frank Inman, Jr., was largely responsible for the pledging of the full $50,000 asked, when he jumped to his feet after it was found that subscriptions turned in totaled 760 shares and suggested that those present pledge themselves to sell sufficient other shares to bring the total up to the desired 1,000. He pledged the sale of five additional shares and others there quickly assumed responsibility for varying amounts, until the entire 1,000 had either been sold or underwritten.

Howard Candler, president of the association, on Wednesday stated that, in selecting the list of six light operas to be presented this summer, an effort would be made to have the people select those they most desired to hear. Plans had not yet been completed, he said, but it has been suggested that a tentative list of about 12 operas be submitted to the general public for them to number in order of preference.

In any event, utmost effort will be made to meet the desires of the greatest number in deciding upon the final program for the season.

While the principals will necessarily be from out of the city, it is the plan of the promoters to secure the chorus, ballet and orchestra, as far as possible locally. This will add much to the interest of the productions and will furnish an opportunity for valuable training and stage experience to the scores of capable performers who live here.

It also is hoped, with this summer light opera season an established annual event, that the principals brought here, if they win the popular approval of their audience, may be induced to come here succeeding summers, thus associating themselves with the city and becoming, as far as possible, citizens of Atlanta.

Officers of Company.

Officers of the company are Howard Candler, president, and C. B. Bidwell, general manager, with the following directors: Ivan Allen, H. M. Atkinson, C. B. Bidwell, W. M. Brownlee, C. H. Seven Officials Held for Attack On Dancing Girl

London, January 21.—Seven officials have been arrested at Indore, British India, including the aide-de-camp of the maharajah of Indore, in connection with the affair in Bombay a week ago which resulted in the death of the wealthy merchant Abdul Kadir Baula, says an agency dispatch from Bombay. The maharajah's chauffeur was also taken into custody.

Reuter's Bombay correspondent says the eight persons arrested include two step-uncles and a step-aunt of Mumtaz Begum, the dancing girl, who was accompanying Baula at the time of the shooting and who was wounded.

Meanwhile, Mumtaz, who was the favorite dancing girl of the maharajah, is lying in the hospital carefully guarded. Her mother asked that special protection be given her in the belief that the attack was part of a wide-spread plot.

The correspondent adds that the situation has caused great excitement.

Abdul Kadir Baula was shot and killed January 13 while motoring with his manager, and an Englishman named Mathews, and Mumtaz Begum, a dancing girl. When the attack was staged, allegedly by a Pathan gang, four British officers rushed to the rescue and captured one of the assailants. The girl and Mathews were wounded.

Dispatches received by London newspapers have indicated a belief on the part of the police that highly placed persons in the state of Indore were connected with the attempted

Hughes Asked To Furnish Not Only Paris Agreement, But All Relevant Matter

Scope of Original Amendment by Senator Johnson Considerably Broadened Before Passage.

Washington, January 21.—The senate today formally called on Secretary Hughes for a copy of the much discussed Paris reparations agreement, together with such information concerning its negotiation "as may be relevant to a full understanding of its terms."

There was neither discussion of nor a record vote on the resolution of inquiry, offered last week by Senator Johnson, republican, California, one of the irreconcilables on the Versailles treaty, and approved today with an amendment broadening its scope by the foreign relations committee just before the senate met.

Secretary Hughes declined to discuss the senate's action, but it was suggested in some quarters that the secretary of state would take full advantage of the clause in the resolution calling for the text and report "if not incompatible with the public interest."

Full Publication Undesirable.

While the secretary has announced that he will make public the text of the agreement as soon as it is received from Paris, some administration supporters contend that publication of the details of the actual negotiations between Ambassador Kellogg, the secretary-of-state-designate, and the representatives of the allied and associated powers would not be desirable.

Senate irreconcilables, who have declared their sole purpose is to get the facts so as to determine whether the agreement does in fact commit the United States in the settlement of the reparations problem, refused to indicate the course they might pursue should Mr. Hughes take that position.

There were suggestions, however, that the senate would declare that in its judgment the executive department of the government exceeded its authority in negotiating the agreement without the advice and consent of congress.

Under Scope of Congress.

In this connection, it was pointed out that congress had assumed full authority over the settlement of war debts to the United States by allied and associated powers, and that the Paris agreement dealt with the debt of Germany for the maintenance of the American army of occupation on the Rhine.

In the form originally offered by Senator Johnson, before Secretary Hughes issued his statement declaring that the United States was not obligated under the settlement to take any action in the event of the failure of Germany to pay reparations, the resolution merely called upon the state department for a copy of the agreement.

In the foreign relations committee, however, Chairman Borah offered an amendment under which Mr. Hughes would have been asked specifically whether Ambassador Kellogg had at any time during the negotiations suggested a reservation that the agreement should not be construed as binding the United States in the reparations settlement.

Accept Pepper Substitute.

Senators Pepper, of Pennsylvania, and Willis, of Ohio, republicans, opposed this amendment, and the committee finally accepted without division a substitute proposed by Senator Pepper, calling for a report on the negotiations themselves.

At the time Secretary Hughes issued his statement on the agreement, state department officials reiterated their denial that Mr. Kellogg had suggested a reservation at the time of the signing of the settlement. They did not, however, deny published reports that he had proposed a reservation in the informal conversations which preceded the plenary session.

Senators Pepper and Willis not only opposed the Borah amendment, but they also voiced opposition to the entire resolution. They hold the view that it was unnecessary for the senate to call formally on the secretary of state for a copy of the agreement.

As was the case, however, in the senate, there was no record vote in the committee.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

To break up a cold over night or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza or sore throat, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless Calomel tablet, that is purified from dangerous and sickening effects. Those who have tried it say that it acts like magic, by far more effective and certain than the old style calomel, heretofore recommended by physicians.

One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water,—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system feels refreshed and purified. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price ten cents for the vest-pocket size; thirty-five cents for the large family package. Recommend and guaranteed by druggists. Easy Way to Break Severest Cough

No matter how long you have had a persistent, weakening cough—no matter how many remedies you have tried without success—you can usually get relief instantly, and often relieve the entire cough condition in 24 hours, by a very simple method.

The method is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief seems almost magical, and the quickness with which the whole cough condition disappears is often simply amazing. There is nothing better for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness, and almost every throat irritation. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. STATE HIGH COURT SAYS KILLER MUST SERVE LIFE TERM

A sentence of life imprisonment for Caesar Eugee, Savannah negro, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Mudie and her little daughter, Doris Mudie, during the latter part of 1923, in Savannah, was upheld in a decision handed down Wednesday by the Georgia supreme court. The appeal for new trial was based chiefly on claims of error by Judge Meldrim, the presiding jurist, in admitting certain evidence. The higher court, however, upheld Judge Meldrim's ruling and the sentence of Eugee will therefore stand.

The crime for which Eugee was convicted created intense excitement in Savannah at the time, and Eugee was held under special guard in the Chatham jail for several days.

State Pension Head Returns to Office Following Illness

For the first time in a week, during which time he has been confined to his home with a bad cold, former Governor Nat E. Harris went to his office at the state capitol on Wednesday, where he is now pension commissioner, thus celebrating his 79th birthday, which came yesterday.

Governor Harris' birthday thus falls on the same date as that of General Stonewall Jackson, of the Confederacy. It is a remarkable coincidence that two of Georgia's most prominent officials, both of whom are Confederate veterans, have birthdays which fall on the same dates as those of Generals Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. Comptroller General William E. Wright was born on a 19th of January, as was Robert E. Lee. General Wright was 81 years old last Monday.

Governor Harris has not been in good health since the day of the Tech-Auburn football game, when he sat in an exposed seat in the grandstand throughout the contest. He stated Wednesday, however, that he was feeling better than he had since the day of the game.

PLAN BEAUTIFICATION OF PEACHTREE ROAD

Plans for the adornment, by planting flowers, shrubs and peach trees along Peachtree road will be formulated today at a meeting of 200 property owners who reside along the road.

The movement will adorn the road from the Atlanta Woman's club to Oglethorpe university. The plan was inaugurated by the forestry committee of the Woman's club, under the leadership of Mrs. Guy Woolford.

Cooperation of every property owner has been sought and at the meeting today they will decide whether the trees are to be planted by the committee or by property owners individually.

According to the plans, the peach trees and shrubs will be planted at once, so that when spring arrives they will bloom and make the road very beautiful, it is said.

HIGHWAY MEETING SET FOR SAVANNAH

In order to consider details of the proposed highway from the Savannah to the Florida state line, the state highway board will meet Friday in Savannah, it was announced Wednesday by Chairman John N. Holder. The meeting will be a joint session with the coastal highway commission.

The construction of the coastal highway on the proceeds of a bond issue to be floated by the six counties on the coast was authorized in a constitutional amendment ratified by the voters at the general election last November. Chatham is one of the six counties involved and Savannah has been chosen as the most central point in the section involved for the meeting.

Representatives of the six counties will be present at the meeting on January 23, as well as Harvey Granger, chairman, and Frank Battey, secretary-treasurer of the coastal highway commission.

No movement has yet been made by the six counties toward calling a bond election, this action awaiting the working out of details and conditioning of contracts by the state highway department and the coastal highway commission, Chairman Holder stated.

Other members of the state highway board who will attend the meeting, in addition to Chairman Holder, are W. T. Anderson, of Macon, and Stanley Bennett, of Moultrie.

TURPEDINE BOUGHT BY LOCAL COMPANY

The reputation of Atlanta as the coming center of the drug products industry was given added impetus Wednesday by announcement of sale and reorganization of Turpedine Products Company, Inc., of this city.

Rumors that the company had been purchased by the Ferry-Hanly Advertising company were denied by officers of that company, who explained that the Turpedine company has been purchased by a group of Atlanta and northern capitalists whose identity could not be revealed at this time.

"It is a fact that the Turpedine company has been purchased and that the new company has been financed to do a business of considerable magnitude," officers of the Ferry-Hanly company declared. "However, we have no financial connection with the Turpedine company although we have been retained to direct the advertising which will begin on a large scale in the near future. Meantime, we are not at liberty to announce the names of the purchasers."

Turpedine is used in the medical profession as an antiseptic and as a healing agent for abrasions and disorders of the skin. It was originated by an Atlanta chemist, Dr. R. G. Dunwody, who holds the distinction of being the only one of many chemists to succeed in blending iodine and turpentine, thus rendering these two well-known ingredients colorless, non-poisonous and non-irritating.

It was further announced that officers of the new company would be elected at a directors' meeting to be held within the near future. Main offices will continue to remain in Atlanta, it was said, and Turpedine will continue to be manufactured by the laboratories of Dr. R. G. Dunwody, at 83 Walton street.

LICENSES PLANNED FOR ALL TOBACCO DEALERS IN STATE

In a further effort to enforce the state law requiring revenue stamps on all cigars and cigarettes sold in Georgia, a bill will be introduced in the legislature this summer providing for issuance of state licenses to all retailers of tobacco, it was announced Wednesday by John M. Vandiver, commissioner of revenues.

Under the proposed plan a retailer found guilty of violating the tobacco stamp law would be subject to revocation of license, said Mr. Vandiver. The amount of license fee required would be merely nominal, probably $1, to cover actual cost of printing, issuing licenses and collecting fees.

DANCE SANS MUSIC

Atlanta To See Novel Pantomime Feature.

A dance without music, a pantomime called "Tragica," is to be one feature of the Denishawn Dancers' program at the auditorium on the night of January 29, according to Russell Bridges, who is directing the Atlanta engagement. It is said to be of unusual interest, but it demands the most absolute perfection of "timing" on the part of the dancers.

Ruth St. Denis, who has never appeared in Atlanta, heads the company this season, and Ted Shawn, who was the principal feature of the Denishawn Dancers on their last visit, will have a prominent part. The company has been increased to thirty persons, most of them girls, this season.

The attraction will be the fourth number of the Artists' series. Seats will be put on sale Monday at the Phillips & Crew store.

NEW EPIC IN TRAVEL WRITTEN BY SANTA FE

Seven through trains to California from Chicago in one day is the record established by the Santa Fe for January 6 and 7 respectively. This requires for the through runs on those two days of departure 112 monster locomotives, with a total mileage of more than 33,000, and is only possible because of double track facilities all the way.

W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager of Santa Fe System lines, further states that demands for space on the California Limited this winter are unusually heavy. Besides the two limiteds that leave Chicago every day in the year on the Santa Fe for Los Angeles, a third is scheduled daily until the middle of February. Additional sections will be run as needed, a fourth already having been arranged for two days in January. All these limited trains have new steel equipment and provide every travel luxury, including ladies' maid. This service is in addition to that of the Santa Fe's other three California trains, the Navajo, Scout and Missionary.

BOTSFORD TO ADDRESS LOCAL AD MEN TODAY

Explanation of the advertising methods of the Paramount picture corporation, considered one of the largest national advertisers in the motion picture industry, will be made by A. M. Botsford, of New York, at the weekly club luncheon of the Advertising club of Atlanta, today at 12:30 o'clock, to be held in the chamber building. An interesting program for the luncheon is being arranged by the program committee, it is stated.

Aviators Killed As Flying Boat Crashes in Bay

Pensacola, Fla., January 21.—C. E. Linville, aviation pilot, and Harvey Maxwell Young, aviation rigger, were killed, and A. V. Rowland and A. W. McCall were injured today when a naval seaplane crashed in Escambia bay, six miles from Pensacola.

Linville's home address was given as Berkeley, Calif., where his parents live, but his wife is here. Young's wife lives at Montgomery, Ala., and his mother at Zama, Miss.

The accident to the plane was seen by men in a shrimp boat, which was anchored nearby. The two injured men were taken off and rushed to the beach, where they were given first-aid treatment, and later removed to the aviation station. The survivors were unable to account for the crash of the plane. Linville was piloting at the time, with Young acting as observer, it was said.

WALL STREET LOSES $4,000,000 TO BANDS HEADED BY "FAGIN"

New York, January 21.—Several bands of thieves, headed by a "Fagin" are preying on Wall street banking and brokerage houses, and at least $4,000,000 worth of stolen securities is in the hands of New York's underworld, said Alfred Tyrrill, adjuster for a large surety company, today, in explaining the company's offer of a $100,000 reward for the return of $2,000,000 worth of stolen bonds.

"Youths are placed as messengers in stock exchange and banking houses through forged references furnished by this Fagin," said Mr. Tyrrill. "He also instructs these tools how the theft is to be executed."

JEALOUS WIFE SHOOTS AS RIVAL BOOTLEG DECOY

New York, January 21.—A story of a bootleggers' decoy being shot by a jealous wife who thought she had a rival was told by Assistant District Attorney Ryan today.

Mrs. Anna Permentee was sitting with Louis Martinez in a closed car in front of the Pennsylvania station when shot by Mrs. Martinez Monday night. Mrs. Permentee was merely a decoy for Martinez's bootleg operations and not a rival for his affections, Ryan said Martinez had told him.

Mrs. Permentee, shot five times, is in a critical condition in a hospital. Mrs. Martinez is held in prison on a charge of assault.

According to Ryan, Martinez said that Mrs. Permentee was employed at $35 a week to accompany him in his car when he delivered liquor to Pullman porters. Martinez is out on bail as a witness.

WILLIAM L. JELLIFFE IS SHOT AND KILLED

New York, January 21.—William L. Jelliffe, son of Dr. E. S. Jelliffe, neurologist, who testified at the Thaw trial several years ago, was shot while in his Astoria apartment last night and died in Roosevelt hospital today.

Astoria police maintained that young Jelliffe, who was married two months ago, had committed suicide, having become depressed because of overstudy. The medical examiner's office, however, recorded the death as "accidental, while cleaning a revolver." Similar information also was obtained at the office of Dr. Jelliffe.

Jelliffe's wife went out last evening, leaving him at home. When she returned she found him lying on the bedroom floor clutching a revolver.

PEACE DOVE FLUTTERS OVER HART HOUSEHOLD

San Francisco, January 21.—Rumors that the William S. Hart of motion pictures might be reconciled rather than be precipitated into further litigation, were lent color in a statement by Mrs. Hart upon the eve of a vacation trip to New York.

"I will give up the trust fund established for me by my husband and will agree to the provision that I do not return to work at any time if he will let me come back to him," said Mrs. Hart in commenting upon the court decision which permitted her to resume screen work under her name of Winifred Westover Hart.

Upon their separation agreement, Hart established trust funds of $103,000 and $100,000 for Mrs. Hart and their infant son.

CHANGES ARE ORDERED IN PLAY AT ATLANTA

Mayor Walter A. Sims Wednesday instructed officials of the Atlanta theater to eliminate certain features of the performance of the play, "Simon Called Peter," which is playing there this week. The mayor's action was taken after a number of protests had been filed at his office, charging that one scene in the play is objectionable. He stated in his letter that he would order a representative of the police department to attend the performance Wednesday night and see that his requests were complied with.

WHOLESALE GAS RATE SLASHED IN MACON

A voluntary reduction in rates to wholesale or industrial customers has been put into effect by the Macon Gas company, it was announced in a new rate schedule filed with the Georgia public service commission on Wednesday. While the percentage of reduction varies according to the amount of gas consumed by the customer, in some cases the slash was as high as 50 per cent.

Reason for the reduction is given as a tendency among consumers to return to the use of coal and coke. The commercial consumption of gas in Macon has been at a standstill for some time, the communication stated.

Under the new schedule, the consumer using 10,000 cubic feet of gas will pay a rate of $1.50 per thousand instead of $1.65; for the next 10,000 feet the rate is to be $1.25 instead of $1.55; for the next 10,000, $1 instead of $1.55; for the next 20,000, 70 cents instead of $1.40, and all over 50,000, 50 cents instead of $1.40 per thousand.

In addition to the gas rate, there will be a service charge of $4.50 for the first 100 cubic feet per hour of demand, $3.50 for each additional 100 cubic feet per hour of demand. The adoption of the new rate, with the service charge, is made optional to consumers.

Ludlow Typograph Company Will Open Offices in Atlanta

That another big northern manufacturing corporation has chosen Atlanta as the location of southern branch offices became known Wednesday with announcement that the Ludlow Typograph company, of Chicago, has obtained a long lease on offices in the Palmer building.

The company manufactures the Ludlow Typograph slug casting machine and the Elrod strip caster, both widely used by newspapers and commercial printers throughout this country and Europe.

The southern branch of the Ludlow company will be in charge of Murray Howard, well-known newspaper and advertising man.

Increase in Asphalt Paving May Result From Committee Trip

A large amount of asphalt paving may be laid in Atlanta during 1925, it was indicated Wednesday when Councilman John A. White, chairman of the street committee of city council; W. A. Hansell, chief of construction, and Virlyn Moore, chairman of the Fulton county commissioners, started on an inspection trip of the plant of a well-known asphalt concern at Bowling Green, Ky. On the return trip the party plans to inspect Nashville's paving.

Rheumatism

"Good-bye old crutch!"

THERE IS positively no longer any excuse for suffering the agonies of rheumatism! Especially in the autumn of your life, when the vital organs weaken, impurities multiply and linger in the muscles and joints, as never before. It is now, just now, when you cannot afford to guess. No day returns!

Here is a joyous fact which can mean to you a fond farewell forever to all the miseries, the tortures, the body-twisting pains that you have suffered from the demon of rheumatism. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red-cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweetheart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

STUDENTS PREPARE FOR EXAMS AT TECH

Examinations will begin at the Georgia School of Technology on January 26 and students are preparing for the tests, which, if successfully passed, will enter them in the second term of the scholastic year February 1.

The registration list for the first term reached 2,835, but many new names are expected to be enrolled at the beginning of the second term.

Work has begun on the new $100,000 chemistry building. The new structure will be ready in the spring.

Don't mix your meals

Nothing will upset your system so thoroughly as frequent changes in the quality of the food you eat—any traveling man will tell you that. It may seem a long way from meals to motors—but read on.

Some fellows buy trouble by the gallon

For many motor troubles originate in the gas tank.

GOOD gasoline as a steady diet will result in a smooth-running engine, but the minute you fill your tank with inferior gasoline you're in for trouble.

You can readily understand that a carburetor adjusted to work perfectly with a high-grade gasoline will not operate as well when a poor quality is introduced.

The important thing to do is to find the best gas for your engine and then don't change!

Which is the best gas?

That's a question you will have to answer for yourself.

Naturally each producer feels that his gasoline is just a little better than the next fellow's.

You will have to make the final decision as far as your own case goes. All we can do is to point out just why Pan-Am Gasoline is so good. Here are the six reasons:

1. Pan-Am Gasoline makes an easy, quick start.

2. Because of the low boiling point it is completely consumed in each explosion—reducing use of choke—thus minimizing the dilution of the oil in your crankcase by liquid gas.

3. It is not blended with by-products in order to reduce its boiling point temporarily.

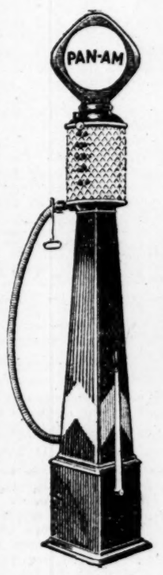

4. It will give you even and uniform explosions.

5. It yields greater mileage.

6. And, last but not least, it never varies in quality.

That, in brief, is the Pan-Am story as far as gasoline is concerned.

Wherever you see the Pan-Am pump you are sure of the highest quality in gasoline and motor oils, and courteous, attentive service.

Those Holiday Blues

IF you have ever been away at school or college, you know all about the holiday blues.

They depress the victim just after happy Christmas holidays are over, when there comes a longing to be back at home with loved ones.

Nothing cures these disheartening blues more surely than a talk with dad or mother or someone at home.

A long distance telephone call is the quickest and best remedy. It can be applied at small cost and without inconvenience.

Give the absent school boy or girl a thrill of pride and pleasure by calling them on the telephone with cheery greetings and news from home.

This will disperse those Holiday Blues.

Dante—"The Wonder Man."

(Coming to the Atlanta.)

Dante, famous European conjurer, will appear at the Atlanta theater for one week, beginning Monday, January 26, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Dante comes to America after a triumphal tour of continental capitals and it is easy to understand his unprecedented popularity abroad after witnessing his performance. His splendid equipment—his startling illusions and mysteries, the skillful manner with which he arranged his programs, his pleasing and commanding stage personality, the extraordinary smoothness with which each highly trained assistant plays his part, and the master magician's exquisite and bubbling sense of humor—all combine to make the entertainment surpassingly enjoyable. Seats go on sale today at the box office.

"Simon Called Peter."

(At the Atlanta Theater.)

Among the more emotional episodes of "Simon Called Peter," the dramatization of Robert Keable's famous book the realistic portrayal of the air raid is sometimes overlooked. Yet this scene was staged faithfully with an eye to conditions as they existed back of the lines during the war, and the actors all served in the army under similar conditions. Perhaps it is because of this that many playgoers have declared, after seeing this play, that nothing on the stage in recent years has given them the real thrill as does the short space of time after the buzzing of the aeroplane is heard. And perhaps also it is because of this that "Simon Called Peter" is attracting such large audiences at the Atlanta theater, where it will be seen for the remainder of the week.

"Blind Youth."

(At the Lyric.)

Clean drama produced with a brilliance that surpasses the best in the history of the Lyric Players has been holding Lyric theater patrons spellbound at each performance this week. The play is "Blind Youth," Willard Mack's amazing story of the wreckage of passion in the Paris Latin quarter and the triumph of character over environment and all other handicaps. It is also an eye-opener to egotistical youth, offering a jolt squarely between the eyes to the smug youngster who believes in self-determination before he learns self-control. Fred Raymond has been magnificent in every performance of the artist who retrieves his life after a bitter struggle with lawless passion and absinthe.

New Vaudeville.

(At Keith's Forsyth.)

A syncopated cocktail with a dash of personality—that's the way the act of Dixie Hamilton, popular vaudeville singer, has been described. She is a singer of "blue" songs and is the headlining feature of an excellent vaudeville program at Keith's Forsyth the last of this week.

A special added attraction on the bill will be the act of Paul Nevins and company, which is filled jam full of fun and pep in the comedy skit entitled "Old King Tut."

Loew's Vaudeville.

(At Loew's Grand Theater.)

Bob Nelson, star of Broadway and late star of "Artists and Models" and several other musical comedy success, is making a tremendous hit at Loew's Grand theater this week. Bob Nelson is a great comedian and a singer of note, and with a most winning personality brings out a combination that naturally goes over big. His act is one of the best ever seen in vaudeville here. Another feature on the week's bill is "Kandy Krooks," a most entertaining musical comedy sketch, with Billie Barnes and Jack Barton in the leads. In a company of eight is a beauty chorus of five girls, who show something really striking in the costume line. Lola Bravo and company offer "A Gypsy-Spanish Revue" that is a knockout. Two other splendid acts complete the bill. John Gilbert, Norma Shearer and Conrad Nagle are seen in the feature photoplay, "The Snob."

"The Golden Bed."

(At the Howard.)

Cecil B. DeMille's latest production, "The Golden Bed," is the attraction at the Howard. It is a story of a self-made millionaire and his love for two women. It is a story that will hold one from start to finish. In the cast are Lillian Rich, Rod La Rocque, Theodore Kosloff and Vera Reynolds. A special musical novelty, "Beethoven," is being presented by the Howard orchestra.

Corinne Griffith.

(At The Metropolitan.)

Corinne continues to be "beauty in distress," but pre-view critics of "Love's Wilderness" assert that here she is more beautiful and in greater distress than ever before. Holmes Herbert and Ian Keith head her supporting cast.

(At The Rialto.)

(Eighty-One Theater.)

A syncopated blues' singing, rollicking revue different from anything and everything you have ever seen before is going to sweep across the stage of the Eighty-One Decatur Street theater at 11 o'clock Friday night. A capacity house of white people, alert for the unique and the superior in entertainment, will greet it and will like it. The reputation the "Midnight Frolic" has built up through its occasional presentation in the past assures a big audience. The quality of amusement assures a delighted audience. The Charlie Anderson and Butterbeans and Susie Vaudeville revue is the name of it. Reservations may be made by phoning Walnut 1154. The performance is for white people exclusively. Midnight Frolic" To Be Given Friday At "81" Theater

Charlie Anderson, Butterbeans and Susie and five other vaudeville acts as unique and original as ever have appeared on a southern stage, are to make the "Midnight Frolic" the show of the year at the Eighty-one Decatur street theater at 11 o'clock Friday night. This frolic is to be in a class by itself among the shows to be seen in Atlanta this season. Lilting, yodeling, blues' singing voices are part of it. Graceful dancers who have syncopation in their bones and harmony in every joint are part of it. Natural comedians whose chatter is so spontaneous and original that laughter is continuous are the rest of it. Seats are now on sale at the theater and Chess' place. The frolic is tomorrow and the best ones will be sold quickly.

Macon, Ga., January 21.—The first car of Georgia collards ever shipped from Bibb county has been moved. The car was shipped to Birmingham, Ala., and was loaded in layers, with the vegetable interspaced with ice, and was sold for approximately $400.

Eight cars of turnips and two cars of green peppers also have been moved from here recently.

Policeman Uses Smile.

W. E. Abernathy for years was known as the "smiling cop" in Petersburg, Va., where as traffic officer on a busy corner he won many friends by his politeness and consideration. He has finally opened a grocery store and his undeniably popular reputation is drawing many motorists and others to his place of business, with the result that great success is predicted for him.

Navy Now Has Aerial Cook.

Due to the fact that the giant dirigible, the Shenandoah, is a navy craft, the United States navy has the distinction of having an aerial navy cook. He is John J. Hahn, who has been in the navy for fourteen years. He was assigned to the dirigible on its cross-country trip.

The old farmer was carrying a pitcher of milk down to the cellar, when he slipped and fell to the bottom, jarring himself from head to foot. His wife called anxiously: "John, did you break the pitcher?" "No," replied John, earnestly and profanely, "but darned if I don't."—Everybody's Magazine.

NO MOVE IS MADE UPON SHOALS BILL

Washington, January 21. — The Muscle Shoals question went into a calm today, neither the house nor the senate taking any step to send the Underwood bill down the legislative lane.

Leaders of both bodies agreed to let the measure lie on Speaker Gillett's table one more day to await a more propitious time for taking it up. A move might be made tomorrow, but it certainly will be made this week to get the bill into conference between the senate and house for modification.

The house rules committee met today, but no consideration was given to the plan to report a rule ordering the measure to conference. House leaders do not expect to succeed in their effort to get the measure into conference by unanimous consent. It can be blocked by objection of any one member, and it is understood that the opposition is prepared to offer objection.

Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, said late today that he expected the bill to be sent to conference tomorrow.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, leader of the opposition, declared there was no change in the situation and declined to make public his plan, if an attempt is made to depart from the usual course of selecting conferees to include supporters of the Underwood bill. Under the usual custom, Senator Norris would head the senate conferees.

Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, who also would be a senate conferee under the customary system of selection, said today that the senate leaders would make a "bungle" if they attempted to appoint other conferees. He declared he did not "like the inference that he and Senator Norris and Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, would not sustain the senate's action in conference, although they opposed passage of the Underwood bill."

Senate leaders today stood by their plan to seek the appointment as senate conferees of Senators McKinley, Illinois; Keyes, New Hampshire, republicans, and Harrison, Mississippi, democrat, members of the senate agriculture committee which considered Muscle Shoals legislation.

Supporters of the Underwood bill are understood to approve the house conferees, which, under the usual procedure of selection, would be Chairman McKenzie, of the house military committee; Representatives Morin, Pennsylvania, and Quinn, Mississippi, ranking republican and democratic members of the committee.

MARYLAND SOLICITS OYSTER INSPECTION

Baltimore, Md., January 21.—Governor Ritchie tonight invited Dr. Herman H. Bundesen, city commissioner of Chicago, to send a representative to Maryland at Maryland's expense to investigate the oyster situation.

The governor declared he was anxious to prove untrue, reports that Maryland oysters were responsible for outbreaks of typhoid fever in the west.

CHICAGO HEALTH HEAD WITHHOLDS DECISION.

Chicago, January 21.—Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Chicago health commissioner, tonight said that he could not determine until tomorrow whether he will accept the invitation of Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, to send a representative to that state to investigate the oyster situation.

Tomorrow, Dr. Bundesen said, the results of several hundred analyses of oysters made by the Chicago health department, will be compiled, and at that time he will decide what is to be done.

Dr. Bundesen said that the order against eating raw oysters was issued by the state health authorities and not by the Chicago health authorities.

OYSTER INDUSTRY HURT BY ADVERSE PUBLICITY.

Jacksonville, Fla., January 21.—Adverse publicity given the oyster industry has "temporarily killed the industry," according to F. D. Fant, president of the United States Fisheries association, who issued a statement in which he charged that statements to the effect that oysters carry typhoid fever germs have been unsubstantiated.

"It is unfortunate that the entire oyster industry is seriously curtailed on account of lack of sales," Mr. Fant said, "and the public deprived of this healthful food, because unwarranted and unsubstantiated statements have been broadcast that oysters carry typhoid fever germs, when the facts are not proven.

"On the contrary, the majority of oysters are eaten in sea-coast cities, and as statistics show, there is not a case of typhoid fever in Baltimore, Norfolk and other large sea-coast cities located right at oyster beds.

"The oyster growers, producers and dealers are all working with and under supervision of federal and state governments."

MISSISSIPPI OYSTERS FREE FROM POLLUTION.

Biloxi, Miss., January 21.—Mississippi oysters have been given a clean bill of health as a result of a rigid investigation made by the Mississippi oyster commissioners, officers of which found the oysters absolutely free from contamination or pollution by typhoid fever germs.

In regard to the condition of Mississippi oysters, Louis Staehling, chief oyster inspector for the Mississippi oyster commission, gave out the following statement:

"The oysters which are caught from Mississippi reefs and used in packing and raw shipping from various Mississippi coast plants, have no indication whatever of being contaminated or polluted. In fact, we have made special effort to ascertain this condition in order that no injury will be caused by shipments leaving Mississippi for outside points and furthermore the officers of the Mississippi oyster commission are back of the undertaking 100 per cent."

SPANISH SHIPS, PLANES BOMBARD TRIBESMEN

London, January 21.—Three Spanish warships and eight airplanes are bombarding the Anjera tribal forces from the Straits of Gibraltar, off Point Alcazar and Seguer, and to the east of those positions, according to news agency dispatches received this afternoon from Tangier.

KANSAS LEGISLATORS WOULD INCREASE PAY

Topeka, Kansas, January 21.—Kansas legislators would increase their pay from $3 to $8 a day under the first measure they passed and sent to Governor Ben S. Paulen today.

SMITH TO PROBE REPORT OF FALSE COTTON REPORTS

Washington, January 21.—Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, author of the cotton futures act declared today that he would "investigate to the very bottom" complaints of President Hayne of the New Orleans Cotton exchange of "erroneous cotton reports which worked to the disadvantage of the farmers."

The South Carolina senator declared he intended to communicate with leading cotton statisticians in the country in an effort to get the "actual facts" on world consumption and production to compare with the government reports.

New Orleans, January 21.—Frank B. Hayne, president of the New Orleans Cotton exchange, today telegraphed Senators Ransdell, of Louisiana, and Smith, of South Carolina, charging that the United States census through an "erroneous and inaccurate" report of the world's consumption of cotton for the year ending July 31, 1924, had cost the south many millions of dollars.

Mr. Hayne said in his telegram that in its report on November 14 the census bureau placed the world's consumption at 19,400,000 bales and repeated these estimates in its December 13 statement. On January 16, he said, the bureau made a plus correction of 582,000 bales in the consumption estimates, increasing the total to 19,982,000 bales, without warning or explaining the discrepancy from its November and December estimates. If it had been known in November that the consumption was 582,000 bales more than that previously stated the south probably would have received at least a cent a pound more for its cotton during the marketing season, Mr. Hayne said.

He requested the senators to take up the matter with the proper authorities and protest against the issuance of what he declared were "injuriously erroneous statements."

RALLY CALLED TODAY ON HOME VISITATION

The committee for the home visitation, which movement is to be observed in Atlanta, Decatur, East Point, College Park and other adjoining sections, will meet at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. The call, which was sent out by General Chairman W. W. Orr, states that it is the "first, last and only" meeting of the entire committee to be held, and all interested in helping to make Atlanta a still better, as well as a still greater, city are urged to be present. All pastors of all faiths are especially urged to be present to get this final presentation of the plans.

It is stated in the call that no offerings or pledges will be taken in this meeting, as it is solely for the planning of the work for the movement. The counsel of all leaders is desired, and the local people will give suggestions as to how best to observe the work in these cities. J. Shreve Durham, international superintendent of home visitation, for the International Council of Religious Education, Chicago, who is in charge of the work in Atlanta, will give a brief address. Every pastor, priest, rabbi and other leader, Sunday school superintendents and representatives of the civic, educational, social, commercial and industrial organizations is a member of the large committee directing the plans, and all are urged to attend this brief conference.

Local leaders say they have never seen such great interest in any work in the history of the city. Committees are being formed in all the churches for the general home visitation on Friday afternoon, January 30, and also for the follow-up or conservation work by the local churches after they get their results from the general visitation. Calls will be made in all Protestant and Catholic churches and Sunday schools for 3,000 volunteers on Sunday, January 25, and in all Jewish congregations on Friday and Saturday, January 23 and 24. Local leaders believe the interest is so great that enough volunteers will respond to complete the work in less than two hours, as has been done in many large cities.

MURDERED SALESMAN IDENTIFIED BY CLERK

Miami, Fla., January 21.—Positive identification of a man found murdered yesterday near the Gratigny road, a short distance from Miami, as M. L. Simon, Kansas City, Mo., glass dealer, was made this afternoon by a clerk of the Astley hotel, where Simon was stopping.

Simon checked out of the hotel two days ago, according to the clerk, and drove away in his automobile. No trace of the machine has been found and it was believed the car, the money which Simon had in his pocket and a valuable ring were stolen. A finger of the dead man's hand was severed to allow the thieves to obtain the ring.

A telegram from Simon's wife, in Kansas City, to police here, led to the tracing of Simon's movements here and the identification of the body in an undertaking establishment by the clerk.

POLICE SEEK COMPANION OF MURDERED MERCHANT.

Kansas City, January 21.—A pick-up order was issued tonight by the local police department for A. F. Osthoff at the request of relatives of Morris L. Simon, of Kansas, who was mysteriously slain near Miami, Fla.

Osthoff was only a casual acquaintance of her husband and represented himself as a dealer in stocks and bonds, Mrs. Simon said. She added that Simon went to Miami seeking a place to open up a paint and glass shop and had planned to go into partnership with Osthoff.

Osthoff's attorney, Thomas V. Holland, said tonight Osthoff had telegraphed him for money several times since he left Kansas City.

Osthoff was arrested here last summer on a charge of passing a bad check, but was released.

A letter from Simon, written last Saturday, and received today by Mrs. Simon, stated he had given up hopes of opening a store in Miami and that he probably would start for home in a few days. He wrote that Osthoff and his wife were "spending money hand over fist."

"They are going a rapid gait," the letter said, "and I have changed my mind about going into partnership with him."

BILL TO SAVE HELIUM IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Washington, January 21.—A bill to promote production and conservation of helium gas by the government was passed today by the house.

APPLIES BRAKES, JUMPS TO DEATH

Savannah, Ga., January 21.—According to reports received at Atlantic Coast Line headquarters, W. H. Holman, of Waycross, engineer on A. C. L. train No. 57, second section, was fatally injured at 1:43 o'clock this morning near Manor, when, without any reason, he put the engine's emergency brakes on and leaped from the cab.

Holman is believed to have imagined he saw some obstruction ahead of the engine because he put on the emergency brakes before leaving the cab. Quickly he applied the brakes and leaped from the engine.

Train No. 57 runs from Savannah to Montgomery. Engines were changed at Waycross and Holman man went on duty there. Manor is about 15 miles from Waycross.

The engineer was found some distance from the place where the train stopped. In leaping from the train he struck an object, the report stated, and was badly injured. He probably struck a telegraph pole. First aid treatment was given and he was made as comfortable as possible.

Information concerning the affair was telegraphed to Waycross and special relief train was sent to the scene. The train consisted of a locomotive and coach for the purpose of taking the injured man to a Waycross hospital where he died. An extra engineer was sent to take No 57 on to Montgomery.

HOLMAN DIED ON SEPCIAL TRAIN.

Waycross, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—A special train was rushed from here to Manor today carrying physicians to minister to Engineer W. H. Holman, who jumped from the train there this morning, but he died while on the way here. It is the opinion that he thought he saw an obstruction on the track when he yelled to the fireman to "look out," applied the brakes and jumped from the engine and received injuries from which he died. The Seminole Limited was being detoured through Waycross on account of washouts on the Central of Georgia road near Albany, and it is said that Engineer Holman was not familiar with the section of track he was traveling over at the time of the accident. The negro fireman stated that he leaned out of the window following Holman's warning and seeing nothing on the track ahead, stuck to the engine.

Holman was about 40 years old and has been employed by the Atlantic Coast Line road for 15 years. He, with his family, formerly lived here but recently moved to Florida.

SANITARY DEPARTMENT SHAKEUP IS EXPECTED

Dismissal of a number of employees of the city sanitary department, and transfer of others, is expected this afternoon, when the sanitary committee of city council meets in special session. The shakeup was indicated last week when the committee asked Chief John Jentzen for a complete list of department employees and duties of each.

Councilman W. E. Saunders, chairman of the committee, said Wednesday that a number of cuts will be necessary in order to operate the department on the money given in the January apportionment sheet, which slashed $23,000 from the pay roll.

It is probable that a number of negro street sweepers will be among those falling beneath the ax, as purchase of two Elgin motor pick-up street sweepers is expected to permit efficient street cleaning with a much smaller force. Purchase of several new auto trucks also will cause a reduction in the force.

Mr. Saunders intends to propose cleaning of all streets in Atlanta's business section between midnight and 5 o'clock in the morning, during which time, he said, there is very little traffic, and cleaning can be done without interfering with business.

FEDERAL JUDGE DENIES DRUNKENNESS CHARGE

Wheeling, W. Va., January 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—A categorical denial of all charges against him was made today by Judge William E. Baker, of the United States district court of northern West Virginia, before a subcommittee of the house judiciary committee. The charges, several of which revolved about the judge's alleged use of liquor while on the bench, his alleged acceptance of attorney's fees after his appointment to the federal court, and others of a similar nature, were brought by T. A. Brown, United States district attorney, as a basis for possible impeachment proceedings.

Taking of testimony by the subcommittee was concluded with today's session.

Much of today's testimony concerned I. Wade Coffman, clerk in Judge Baker's court, who, the prosecution attempted to show, often was intoxicated while in the performance of his duties. Mr. Brown contended that Judge Baker knew of Coffman's alleged excessive use of liquor, and in refraining from dismissing him he had committed an impeachable offense. Several witnesses testified to seeing Coffman intoxicated at different times and Coffman, on the stand, admitted he had taken drinks at some of the times specified, but denied that he was intoxicated, or that he was unable to transact business of the court.

Judge Baker, among the last witnesses called, denied generally and specifically the charges against him. Regarding the testimony of Walter D. Pierce, a special prohibition agent of Washington, that he saw Judge Baker under the influence of liquor in a Clarksburg hotel last April, the judge read notes from his diary to show that he was not in the hotel on either of the two evenings Pierce named. Judge Baker said he had kept a diary for many years, but had been more particular about it for the past two and a half years because at that time he was informed that he was "being framed."

PEACH GROWERS' BANK IS OPENED IN MACON

Macon, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—The Middle Georgia Agricultural Credit corporation, organized to aid peach growers of Georgia in particular, will begin operation here tomorrow. J. L. Benton former president of the Georgia Peach Growers' exchange, will be temporarily in charge. The bank will receive applications for loans at once, but will not begin to function until the charter is received on January 30, it is said. The bank is capitalized at $50,000.

ASTRONOMER SEES RARE FORMATION OF THREE PLANETS

Chicago, January 21.—Professor Philip Fox, astronomer at Dearborn observatory of Northwestern university, announced tonight that Venus, Jupiter and Mercury were within one degree of each other just before dawn today, a very rare occurrence. When in this position they formed an elongated triangle and while moving further apart, they will continue to appear very near to each other for two or three days, he says.

GOVERNOR FERGUSON PLEADS FOR ECONOMY

Austin, Texas, January 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The first woman governor of Texas sent her initial message to the legislature today. She pleaded for economy, adoption of principles in the democratic platform upon which she was elected, and forecast a more liberal policy regarding pardons of state prisoners on the part of her administration.

"In my opinion," she said, "appropriations should be reduced to at least $30,000,000, or at the outside not more than $35,000,000."

The topic of prisons occupied more time in the address than any other subject. Mrs. Ferguson urged the adoption of a law which would give any prisoner, "regardless of the length of his sentence," the right to apply for a conditional parole after fifteen years of good behavior and efficient service. Declaring she would "look with disfavor upon the establishing of any additional schools during my administration," the new governor in referring to state education, recommended a tax on factory-made cigarettes as a means of raising sufficient revenue to finance additional buildings among state educational institutions. Mrs. Ferguson said $4,000,000 could be raised in that way, and designated it an "educational tax."

"If smokers are not interested in the great cause of education," she said, "all they would have to do to relieve themselves of the tax would be to cut out smoking until such time as their desire for smoking would overcome their opposition to education; but I dare say this will never occur, because the man who smokes is generally the most liberal man in the community."

The governor said she favored construction of additional national guard armories, reducing the size of the force of state rangers, construction of lateral roads, "to bring the rural districts in closer connection with the rest of the world," and permanency in road building.

FARM SOLONS SOLID BEHIND RELIEF BILL

Washington, January 21.—Members of the congressional farm group are considering a plan to throw their solid strength behind some farm relief measure with the hope of getting legislation enacted at this session. Just what form the bill will take has not been determined, but an effort will be made to produce a measure which will receive the indorsement of the president's agricultural commission and the support of the farm groups in congress. At a meeting tonight at the capitol, called by Chairman Norris, of the senate agricultural committee, senators and representatives interested in farm problems heard arguments in support of a modified McNary-Haugen bill, which was defeated in its original form at the last session of congress, from spokesmen for the American Council of Agriculture.

No indication was given, however, that this plan, more than any other, was being considered by the congressional farm group as the measure on which they would concentrate. The council's arguments in its support also have been presented to the president's agricultural commission.

TEXAS HOUSE ORDERS PRISON SYSTEM PROBE

Austin, Texas, January 21.—A resolution authorizing a sweeping investigation of "wastes, brutal treatment and extravagances" in the state prison system was adopted by the house by a vote of 126 to 4 late today, after a motion to refer the resolution to a committee was tabled.

PRISON GUARDS ARE SUSPENDED

Three guards at the Atlanta federal penitentiary here, one of whom is a brother-in-law of L. J. Fletcher, former deputy warden under indictment on a charge of accepting a bribe, have been suspended by Acting Warden T. B. White, it was learned Wednesday.

Those suspended are H. S. Causey, brother-in-law of the former deputy warden; C. M. Davis and J. W. Higgins. All three were guards under administration of Warden A. E. Sartain, who also is under indictment for bribery.

What caused the suspension could not be learned Wednesday. Acting Warden White could not be reached for a statement, and officials were silent on the matter.

United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager, when asked about the suspension, said he had not heard of it until Wednesday. He said that F. P. Dodge, of the department of justice, who was active in obtaining indictments against Fletcher and Sartain, and who is still investigating conditions at the penitentary, Wednesday morning confirmed the report of the suspension.

Fletcher was in Atlanta Wednesday, and in commenting on the suspensions, said:

"I know of no reason for the suspensions, except possibly that Mr. Causey is related to me."

ALLIES WILL REPLY TO GERMAN PROTEST

Paris, January 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The allies have decided to reply to the recent German note of protest against the continued occupation of the Cologne bridgehead. The exchanges of views which have been going on between the chancelleries have resulted in approach to an agreement as to the text of the reply which it is understood will go further into details regarding the cases of allegel violations of the treaty disarmament clauses than the preceding note, but in a rather softer tone.

The allies now have in separate reports from the members of the military control mission nearly all the elements expected in the final report on the military situation in Germany and will probably deal with the question decisively in the near future through the council of ambassadors.

The contention of the allies, based on preliminary reports from the control mission, that Germany had by no means completed compliance with the disarmament clauses of the Versailles treaty, was set forth in the previous note to Germany as the reason why the Cologne area could not be evacuated January 10 as provided for by the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, contingent upon Germany's fulfillment of the treaty's requirements in other respects.

"Are you satisfied with the result of your investigation?" "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "The first few chapters were undoubtedly interesting. But I'm afraid our readers got tired of the line, 'to be continued.'"—Washington Star.

BUCKY FAILED TO MAKE GOOD WITH DETROIT

Jennings Informs Youth He Is Too Light for Majors; Influential Friends Help

This is the twelfth installment of the autobiography of Stanley Harris, youngest major league baseball manager in the history of the game, and the victorious strategist and one of the outstanding players in the 1924 world series, in which his Washington club won the pennant for the first time. The rise of Harris from colliery boy to big league manager in eight years is one of the most remarkable life stories America has ever produced.

BY STANLEY BUCKY HARRIS
Manager World Champion Washington Senators

The adverse report to Jennings didn't deprive me of a tryout with his club. Attorney A. T. Walsh, no relation to Tony, and Dr. Joseph P. Burk, of Pittston, were friends of the Detroit manager. Both took a great interest in my future. When Jennings told Mr. Walsh his scout had informed him I was too small ever to succeed in the majors, the lawyer pointed out that I would grow and that Donie Bush, the Detroit shortstop, was no giant.

He argued a winning case. He and Dr. Burk came to my house on a snowy Sunday early in March with the good news that I was to report to the Tigers in Waxahachie, Texas, immediately. They had to show me the telegram before I could believe such welcome tidings. Mr. Walsh said he would arrange for my transportation.

1,000 Miles Away.

Mother was as surprised and delighted as I. Together we got out an atlas to locate Waxahachie on the map. When we measured the distance from Pittston to the training camp by the scale and found I would have to travel more than 1,000 miles, mother broke down. She wept as if her heart would break. I had never been farther from home than Scranton and Wilkes-Barre. Waxahachie was an unbelievable distance to us both.

Finally she smiled and wiped her tears away. "I guess I'm like all mothers," she said, "when the baby of the family leaves home. We don't realize you are grown up until you have to leave us. It seems as if you are going to the end of the world."

It seemed so to me, too. I didn't sleep a wink that night. When I reached the mine next morning, sleepy-eyed and heavy, word of my opportunity with the Tigers had preceded me, early as it was. I finished the day's work and told the superintendent I would like to get my time. He knew the reason and wished me the best of luck. My job wasn't a hard one to fill.

A Goodbye Party.

The next few days I was busy making plans to leave Pittston. Most of the time was devoted to studying the route over and over. I was sure I would miss a connection and get on the wrong train somewhere in the long ride. The boys with whom I played basketball gave me a farewell party and predicted I'd soon have Donie Bush's job. They were kind friends.

When the train pulled out and I waved goodbye to mother and a small group of friends, I was a rather panic stricken youngster. Never before had I been on a Pullman. It didn't seem possible that I could sleep in a narrow berth. We had big feather beds at home. I don't suppose I slept five hours all the way from Pittston to Waxahachie.

The long journey at last came to a welcome end. I took my shiny imitation leather suitcase and walked to the hotel. I rather expected Hughey Jennings would welcome me. Such is the importance of youth. He was in bed at the time, nursing an injury received in teaching recruits how to slide. I reported to Jimmy Burke, the Detroit coach. He hustled me into a uniform for fielding practice.

Jesters Miss Opportunity.

Little attention was paid to me. I was a stringy kid, weighing a bare 115 pounds. Few less likely looking prospect have ever reported at a big league training camp. No wonder I was ignored. The veterans didn't even bother trying to play pranks on me. I was green enough for the cows to eat and would have made a fine subject for any of the time-worn jests practiced on rookies.

Burke started by putting me on third base and smashing grounders and line drives in my direction. I had never had balls hit so hard at me. I couldn't get down on them fast enough and my arm didn't seem strong enough to whip the ball across to first. It was a discouraging debut.

Jennings, probably because of his old friendship with my father, paid more attention to me than I really deserved. He put me in a third base for the second team in my first practice game on March 17. I batted against Lowdermilk and didn't get anything resembling a hit. The ball had too much smoke for me.

The Blow Falls.

When time came to break camp I was sent on a barnstorming trip with the Yannigans as their third baseman. Jimmy Burke acted as our manager. Harry Heilmann, who had been sent to the minors after a trial with the Tigers two years previous, was back again. He played first base for the Yannigans and has been a Detroit regular ever since. Oscar Vitt went along as a second baseman. He had a sore arm and couldn't throw from third to first. He traveled with us to fill the club. Frank Fuller and George Maisel were out other infielders. George Harper and a couple of pitchers made up the outfield.

I managed to hit fairly well on the trip, but couldn't field a lick. When we met Jennings and the regulars in Kansas City, I knew I had failed to make good. "You're too small, Stanley," the Detroit manager told me. "I'm sorry. Go home and I'll try to land you with some minor league club. Don't get discouraged. You're only a kid. When you get heavier you'll have another chance. Take good care of yourself and build your body up."

Then he gave me a grandstand seat for the opening game in Chicago. That was my first big league game. I didn't enjoy it much. My thoughts were wrapped up in the players on the bench. My hopes of making good in the big leagues were rudely jolted when I watched two real, finished clubs play. That night I took a train for Pittston. I felt my baseball career was at an end. I had been tried and found wanting.

Tomorrow—A Job at Last.

TEN PLAYERS CALLED FOR QUERY

New York, January 21.—All the members of the New York Giants who were mentioned in the bribery scandal of 1924 and five members of the Philadelphia National league team will be questioned by George N. Brothers, assistant prosecutor of New York, in his effort to ascertain the true motive and the real originator of the scheme.

After reading the transcript of the testimony taken in organized baseball's private court by Judge K. M. Landis, Brothers decided he must take testimony himself from Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell, the banished members of the New York team, and from the three other New York players named by O'Connell—Captain Frank Frisch, Fep Young and George Kelly.

The Phillies whom Brothers will examine are Heinie Sand, the shortstop who received the bribe proposal; Art Fletcher, manager; Horace Ford, John Couch and Joe Oeschger. Ford has figured in the case before as the first man to whom Sand confided the secret of the conversation with Jimmie O'Connell, a few minutes after the offer was made. Couch and Oeschger are new men in the lineup of the case, however.

FIGHT TOURNEY TO NAME CHAMP

New York, January 21.—The New York state athletic commission decided today to conduct a lightweight elimination boxing tournament to dispose of the world's lightweight title vacated by Benny Leonard, who retired from active competition last week.

Cablegrams will be sent to all foreign countries where boxing is under organized control, inviting all boxers who can scale 135 pounds to enter the tournament. At the same time an effort will be made to round up every available lightweight in this country, and from the total entry list select the best 12 to compete in the finals. Elimination tournaments may be held in various sections of the world to weed out the inferior material and make the finals as strong as possible.

The commission plans to start the competition within 30 days after the names of the entries are filed.

FLOCK OF GAMES BILLED AT 'Y'

Basketball and more basketball will be the menu for tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Starting at 5:30 o'clock and lasting through the wee hours basketball will be played on the Y court. There will be good basketball, better and best, with the majority on the list of just mere basketball games.

The newest league in Atlanta's amateur circles will open up at 5:30 o'clock with two games when the Y supper-league gets under way.

Starting at 6:30 o'clock one Sunday school league game and two City league games will be played. The City league games will be followed by one Sunday school game at 9:30 o'clock. By special agreement the G. F. G.-22nd infantry game will be played at Fort McPherson.

The Y. M. C. A. Reds and the I. C. Catholics should put up one of the best amateur games of the City league, judging from their past performances. I. C.'s hold a practice victory over the Reds but the game tonight will go down in the records as a league game. Neither team has lost a game since the league opened and a merry scrap is certain to result.

BASKET STAR TRIES SUICIDE

Brunswick, Ga., January 21.—Haley Martin, 20, is in a local hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the lung, thought to have been self-inflicted. The youth's mother, investigating the sound of a shot early this morning, went to her son's room and found him lying on the bed wounded.

EQUAL CHANCE FOR TRIAL ENTRIES

Grand Junction, Tenn., January 21. No one of the 12 dogs that have thus far ran their three hour heats in the contest for the national championship field trials stands out above any other to make his race unbeatable, and the exhibitions of the championship class has been rather ordinary and any of the eight dogs that are still to follow should be able to pass any mark that has been set.

Alabama Will Encounter Cleveland Indians

AVERA LOSES DECISION TO DILLON

Nashville, Tenn., January 21.—(Special.)—Larry Avera, of Atlanta, lost a questionable decision to Jack Dillon, of Nashville, in eight rounds here tonight before one of the largest crowds in local ring history. Avera carried the fight to his heavier opponent all the way, according to the press reporters who said the worst the Atlanta boy deserved was a draw. Avera worked under a handicap of ten pounds and was unable to rough it with the local boy in the clinches, influencing the referee in rendering the verdict to Dillon.

ATHENS SEES BULLDOGS TONIGHT

Athens, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—Georgia's Bulldogs, as far as the local schedule is concerned, will prize the lid off the present basket campaign here tonight at the Moss auditorium. Vanderbilt comes to Athens to furnish the competition. Practices Tuesday and Wednesday were held by Coach Stegeman for the Red and Blackers and they are in good condition to give the Commodores a great battle.

Out of ten games played this year the Georgians have won half of the number. Wins have been scored over Fort McPherson, Savannah Athletic club, Baptist church of Savannah, the Seminole Canoe club, of Jacksonville, and Furman. The Central "Y" of Atlanta, Albany "Y", Columbus "Y" Clemson and South Carolina quintets have handed the locals defeat. Coach Stegeman will probably send in the following to start the game: Nolan Richardson, forward; Morton, Satlof or Kilpatrick, forward; Butler or Harris, center; Weihrs, guard; Forbes or Huguley, guard.

EPWORTHS PLAY THRICE TONIGHT

Kirkwood vs. Park St. (Atlanta-boys) at 8 o'clock.
Oakland City vs. Wesley Memorial (Tiger-girls) at 8:45.
St. Johns vs. Calvary (State-boys) at 9:30.

From the looks of things the games tonight should be close and fairly good battles, but not more than one of them will likely have any bearing on championship standings. Park Street has been playing good ball of late.

Oakland City girls have an edge in dope over the Wesley quintet, but the game will likely be very interesting. St. Johns is favored over the Calvary team, but again a good scrap can safely be predicted. The St. Johns five is a strong basketball aggregation and should make things hum before the curtain goes down on this winter's schedule.

V. M. I. DEFEATS L. MEMORIAL

Lexington, Va., January 21.—(Special.)—In a listlessly-played game devoid of features, the V. M. I. five defeated Lincoln Memorial university tonight, 21 to 10. Both teams were off in their shooting, with the cadets being the worst offenders. The first half ended in V. M. I.'s favor, 13 to 3, but the visitors evened up matters after the intermission, though never threatening the home team's lead.

Lineup and Summary.

V. M. I. (21)	Pos.	L. M. U. (10)
Wintringer	l.f.	Fleeman
F. Ferguson	r.f.	R. F. Manly
J. White	c.	S. Ferguson
Bellinger	l.g.	Pettigrew

Substitutions: Turner for Pettigrew. Field goals: Wintringer (12), F. Ferguson, J. White (2), Bellinger (2), Caldwell, Fleeman, Manly, S. Ferguson, Pettigrew. Foul goals: Wintringer (4 in 6), F. Ferguson (1 in 2), Caldwell (0 in 1), Fleeman (0 in 1), Manly (0 in 2), S. Ferguson (1 in 2), Wilson (1 in 1). Referee, Brett (Springfield.)

MILLIGAN WINS SIX STRAIGHT

Milligan College, Tenn., January 21.—(Special.)—Johnson City's highly touted Mountaineers failed to stem the tide of Orange and Black baskets here tonight, and as a consequence Coach Tobie Edwards' basketball five ran their string of consecutive victories to six when they won by the score of 40 to 11. The game was never in doubt after the first few minutes of play when Coach Edwards sent his entire second varsity into the fray.

CAL TO ATTEND U. OF MISSOURI

Shreveport, La., January 21.—(Special.)—Cal Hubbard, giant end and captain-elect of the Centenary college football team, will enter the University of Missouri next week, according to information received from him today. He returned to Shreveport last week from the University of Wyoming, which he did not enter. However, he was expected to re-enter Centenary but after being here a week has decided not to do so. Nineteen of Centenary's 1924 football letter men have returned.

Nurmi Runs Again; Two More Records Are Broken

Newark, N. J., January 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish runner, shattered two more world's indoor records in the two and three-quarters mile special, the feature of the St. Joseph's Catholic club games in the Newark armory tonight. Nurmi ran the full distance in 13:05, breaking Hannes Kolehmainen's record of 13:05 3-5 made twelve years ago.

Nurmi also broke Kolehmainen's mark of 10:42 1-5 at 2 1-4 miles by one-fifth of a second.

Holds Ten Records.

As a result of his two new records tonight, Nurmi now holds ten indoor running marks, nine of which he broke and one he established during his American campaign.

Walter Mulvihill, Holy Cross star, won the six hundred yard special in 1:17. W. Gibson, of Fordham, was second, and William McKillop, of Boston college, third.

One of the records made by the sensational Finn's predecessor remained intact, however, when Nurmi was four-fifths of a second slow in reaching the 2 1-2 mile line. Kolehmainen established the three marks in a race in the Thirteenth Regiment armory in New York on February 12, 1923.

Nurmi Not Pressed.

Nurmi was not pressed at any time during the race despite the fact that his three opponents were given handicaps of 150 yards. He caught the field at the mile and a half point and then lapped all three runners twice. He ran easily and apparently without effort. He appeared rested from his strenuous week-end and during the last two laps gave the crowded armory a thrill by coming home in a dazzling sprint. Loren Murchison, Newark A. C., sprinter, won the 70-yard dash handily from 30 starters in 7 4-5 seconds. Murchison was the only scratch man, handicaps being given from two to sixteen yards. L. Rawlingson, New York A. C., was second, and W. Blanberg, Newark, third.

Georgetown university's quartet of crack quarter-milers won the 1-mile college relay race, one of the feature events on the program here tonight. Holy Cross was second, Boston college third, and Fordham fourth.

BY GORDON KEITH

By staging an effective and consistent come-back in the second half, Boys' High handed the fast Marist five a neat 31-20 lacing on the new court at the military building Wednesday afternoon in an exceedingly close and exciting basketball game. The Purple five was trailing 15-11 at the half, and until the last five minutes of play the game was still very much of anybody's game.

The battle got off to a fast start, Marist drawing first blood on a couple of foul shots, but Boys' High got the lead a minute later and held a fairly safe advantage during the most of the period. Marist braced, however, and during the closing minutes of the half caught up with and passed the Purple club, holding a four-point lead at the close of the half.

Hurricane Rallies.

With the opening of the final half, however, Boys' High climbed slowly by the temporary leaders and held on to their advantage the rest of the game, adding to it materially in the closing minutes of the battle. Boys' High's play was very temperamental, the team flashing minutes of smooth and effective action and then slouching back to a rather indifferent defensive game. Even when they were trailing at the close of the second quarter, the Purple didn't seem able to shake itself free of the stupor.

But when the boys were working right, points were rolled up in winning numbers in short order. Marist played a good, fast game, and didn't seem bothered particularly by Tuesday's hard tilt with Commercial. The team missed Williams, captain and center, who was removed during the first half on personal fouls, and Corrigan, who made his foul about the middle of the second half.

Miss Many Shots.

Both teams missed a host of shots but Boys' High missed enough under the basket alone to win some games. Courts, great little captain, suffered particularly from bad shots, missing time after time after a pretty pivot or dribble had placed him in easy scoring distance. He was high-point man, at that, getting five foul shots and two field goals for nine points.

Courts, Hill, O'Connor, Boland, Stovall, all played great floor games, especially at times, and although all five were off with their shooting, they got right often enough to show what they could do. Hill sank the longest shot of the day from the center of the court, and put up a great game at guard. Fee and Van Houten played best games for Marist, both players following the ball and working great on defense. Van Houten got 6 points and Fee 4, of their club's 20.

Lineup and Summary:

Boys' Hi (31)	Pos.	Marist (20)
Courts (9)	r. f.	Corrigan (4)
O'Connor (6)	l. f.	Fee (4)
Boland (3)	c.	Williams (1)
Stovall (6)	r. g.	Van Houten (6)
Hill (7)	l. g.	Lambert

Substitutes for Boys' High, Mc Ginty for Courts, Courts for Mc Ginty, Wynne for Hill; for Marist, Langford for Lambert, Lambert for Williams, Holland for Langford, Langford for Corrigan.

Trammell Scott, Andy King Named on Boxing Commish

Trammell Scott, prominent figure in Atlanta's sporting world for the past several years, and Andy R. King, former police commissioner, have been named on the Atlanta boxing commission in place of R. M. Cobb, Jr., and Henry J. Norton, according to an announcement made Wednesday by Mayor Walter A. Sims, who made the appointments.

Trammell Scott represents the American Legion, while King was named in place of Henry Norton from the sporting circles at large.

Alderman Claude Buchanan, representing the city council; Walter Trippe, Dr. W. A. Arnold and J. H. Goldsmith, former members of the commission, were renamed by Mayor Sims, who is ex-officio member of the commission.

In naming the new men for the 1925 commission, Mayor Sims stated that it is the desire to inject new blood into the commission. There is no other reason for the new appointments, and every relation among the members has been amicable and imbued with a spirit of service and good sportsmanship, according to the mayor.

WALK FAILS TO PROVE CHARGES

New York, January 21.—The penalty for boxing Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, who is in disfavor with the New York State Athletic commission, will be six months suspension in this state, the commission determined today. This measure will go into effect immediately and will be retroactive.

Under the new ruling Bobby Barrett, of Philadelphia, and Jock Malone, of St. Paul, Minn., who have been under the ban in this state for engaging in a match with Walker, will be reinstated together with their managers, and Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia, and Jack Zivic, of Pittsburg, will be placed under the ban.

Leo Flynn, manager of Dave Montrose, of Omaha, Neb., asked the commission to accept a challenge in behalf of his man to meet Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, in a title match. The commission reserved decision until next week.

Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga., negro who was knocked out by Jack Delaney at Madison Square Garden last Friday, complained to the commission of a foreign substance in Delaney's glove which he alleged "brought about the knockout." Commissioner Brower said Miller had conferred with him Monday but the evidence had failed to substantiate Miller's charges. Brower told Miller prompt action would be taken if he could furnish proof of his assertions.

ATLANTAN DROPS GOLF MATCH

Miami, Fla., January 21.—(Special.)—J. W. West, of Atlanta, failed to get as far as semi-final round in the mid-winter tournament, being played on the links of the Miami Country club here. Mike Thomas, of Nashville, West's opponent, entered the match with the idea that not every Atlanta player was a Bobby Jones and he went after him from the start. Thomas got the decision by a small margin, 3 and 2.

NEW HOLLAND MEETS J. P. C. TONIGHT

BY C. G. SHINAS.

Atlantans will have an opportunity of seeing the basketball team that defeated Clemson college several weeks ago, when the New Holland Athletic club matches its basketball ability with one of Atlanta's best, the Jewish Progressive club quintet, here tonight on the B'nai B'rith court, 90 Capitol avenue. The game will get under way at 8:30.

The New Holland team has played seven games to date, winning all but two of them, one to Furman and the other to the Atlanta "Y," which barely nosed it out in the final minute of play by the close score of 34 to 30. According to reports, the club boys gave a good account of themselves and justified the high rating they have been accorded in local basket circles.

The New Hollanders' feat in trouncing Clemson takes on added importance and omens well for their strength, when it is borne in mind that Clemson holds victories over both Georgia and Tech.

The offense of the visitors revolves about Harrison and Turnipseed, forwards, and Whitley, at center. Captain Peterson and G. Colbert are admirably capable of some fine work on defense. Both Whitley and Peterson are former Clemson stars.

The J. P. C. needs no introduction to those local fans who saw them chalk up victories over Furman, Newberry, University of Chattanooga Moccasins and the basketeers of the 22nd infantry, defeating the two last named teams twice. The Progressives have an unbroken string of nine wins and are out tonight for the tenth.

If Finkelstein and Captain Spielberger are right tonight, the visitors should be quite royally entertained. In any event an interesting exhibition of how the game should be played is in store for those basketballically inclined.

The teams will probably start the game with the following lineup:

NEW HOLLAND		J. P. C.
Harrison	r.f.	Finklestein
Turnipseed	l.f.	Spielberger (c)
Whitley	c.	Dorfan
W. Peterson (c)	r.g.	Siegel
G. Colbert	l.g.	Rosenberg

STRIB GIVEN NEWSPAPER VERDICT

Grand Rapids, Mich., January 21. Young Stribling, Atlanta, Ga., light-heavyweight fighter, was given a newspaper decision here tonight over Jimmie Delaney, of St. Paul, at the end of 10 rounds.

The men fought on fairly even terms up to the sixth round. In a fierce exchange in the sixth Stribling planted two solid lefts to Delaney's stomach and the St. Paul man dropped to the canvas for the count of three. When he rose the men went into a clinch and by clever blocking Delaney managed to finish the round.

From then on, however, the Georgia boxer continued to pile up points and although Delaney made a rapid recovery from his set-back, his blows seemed to lack the force and snap of the earlier rounds.

Delaney weighed 170 1-2 and Stribling 173.

ATLANTA 'Y' WILL MEET PIEDMONT

Demorest, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—Saturday night, on Piedmont's court, the fast Central Y quintet, of Atlanta, will meet the local college boys.

The fans of this section await with pleasure the opportunity of seeing the famed Y team perform.

The dope points to an easy victory for the visitors, but Coach Forester and his boys refuse to bow to the old dope sheet and are working overtime to get in the very best physical and mental condition for the fray.

Piedmont's team is young, but has gained a fair knowledge of team work.

The girls will play the fast quintet from Oglethorpe at 7:30 o'clock, as a preliminary to the boys' game. Last year the local coeds won from Oglethorpe, and Captain Nichols and company are out to avenge the defeat.

The fans are assured of two fast games.

LITTLE TO COACH AT WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., January 21.—George Little, assistant to Fielding Yost, at the University of Michigan, has been chosen athletic director for the University of Wisconsin, it was announced here today.

THEATER MEN SEEK TO SATISFY PUBLIC

Continued discussions concerning the best means of selling to the south what the south likes in its theatrical entertainments and general business will feature the fourth day's session of the Famous Players-Lasky theater managers' convention today at the Biltmore hotel.

The delegates to the convention were the guests of the Atlanta theater Wednesday night, where they witnessed the production "Simon Called Peter." The entire party sat in a group.

The principal addresses of the Wednesday morning session were delivered by Lee Stewart, theater advertising manager of the Southern Enterprises, Inc.; Claud Saunders, exploitation manager for the Famous Players and A. M. Botsford, advertising manager of the company. These addresses were based on theatrical advertising and exploitation problems.

Special stress was laid on southern conditions and it was declared that prospects in theatrical lines for the year were excellent.

The afternoon session was devoted to the discussion of public desires in entertainment lines and also the theatrical outlook in the southwest. The session was presided over by Harry D. Goldberg, a former Atlantan but who now is the director of theaters for the corporation.

Among the speakers at the session were: C. E. McCarty, publicity manager of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation; Mel Shauer, advertising sales manager of the corporation; Ed Olmstead, publicity director of the McVickers theater of Chicago, and J. F. Parry, of the theater department, editor of Close-Up and the Weekly Review.

The visitors were the guests of the Howard theater Wednesday morning before the regular session, a special showing of a number of reels of motion pictures being exhibited in their honor.

The annual banquet will be given at the hotel Friday evening at which Jesse Lasky will be principal speaker. Mr. Lasky is the vice president of the convention.

SLATTERY PUTS LOHMAN TO FLOOR

Buffalo, N. Y., January 21.—Jimmy Slattery, local middleweight, outboxed Joe Lohman, Toledo, Ohio, light-heavyweight, in a six-round bout here tonight. Slattery scored three knockdowns. The weights were: Slattery 162 1-2, Lohman 169 1-2.

WILFRED OUIMET BEATS CHAPMAN

St. Augustine, Fla., January 21.—Wilfred Ouimet played golf much on the order of that of his famous brother, Francis, today in defeating William Chapman, Jacksonville star, three up and two to go in the first round of the St. Augustine championship. The Boston star, who is older and said to be stronger than the sensational Francis, turned in a card of 75 against his opponent's 78 to win. A high wind made low scoring difficult.

Sewell Brothers, Stephenson Face Alma Mater; Grange Also Performs at Capstone

BY BOB MATHERNE.

University, Ala., January 20.—(Special.)—The Alabama Crimsons will play 22 or 23 games of baseball this year, according to the schedule announced here today by Wallace Wade. The schedule is featured by a game against the Cleveland Indians, a trip to Tennessee for six games and eleven games on the campus.

Montgomery drew one game and Birmingham drew a twin bill. The only game pending is the annual fray with the Birmingham Barons. Thirteen of the games to be played are conference games.

The big game of the year will be against Tris Speaker's Indian tribe which includes in its roster three ex-Alabama players. Joe and Luke Sewell and Riggs Stephenson will perform against the 'Bama crew. There was a conflict scheduled last year between these two clubs, but Jupe Pluvius stepped in and forced the Indians to leave without ever displaying their wares before the Capstone students. The game is scheduled for April 10.

'Bama Opposes Grange.

Two northern teams will be played this year. Ohio State, defeated twice last year, will again sally forth against the Crimsons as the opening two clashes of the year. The famed Illini, with "Red" Grange holding down an outfield berth, will next appear at the Capstone as representatives of the north. Both teams finished high in the western conference last year and always manage to make the Crimsons hustle to win.

Other teams played by Alabama at home include the Georgia Bulldogs, Georgia Tech, Mississippi A. & M., and possibly the Birmingham Barons. Alabama plays Mississippi A. & M., Tennessee, Kentucky, S. P. U. and Vanderbilt on their respective home diamonds. Taken all in all, the schedule for 1925 is one of the most impressive ones ever doled out to the Crimson nine. While Alabama is weakened to a great extent by the loss of several veterans of last year, the material she has will enable her to put forth a club that should win a great majority of her games. A perfect record in baseball is a rarity, but 'Bama expects to put out a team that will win games from start to finish.

Tubbs Leads Tide.

The Crimsons will be captained this year by Paul Tubbs, experienced boxman and one of the most consistent winners in college baseball. Tubbs will wear the Crimson uniform for the third time this season and should again repeat with a great year. He is very steady in the box and has a good mixture along with a fast curve. Cool throughout the ughtest of pinches, he should make the Crimsons a good leader.

Alabama returns the following letter men to mould their nine from: Hubert, catcher; Captain Tubbs, Cunningham, Pitchers; Connatser, Cohen, Gillis and Green, infielders; Proost, Barnes, outfielders.

The complete schedule is as follows:

March 27-28, Ohio State on campus; April 2-3, Howard at Birmingham; April 6-7, Georgia on campus; April 8-9, Illinois on campus; April 10, Cleveland on campus; April 17, Georgia Tech on campus; April 18, Georgia Tech at Montgomery; April 20-21, A. & M. on campus; April 23-24, A. & M. at Starksville; April 30, Tennessee at Knoxville; May 1-2, Kentucky at Lexington; May 4, S. P. U. at Clarkesville; May 5-6, Vanderbilt at Nashville.

TECH-GEORGIA DATES SHIFTED

The Georgia and Tech basketball dates have been changed, according to an announcement made Wednesday afternoon. Georgia will play here on January 31, instead of in Athens, and the February 21 game will be played in Athens. The change was made necessary because the new court at Georgia has not been completed and will not be ready for use before February 21.

New York, January 21.—Selling promoted by larger private ginning figures and less favorable Manchested trade advices carried the price of May contracts off to 23.92 in the cotton market early today. Offerings were comparatively light, however, and part of the loss was recovered, May selling up to 24.04 in the late afternoon, and closing at 24.03, compared with 24.10 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net declines of two to seven points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 3 to 12 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. Reports from Manchester that the talk of increased mill curtailment there was due to accumulating stocks of yarns, evidently made an unfavorable impression on sentiment. There also was bearish comment on reports that one of the southern authorities estimated ginnings to January 16 at 13,370,000 bales and the forenoon market was rather unsettled. Prices worked off to 23.60 for March and 24.13 for July, or about 18 to 19 points net lower before the decline was checked, but at this level there appeared to be some trade buying as well as covering. The latter probably was promoted by reports of continued steadiness in the southern spots, and there were rallies of 10 to 12 points in the late trading. Part of the selling on the forenoon decline was supposed to represent liquidation of long contracts by holders who had been disappointed by the private ginning figures and the less favorable British trade advices. General business was quiet during the entire day, however, much of the trading representing switching between months.

Private cables reported a quiet market in Liverpool also, with some selling of old-crop months and buying of new, and with trade support withdrawn.

Exports for the day were 2,786 bales, making 5,687,048 so far this season.

DULL AFFAIR AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, January 21.—The cotton market again experienced a dull time in today's trading and fluctuations were even narrower than on the previous day. After an early dip of 12 to 14 points the range of fluctuations was within 10 points. Although the developments were nearly all against the constructive side, including growing belief in large ginning totals to be made public Friday, better weather in the belt and unfavorable cables, more resistance to the decline was shown, it being apparent that the long interest in the market had been pretty well liquidated. In the final results the March position showed a net loss of 11 points while the new crop month of October lost only 3 points.

As cables were lower than due at our opening the market started easier, first trades showing losses of 10 to 11 points on active months. March soon traded down to 23.68, May 23.92 and October 23.50, or 8 to 13 points below the previous close. Later prices rallied some, March reaching 23.75, May 24.00 and October 23.58, or to within 4 to 8 points of yesterday's close. Prices at one time eased off again, making new lows at 23.63 for March, 23.87 for May and 23.45 for October, or 13 to 18 points below the previous close, but the improvement of the afternoon carried most months up to within easy distance of the highs. The close showed net losses of 8 to 11 points on old crop months and 3 on October.

A private estimate received during the day made the ginning total to January 16 13,376,000 bales. This estimate and a cable stating Lancashire spinners were contemplating a return to short time owing to unsatisfactory trade proved the main bearish influences of the day. The census bureau report on ginnings prior to January 16 is now expected to show 13,400,000 bales. Exports for the day totaled only 2,768 bales.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, January 21.—After one of the dullest sessions since the national election, heavy buying of U. S. Steel in the last hour carried this issue up over one point to $1.26½, equalling its previous high since 1917. This movement was followed by vigorous advances in many other stocks. American Sugar rose over 2 points to 57⅞, a new high on the current move. Cast Iron Pipe, General Electric, Marland Oil, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Rock Island and many other issues closed at substantially higher price levels than those of yesterday. The few weak spots in today's market were American Wool, Chandler Motors. The oils also participated in the upward swing under the leadership of Marland. The call money market was easy and closed at 2½ per cent for the day. Constructive developments announced during today's market hours, included the announcement that the steel corporation is now operating at 95 per cent capacity and would offer its common stock to employees this year at $125 a share. The Iron Age Weekly Review was also optimistic in tone. The closing tone of the market was almost buoyant and prices on the whole were somewhat higher on the average than those of yesterday.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, January 21.—The market remained dull most of the afternoon, but with a firm undertone. A few stocks continued to show strength. Among these was American Sugar, which is still feeling the influence of President Babst's recent remarks that the company is in a position to resume common dividends. Pressed Steel Car was another strong feature during the dull spell and so were the Commercial Solvents issues. Towards the close special and strong buying developed in the leading issues with steel common closing at the year's high of 126¼ and Alerican Can again reaching 164. Brooklyn Union Gas was another feature in anticipation of something extra to stockholders in the very near future. As a whole the market acted pretty well during the afternoon. Total sales 1,172,400.

Cotton Letters.

POST & FLAGG.

New York, January 21.—Easy cables with depressing trade advices from Manchester and a new and rather high private estimate of the ginning discouraged buying and disposed scattered longs to liquidate prior to the publication of the official report due on Friday. Everything considered, the market took the selling well though it must be said that offerings were not aggressive nor in large volume. The contrast between reliable private advices as to the state of business in Manchester and what has been appearing in press reports is very striking and the two are difficult to reconcile. Official figures, for the trade during the past year have tended to confirm the private advices in showing a satisfactory turnover in both yarns and cloths the past year, but it is possible that some of the trade has been too confident of a further rapid expansion in the demand for goods and have allowed themselves to pile up supplies for which there is no immediate pressing requirement. If so the quicker there is a curtailment in production the less danger that the mills will again find themselves at the mercy of buyers. Domestic mills are in some cases reported to be experiencing themselves to the same risk by running overtime, though it may also be that it is only by so doing that they can fill their orders quickly enough to satisfy the requirements of buyers whose stocks are down to practically nothing and must be replenished. It will be very easy to get too far ahead of the band wagon in discounting further expansion in business, though ultimately the goods will all be needed, there is no pressure from the actual and the basis remains very firm, but the trade is now in fairly comfortable position and will be in no hurry to buy but will wait for favorable opportunities or until forced by a larger more insistent demand for goods.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, January 21.—What news there was circulating today in the market was given a bearish construction. A Memphis agency put out a rather full estimate of ginnings, but this had little effect. Worth street was said to be disappointed over the small purchases by out-of-town buyers, and this led to the belief that retailers are still confident of lower prices, in view of the big crop, and see no changing their policy of hand-to-mouth buying. Yet the array of all this bearish news affects the market but little. With outside at such a low ebb, no big swing in the market is expected, but for those who are content with small profit we prefer picking up cotton on breaks. Liverpool mail advices continue to regard October in that market as an attractive purchase at 12½@12¾ pence.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, January 21.—The market today has ruled generally heavy, owing to scattered liquidation by tired longs, local and southern selling, influenced by poor cables, unfavorable domestic and Manchester trade advices and private estimates of ginning to January 16, indicating a crop in excess of the government estimate. The three private ginning estimates were: National Ginners' association, 13,230,000; Shelton, 13,225,000, and Fossick, 13,376,000. Census ginning figures Friday morning are expected to be about 13,250,000, but uncertainty in this connection has caused some dispositoin to liquidate long lines in the meantime. Philadelphia advices reported an accumulation of cotton yarn stocks and today's Manchester cables indicated increased curtailment being considered owing to the accumulation of yarn stocks in that quarter. Apparently the expected improvement in the textile situation is a disappointment in the measure of its fulfillment thus far, which tends to exert an unsettling influence. There was no special feature to the trading today. Offerings were absorbed by covering and scattered speculative buying and demand from trade to fix prices. Sentiment is mixed at the moment with the local professional element generally expectant of lower prices, but while the market has a sagging tendency there is no evidence of weakness at present, and we look for a quiet trading market pending the time when the new crop prospects will become a potent factor.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, January 21.—Today's cotton market felt the influence of further curtailment talk on the part of British spinners, with prices easing down both in Liverpool and here. There is some feeling now that perhaps stocks of yarns have begun to accumulate because of a rush to spin in excess of anticipated demand. This hardly seems in line with previous reports of good demand, but it could be a fact. A private report, showing 13,367,000 bales ginned, further stimulated larger crop ideas. The market is awaiting the ginners' report at the opening on Friday morning. March Liverpool due 12.79.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, January 21.—There were no fresh cables this morning concerning the prospective reduction in time in Manchester and spot cables seem to keep up in Liverpool at the same rate so that the locals were rather puzzled as to the meaning of yesterday's dispatch. The market here was slightly lower, owing to some private estimates on the ginning report of Friday, which ran as high as 13,370,000 bales, which figures were considered bearish as further confirming large crop views. On the other hand, the market ran into buying orders from the trade on the decline so that no real change in the situation had developed early this afternoon. The local feeling is very pessimistic, but this is not especially significant, because the mere dullness in the market would account for a part of the bearish feeling. On the other hand, no active speculation for the advance has developed so that the market remains deadlocked. It is true that in the meantime, cotton steadily passes out of sight to both export and to domestic mills, but this alone is not sufficient as yet to change sentiment. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: March, 12.80; May, 12.00.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, January 21.—(A. V. Curran & Co., correspondents.)—Returns to the Fossick Bureau, Memphis, Tenn., indicate that 13,376,000 bales were ginned to January 16. If this report is confirmed by census bureau next Friday, it will indicate that the government, in December, underestimated the crop by about 500,000 bales, as 227,000 bales were ginned after January 16, last year, whereas ginnings on the basis of the Fossick estimate for the last period, December 13 to January 16 were 580,000 bales vs. 395,000. On the other hand, estimates as to east Indian crop are being reduced owing to damaging rains. A private estimate today placing the India crop at 5,750,000 bales of 400 pounds vs. the government's estimate of 6,058,000 bales of 400 pounds. Compared with last year exports from U. S. since August 1 in round numbers total 5,000,000 vs. 3,643,000 to even date last season or 1,357,000 larger than last season.

Your Income Tax

Salaries paid employees constitute one of the largest items of business expenses in the returns of many taxpayers. To be allowed, such a deduction must conform closely to the wording of the statute by which it is defined as "a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services already rendered." The test of deductibility is whether the amounts paid are reasonable, and whether they are, in fact, purely for personal services.

Amounts paid as compensation, but not in fact as the purchase price of services, are not deductible. For example, an ostensible salary paid by a corporation may be the distribution of a dividend on stock. This may be the procedure in the case of a corporation having few stockholders all of whom draw salaries. If in such a case the salaries are in excess of those ordinarily paid for similar services and the excessive payments correpond or bear close relationship to the stockholdings of the officers or employees, it would seem likely that such salaries are not wholly for services rendered, but that the excessive payments are a distribution of earnings upon stock and subject to treatment as a dividend.

An ostensible salary may be in part payment of property, for example where a partnership sells out to a corporation, the former partners agreeing to remain in the service of the corporation. In such case it may be found that the salaries paid the former partners are not merely for services, but in part constitute payment for the transfer of their business. The amount of the excess should be treated by the payor as a capital expenditure, which is not deductible, and by the recipient as part of the purchase price.

A person who claims a deduction for wages or salary paid himself should report the amount as income, just as any other wages or salary received. Salaries as wages paid by a parent to a minor child who has not been emancipated—allowed control of his earnings—whether in consideration of services or otherwise, are not allowable deductions.

U. S. Steel Will Declare Extra Dividend Above Present 7 Per Cent Rate, Say Rumors in Street.

New York, January 21.—Weakness developed in a few specialties today but old leaders such as Steel common held firm. Trading was again light.

Wall street would not be surprised to see the stock market mark time until after next Tuesday's quarterly meeting of the United States Steel corporation. Steel common has for some time been acting as if something of interest to the holders of those shares might develop at the forthcoming meeting. From the time the Steel corporation was floated just 24 years ago this spring there has been no change in the amount of outstanding common stock. There is $508,000,000 of the common stock outstanding with authorized but unissued stock which would permit a stock dividend of 35 per cent.

According to rumors widely circulated in the financial district today it would not be surprising if the Steel corporation directors at next Tuesday's meeting either declared an extra dividend, that is, more than the existing 7 per cent rate which includes 5 per cent regular and 2 per cent extra, or else declared a stock dividend. Some of today's rumors placed the expected stock dividend at 35 per cent; some at 10 per cent; some at less than 10.

More than one well-to-do Morgan company has gradually reduced its large accumulated surplus by declaring a long series of stock dividends. General Electric is a case in point. Certainly the United States Steel corporation is one of the well-to-do companies sponsored by J. P. Morgan and company. The last annual steel corporation report is for 1923. That statement shows an accumulated surplus of $512,000,000 not including $180,000,000 of surplus earnings appropriated for capital expenditures.

In recent years the accumulated surplus of the steel corporation has gone on piling up despite heavy appropriations from annual surlus earnings for improvements which properly should be charged to capital account. This money belongs to the holders of the common stock. A stock dividend would automatically reduce the accumulated surplus by an equivalent amount.

Announcement was made today that the steel corporation had fixed $125 as the price at which employees will be allowed to subscribe to stock under this year's profit-sharing plan. A year ago the price fixed was $100 a share. According to today's information 61,292 employees asked for the privilege of subscribing for stock this year with the total subscriptions received aggregating 154,363 shares. For the first time since this plan has been in operation subscriptions will be cut down, this year's allotments being only 50 per cent of the stock requested for all subscriptions received for three or more shares. All together 113,588 shares of stock will be allotted under the regular plan which provides for monthly payments with a special cash bonus on all stock carried by employees for a specified time.

There has been no well-defined change in the steel industry the past week, the Iron Age reports today. No change is noted in the amount of new buying. A slight increase has occurred in the rate of specifying against contracts. Mill operations are higher the steel corporation now running at 95 per cent of capacity. The flow of finished steel into all lines of consumption is unimpeded.

Call money opened at 3 per cent and then dropped to 2 1-2. No change occurred in time money.

Daily Cotton Review

On the New York cotton exchange today prices opened 3 to 10 points lower. January future contracts on that exchange opened at 23.47, were 23.66 at 11 o'clock and closed at 23.46 as compared with 23.50 yesterday and 33.50 one year ago. On the Liverpool Cotton association January future contracts closed at 12.77d, compared with 19.37d last year. On the New Orleans cotton exchange January futures closed at 23.52 as compared with 23.60 yesterday and 33.97 one year ago. January futures on the Chicago board of trade closed at 23.55, compared with 23.65 yesterday.

The average price of middling spot cotton today in 10 designated spot markets was 23.50 per pound compared with 23.54 yesterday and 33.74 on the same day last year. Middling spot cotton at New Orleans today was quoted at 23.70 per pound compared with 23.80 yesterday and 34.00 last year.

Spot sales today in 10 designated spot markets amounted to 13,086 bales, compared with 7,163 bales on the same day last year.

Total exports from August 1 to January 16, are about 28 per cent greater than for the corresponding season last year.

Civil Air Navigation Bureau Is Approved By Secretary Weeks

Washington, January 21.—War department approval of the bill providing for establishment in the department of commerce of a bureau of civil air navigation was contained today in a letter sent by Secretary Weeks to Chairman Winslow, of the house committee on interstate commerce, author of the measure.

The secretary suggested an amendment, however, to provide that the bureau should not interfere with the work carried on by army and navy meteorological stations.

"The importance of adequate government control and encouragement of civil air navigation," Mr. Weeks said, "has long been urged by the war department, and on several occasions the department has pointed out the necessity for early action of this character if the aeronautical resources of the nation are to be conserved and fostered properly."

Total bond sales, par value	$11,540,000.

New York, January 21.—Bond trading today was devoid of features, with prices holding fairly steady on a reduced volume of business. Demand for railroad issues improved, but selling pressure was directed against a number of industrial and public utility liens.

With informal discussions opened between A. J. Pani, Mexican minister of finance and Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the international committee of bankers on Mexico, Mexican bonds continued to display a strong tone. While the advance rested upon the supposition that debt payments would be resumed, it was made known that no proposals to this effect had been outlined and no formal conferences on the subject scheduled.

Growing interest in South American obligations were linked with reports of new financing. The most tangible of these concerned negotiations with local bankers for a loan of $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 for the republic of Chile, the proceeds of which would be used for railway construction. It was indicated that the operation might be a straight bank loan, involving no public offerings of bonds.

Seaboard Air Line bonds led a moderate upturn in railroad issues, in which Frisco and other semi-speculative liens joined. Virginia-Carolina 7 per cent certificates jumped four points and the bonds 1 1-4. Magma and Chile Copper company obligations lost ground on the shading of metal prices.

Public offerings will be made soon of a $3,000,000 issue of 30-year 7 per cent bonds for the Rima Steel corporation, of Hungary. Preparations also are being made to market about $15,000,000 bonds for the Cosden Oil company.

An issue of $5,000,000 A. M. Byers company first mortgage 20s, 6 per cent bonds will be offered tomorrow at 99 by a banking group headed by Dillon, Read & Co., including the First National and the People's Savings & Trust Co. of Pittsburg.

Cottonseed Oil.

New York, January 21.—Cottonseed oil was quiet and devoid of feature today. The price trend was lower through local selling on the decline in lard and grains and slow cash demand. Closing bids were 8 to 13 points net lower. Sales 9,600 barrels. Prime crude, 9.37½ asked; do, summer yellow spot, 10.90@11.50; January closed: 11.00; March, 11.00; May, 11.25; July, 11.45, all bid.

GRAND JURY INDICTS DEALERS IN FUTURES

Griffin, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—Spalding county grand jury returned bills of indictment Wednesday against G. T. Pursley, W. A. Slaton, A. S. Gossett and I. W. Lewis charging them with misdemeanor offenses in dealing in cotton futures on margin as agents and brokers for principals outside the state. Different dates were named in the bill, that of Pursley and Slaton being October 1, Gossett on February 1, and Lewis on September 1.

The returning of these bills came as a surprise, though the question has been agitated in Atlanta for several weeks and a number of cases made there.

He said he probably would present his resignation to a meeting of the board of university and college trustees here tomorrow. Dr. Hull said he was worn out with his lengthy and arduous duties and desired to take a rest.

The Investor

An Analysis of Our New Financing During 1924 Shows Some Interesting Changes in the Flow of Capital to Different Types of Enterprises.

New capital issues in this country reached a record high volume last year $5,427,000,000. The figure given does not include issues that were offered for refunding purposes, an addition that would have brought the grand total, other than "governments," to $6,133,003,622.

Four issues reached or exceeded the hundred million-dollar mark. The largest was the $150,000,000 loan to Japan, but the year brought a sale of $150,000,000 in stock by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. The German loan accounted for $110,000,000 and the French loan for $100,000,000. Something over a half dozen issues were for $50,000,000 or more.

Utilities Took 40 Per Cent.

Some interesting things are revealed in a compilation of new issues for 1924. The study shows that whereas our railroads in 1920 were responsible for $377,879,500 of the financing, or 12.7 per cent of the total, in 1924, they issued no less than $938,196,969 in securities, or 25.7 per cent of the total.

Investors generally know that increasing amounts have gone into public utility enterprises, but few realize the extent of the change. In 1920 public utilities accounted for $496,822,550, or 16.8 per cent, of the corporation financing, but by 1924 the total had reached $1,456,943,527, or 40 per cent, of the total.

Land and building financing increased from $92,403,047 in 1920 to an amount more than three times that total in 1924, or to $300,419,357.

While the total volume of corporate financing has increased substantially as compared with 1920, the industrial financing has fallen off smartly. Industrial issues fell well over a billion dollars from 1920 to 1924, or from $1,838,359,920 to $744,247,725.

Money Going to Foreign Fields.

Now that the United States is a creditor nation, material increases would have been expected in the amounts loaned to foreign governments and foreign corporations. Such a shift in capital outflow during 1924 was in point of fact among the most significant developments.

Foreign governments borrowed only $291,000,000 in 1920, but took $828,005,000 in 1924, the corresponding increase in foreign corporation issues being from $39,925,655 to $279,646,000. In other words, the total of all foreign issues grew from $336,925,655 in 1920 to $1,107,651,000 in 1924, or more than trebled. Another way to look at the thing is to examine the increasing proportion of our total capital issues that is going for foreign uses. Foreign loans accounted for something like 9.80 per cent of our total new issues in 1920, 13.70 per cent on the average for 1920-1923 and 17.7 per cent during 1924. This means that last year something like a fifth of our new capital was invested in foreign securities.

England's New Issue Market.

That so large a part of our new capital is going into foreign flotations is all the more significant in that prior to the war only a negligible part went into that type of security. Perhaps it is only natural that the flow of capital issues abroad should have been reversed. Taking the average figures for three years, 1911-1913, as typically pre-war, England before the war was investing only about 18 per cent of its capital in domestic issues and the remaining 82 per cent in foreign and colonial issues. By 1923 the trend had so changed that domestic issues aggregated about 73 per cent of the total and foreign issues only 27.

Thus it is apparent that England's new issue market has changed from one, as it has been put, "predominantly foreign to predominantly domestic" and that foreign issues have commanded an increasing proportion of our own capital. It well may be that among the most interesting developments in the future will be a continued increase in the relative amounts of our own capital that goes into the securities of foreign governments and corporations.

Weekly Crop and Weather Summary of Cotton Belt

Washington, January 21.—Crop and weather conditions in southern states for the week ending yesterday were summarized today by the department of agriculture as follows:

Except in the Florida peninsula the frequent rains in southeastern states were generally unfavorable, preventing outdoor operations, causing water-logged lowlands, flooding rivers and streams, and damaging farm lands and roads by washing. The high waters were especially bad in central and southern Georgia where unprecedented floods in rivers were reported with heavy damage.

In the Florida peninsula rainfall was light and conditions were generally favorable for plowing and planting and the growth of truck crops, except that it was rather too warm for the hardier varieties of truck. Considerable plowing was done for corn and cotton. In the west gulf area frost occurred to the coast, but it was not severe enough to be harmful, though temperatures were too low to be favorable for winter trucking.

Citrus trees and fruit are good in Florida with the trees putting on much new growth and some blooming as a result of the prevailing warm weather. Strawberries show improvement in Florida.

Truck crops made fairly good progress in southeastern states, except that it was unfavorable in North Carolina. Very little planting could be accomplished, however, because of the wet weather, except in the Florida peninsula where considerable was done and conditions were favorable for germination. It was rather too warm in Florida for celery, lettuce and cabbage. Truck made mostly poor progress in west gulf districts.

Condition by States.

Maryland—Moderate rain of 16th and mild temperature of following few days materially reduced snow cover, which is now 1 to 5 inches, except none in the extreme southeastern portion of the section where winter grains continue exposed and brown. Ice harvesting continues, though most ice houses are filled. Ice in western Maryland is 10 to 12 inches thick.

Virginia—Temperature moderate. Much cloudiness and frequent rains unfavorable for farm work and for stock. Winter grains in good condition generally, with snow cover in western counties. Favorable for preparation of tobacco for market, but very unfavorable for highways.

North Carolina—Moderate temperature; much cloudiness. Rain four days, and lower portions of river flooding. Too wet for outdoor work and unfavorable for truck. Little change in small grains. Dirt roads heavy.

South Carolina—Copious to heavy rains practically constant since early morning of 16th caused floods in river. Lowlands water-logged. Roads badly washed and many impassable. Temperature near normal. Winter cereals grew well and truck on coast improved. Sunny weather needed.

Floods in Georgia.

Georgia—Moderate temperatures, but very excessive precipitation during week. Unprecedented floods in rivers of central and southern Georgia, with much damage to roads, bridges, hydro-electric plants, etc. No outdoor farm work accomplished, except some bedding of sweet potatoes in frames.

Florida—Damaging rains in west; moisture ample in peninsula. Warm weather unfavorable for cabbage, celery and lettuce on peninsula. Planting beans, tomatoes and other truck continued in south and central. Potato planting in some localities; germination good. Oats and strawberries improved. Citrus trees and fruit good; much new growth and some bloom owing to warm weather. Land being prepared for corn and cotton. Ranges improved; stock thin.

Alabama—Lowlands generally inundated, excepting in more northern portions. Farm work at standstill in most sections. Truck and vegetables made fairly good progress in more southern counties; little growing elsewhere. Oats poor to fair progress. Surviving pastures improved; condition mostly poor.

Mississippi—Daily rains Friday to Monday; light to moderate in north, but excessive in many southern localities. Scanty sunshine. Temperature near normal. Little farm work accomplished. Progress of truck fair.

Louisiana—Moderate temperature and cold spells alternated without damage. Heavy to excessive rains 15th to 19th. No farm work. Pastures improving in south portion. Winter truck continued fairly good. Dirt roads bad.

Cold In Texas.

Texas—Cold with frost to coast on 19th. Moderate to excessive rains in north and southeast; light elsewhere. Snow benefited winter wheat in northwest, but progress of wheat, oats, and truck mostly poor; truck shipments increasing from extreme south and southwest. Plowing made slow progress. Dirt roads heavy to impassable in east, fair in west.

Oklahoma—Cold and mostly cloudy; precipitations light in west, moderate to heavy in east. Ground frozen and no plowing, except in extreme southcentral and southeast. Winter grains made no growth and somewhat damaged by alternate thawing and freezing, but condition generally fair to good.

Arkansas—First two days of week very favorable; remainder cloudy and rainy, making soil wet and outdoor work almost impossible. Winter grains and fruit fair to very good, except late wheat and oats badly damaged by freezing and thawing.

Tennessee—Mild and continued wet. Wheat, oats and clover show slight improvement, but still small and weak. Too wet for outdoor work. Dirt roads very bad. Favorable for handling tobacco.

Kentucky — Precipitation very light; temperature near normal. Soil drainage good and night freezes have had little effect. Early wheat mostly well rooted; late scarcely visible on ground. Rapid progress in handling tobacco. Dirt roads soft.

DR. VOTAW TO RETIRE AS HEAD OF PRISONS

Washington, January 21.—Heber H. Votaw, brother-in-law of President Harding, will retire as superintendent of federal prisons March 4. He has informed Attorney General Stone that his health will not permit him to continue as head of the prison system, a position he has held since April, 1921, and his resignation has been accepted with expressions of regret.

Department of justice officials generally praised highly the services of Dr. Votaw, who in private life is a clergyman, when his decision became known. He is regarded as having accomplished many improvements in methods dealing with the delinquent classes of federal prisoners.

Dr. Votaw is now in a sanitarium here, where he submitted to a serious operation several days ago. Prior to entering the hospital he told friends he hoped to return to his office in a few weeks, but his physicians insist that he will be unable to stand the strain.

Dr. Votaw was active recently in assisting Attorney General Stone in the investigation of conditions in the Atlanta prison that resulted in the indictment of former Warden Sartain and former Deputy Warden Fletcher. Mr. Stone said at that time that Dr. Votaw's knowledge of the situation had enabled him to arrive at conclusions in dealing with the situation more quickly than would otherwise have been possible.

His retirement will bring a further reduction in the dwindling circle of intimates brought to Washington by Mr. Harding, which included Governor Crissinger, of the Federal Reserve board; Dr. Charles E. Sawyer, the late president's personal physician; Commissioner Haynes, of the prohibition unit, and others.

Attack on Several Classes Of Issues Has Little Effect

WHEAT SELLS OFF AFTER NEW HIGHS

Chicago, January 21.—Extremely heavy selling after prices had equaled the season's previous top records led to a sharp decline in the wheat market today. Much of the selling was said to have been in the nature of profit taking on the part of the holders. Wheat closed weak, 1 1-4 to 2 1-8c net lower, May 188 3-8 to 188 1-2 and July 165 5-8 to 165 3-4, with corn 2 to 2 7-8c down, oats showing 7-8 to 1 7-8c drop and provisions varying from 12c decline to 37c advance.

Except at the outset, the volume of wheat offerings proved to be decidedly burdensome notwithstanding that the demand became much broader on all the downturns in price. Early advances, which carried the market to the day's highest point, were ascribed to a jump in quotations at Liverpool and to reports of Russian buying there. Subsequent breaks here took May down 3 3-8c the market meanwhile fluctuating at a rapid rate and numerous holders selling freely whenever the market rallied. The most conspicuous selling was from New York houses.

One outcome of today's break in values was to bring Argentine wheat and United States wheat closer together in price than for some time. Incidentally 500,000 bushels of hard winter wheat was reported as having been purchased for shipment to Europe from gulf ports in this country. Other export business in domestic grain was said to have been done.

Corn and oats were depressed by reports that one of the largest industrial consumers of corn had reduced the price of gluten meal $2 a ton. Besides, there were indications of an increased movement of corn to terminal markets.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to the weakness of grain.

FENNER & BEANE.

Chicago, Ill., January 21.—WHEAT: There was a tremendous amount of selling attributed to local cash interests and Wall street speculators. Buying was also impressive much of it coming through houses representing leading longs. Action was unusually rapid with rallies and setbacks coming in quick succession. Cash market relatively firm. Primary receipts, 803,000 vs. 572,000 last year. Weather over the winter wheat belt was generally dry and cold and no important change was indicated for the immediate future. Foreign advices generally bullish wth reports of additional flour business with Russia and continued good continental demand in British market. A press review of the wheat situation issued by a New York paper was held responsible for much of the early selling. The bullish fundamentals on wheat are unchanged. The scattered liquidation has passed into strong hands and we look to see the market sell higher than ever.

CORN: Had a heavy undertone. Trade mixed but buying was chiefly on resting orders on declines. Cash basis unchanged to half up. Weather favorable for the movement and there were indications of increased country offerings. There was heavy liquidation and the break of nearly four cents had much to do with creating depressed feeling in wheat.

OATS: Commission houses bought on breaks. Action influenced by other grains. Country offerings moderate. We continue to believe oats selling too cheap relatively.

RYE: Big mixed trade with extensive long liquidation meeting with important buying. Market had strong undertone and rallied easily from breaks, although influenced at times by action of wheat. We are very bullish on rye and advocate its purchase on all setbacks.

PROVISIONS: Outside investors took surplus off market and recovery was made from the low point. Hogs, strong; top, $11.00.

MEXICO'S FINANCIAL STANDING DISCUSSED

New York, January 21.—Informal discussions regarding Mexico's financial position were opened today between Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the international committee of bankers on Mexico, and Alberto J. Pani, Mexican minister of finance, following the latter's return from Canada.

No formal conference regarding a possible resumption of interest payments on Mexico's external debt, however, have been scheduled, nor have any definite proposals been submitted yet for a restoration of the debt agreement, which was suspended temporarily last July. Mexican government bonds have been unusually strong in stock exchange trading in anticipation of a resumption of debt service.

Although Mexico is in arrears on interest payments of about $17,500,000 for 1924, no technical default has been declared in the hope that the government would be enabled to live up to the agreement which was negotiated in 1922 with Adolfo de la Huerta, then finance minister.

Senor Pani while here also is expected to confer with representatives of the leading oil companies operating in Mexico.

New York, January 21.—Stock prices turned upward today after an earlier period of heaviness resulting from an unsuccessful attempt by bear traders to unsettle the general list by attacking the motor and textile issues. While closing prices disclosed some irregularity, net gains predominated with a number of the popular industrial and railroad issues showing net advances of 1 to 2 points above last night's closing figures.

Trade news continued favorable. The weekly steel trade reviews reported a high rate of mill operations and attached considerable importance to an advance by a Chicago independent of $2 a ton in the price of plates, shapes and bars for second quarter delivery.

The announcement that the United States Steel corporation fixed $125 a share as the price at which to offer stock to employees under the annual subscription plan, against the price of $100 a year ago, also was regarded as a bullish factor and construed in some quarters as foreshadowing the placing of Steel common on a regular $7 basis. U. S. Steel closed 1 1-4 points higher at 126 1-4, the top price of the day.

Oil shares responded to reports of an increase in crude prices and further indications that production in the new Wortham pool was near its peak. Marland was one of the leaders in that group, climbing more than a point to 44. Most of the others improved fractionally.

Selling of the motor shares reflected the increasing competition in that industry as disclosed by recent price cuts. Chandler was the center of attack, being hammered down to 28 3-4, the lowest price in about a year, and then rallying to 30 3-8 for a net loss of 1 1-2 points on the day. General Motors sold down to 72 1-8 and then rallied a point from the low. Nash, which recently had scored a sensational advance of about 80 points within ten days, dropped 3 points to 274.

Liquidation of the textile issues apparently was based on the speculative belief that the recent advance had overestimated the improvement in that industry. American Woolen sold down to 57 5-8 and then moved up to 58 3-4, off 1 1-2 on the day.

Commercial Solvents issues gave another impressive demonstration of strength by adding about 11 points to their recent gains. Their closing prices today represented an appreciation in quoted value of more than three hundred per cent above their low prices of last year. National Surety jumped 36 1-4 points to 206 on one sale.

General Electric advanced 2 1-4 points to 310 1-2, and net gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by American Can, American Sugar Refining, Brooklyn Union Gas, Dupont, Pressed Steel Car, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe. Savage Arms closed 4 3-4 higher at 87 1-2.

Chief interest in the rail group centered in the Southwestern carriers, whose current earnings outlook is reported to be unusually good. Kansas City Southern was bid up to 36 3-8 and then slipped back to 35 5-8 for a net gain of about a point on the day. "Katy" common also sold about a point above last night's close but was unable to maintain all its gain.

Call money opened at 3 per cent and then dropped to 2 1-2, where it closed. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates showed moderate improvement. Demand sterling was quoted above $4.78 with buying influenced by reports that Montague Norman's return to England probably presaged an early return to the gold standard. French francs held firm around 5.40 cents.

ALL CHARGES DENIED BY GASTON B. MEANS

New York, January 21.—Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, took the witness stand late this afternoon in his own defense in the trial of himself and Thomas B. Felder on charges of having attempted to bribe government officials.

Means denied testimony of witnesses for the government that he had entered into a conspiracy with Felder, Elmer W. Jarnecke, or any of the Crager System Glass Casket officials to have indictments for using the mails to defraud against the officials quashed.

He denied he ever had told Jarnecke that he had had a conference on the matter with Attorney General Daugherty, William J. Burns or Secretary Mellon and characterized as "absolutely false" statements attributed to him by government witnesses that he ever had said or intimated that these or other government officials were or could be bribed.

The idea that anybody in the world could bribe the officials mentioned by the government witnesses, Means said, was ridiculous. Under cross-examination by government attorneys, Means appeared eager to go into details concerning numerous transactions to which he testified at a previous trial for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and before the Wheeler committee in Washington. Questions concerning these transactions repeatedly were asked by the government attorneys and objected to by counsel for Means. Many of the objections were overruled by Judge Lindley and Means proceeded to give minute explanations of the transactions. Most of these had to do with liquor withdrawal permits and cases involving violation of the prohibition law.

Earlier in the day, Jarnecke, a former assistant to Means, who has pleaded guilty and is a government witness, testified that he now is on the government payroll at $77 a week as an informer. He said he had made as much as $1,000 a week while associated with Means when the latter was a department of justice agent.

FILE BONDS OR QUIT COUNTY OFFICERS TOLD

Repetition of a warning issued by the governor recently was emphasized at executive offices Wednesday when it was pointed out that more than 100 of the new 1925 county officers have so far failed to file bonds required of them by law with the governor's office. These offices will be declared vacant if the holders do not promptly file their bonds, it was stated.

Coffee.

New York, January 21.—Coffee futures opened today at a decline of five points to an advance of seven points, but improved during the day on covering promoted by reports of a slightly better spot demand or steadier late cables from Brazil. May sold up from 19.40 to 19.60, the market closing 15 to 27 points net higher. Sales were estimated at 25,000. Closing quotations: January, 21.75; March, 20.75; May, 19.62; July, 18.75; September, 17.95; December, 17.45.

Rio exchange on London was 1-64 pence above the pre-holiday quotation and mill reis quotations there were 350 to 400 reis higher. The dollar buying rate was 20 reis higher. Santos market was net 125 reis lower to 100 reis higher. Brazilian port receipts 30,000; Jundiahy, 19,000.

Sugar.

New York, January 21.—Raw sugar was unchanged today with additional sales of about 61,000 bags Cuban and 10,000 Porto Rican reported to local and out-port refiners for January and February shipment, at 4.65 duty paid.

Aside from an opening advance of five points in January, due to covering, but which was later lost under liquidation as a result of the issuance of 15 notices, raw sugar futures were easier. Final prices were lowest and from 1 to 4 points below the previous close, under selling by trade and Cuban interests, promoted by more liberal offerings in the spot market. January closed: 2.91; March, 2.79; May, 2.91; July, 3.05.

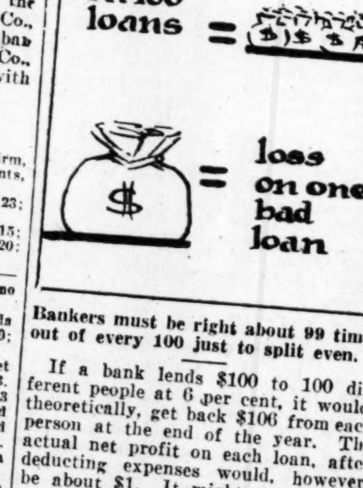

Refined sugar was steady and unchanged to five points higher, although list quotations still ranged from 6.10 to 6.25 for fine granulated. Continued fair inquiry was reported. Refined futures were nominal.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief But Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Bankers must be right about 99 times out of every 100 just to split even.

If a bank lends $100 to 100 different people at 6 per cent, it would, theoretically, get back $106 from each person at the end of the year. The actual net profit on each loan, after deducting expenses would, however, be about $1. It might run as high as $2, but $1 is a reasonable figure.

Thus, on the hundred transactions, the bank would make an aggregate profit of $100. If just one person fails to pay, the bank "splits even." If more than one person fails to pay, the bank loses.

It is for this reason that banks and bankers must be right about 99 times out of 100—or else they fail to make anything. Taking this into consideration, is it any wonder that good bankers are conservative?

TREND IRREGULAR IN CURB MARKET

New York, January 21.—Stock prices drifted irregularly for the greater part of today's curb market, turning upward toward the close in sympathy with the rally on the "big board." Oils held relatively firm on reports of declining production in the new Wortham pool, Ohio Oil moving up more than a point to 69 1-8 and Prairie Pipe closing 2 points higher at 115 1-2 after selling as high as 117. Prairie Oil and Gas (old stock) was heavy, dropping 2 1-2 points to 228.

Public utilities moved within narrow and irregular limits, the only change of any consequence being a drop of one point in Commonwealth Power.

Radio issues held relatively steady, Charles Freshman duplicating its high of 27 7-8 in anticipation of the inauguration of dividends which was announced after the market closed. The new Music Masters stock was active between 21 1-4 and 21 1-2 a share.

A jump of four points in Grand Stores was the feature of trading in industrial shares. A good demand also was noted for Gillette Safety Razor and Ward Baking B, each of which closed about a point higher. Chief interest in the mining group centered in the Penny issues with Independent Lead the active feature.

Must Have Comfort On Way to Prison, Says Oil Swindler

Texarkana, Ark., January 21.—Roy A. J. "Jimmie" Cox, oil promoter, is going to the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth to begin serving a term of three years following his conviction in the federal court here on charges of mail frauds.

Cox made reservations of a drawing room on a train scheduled to depart late today.

"When I get my doctor bills and other expenses paid, I won't have much money left anyway," the erstwhile oil promoter said, "so I might as well travel to jail in comfort, and when I get to Leavenworth I am going to hire a taxicab, if it takes my last ten dollars, and ride right up to the prison gates."

Discounting Dividends

THERE are three periods during which the price levels of common stocks reflect conditions—when the business outlook forecasts larger earnings—when the earnings are an accomplished fact and when these earnings are distributed as dividends.

New Rate Decision Is Seen As Boost for Establishment Of Georgia Port Facilities

BY L. O. MOSELEY.

Dissolution of the discriminatory preferential rate agreements which have operated so disastrously for many years against southern ports presages a new era in southern shipping which will result in marked improvement of business in all lines, according to leading Georgia business men. The decision of the shipping board last Tuesday to abolish a ruling which has acted virtually as a barrier to shipping through south Atlantic and gulf ports, is hailed by business men generally as the greatest forward stride in a revival of southern shipping since the war between the states. Heretofore a preferential rate of 7 1-2 cents a 100 pounds at south Atlantic ports and a rate of 15 cents a 100 pounds at gulf ports has practically nullified appeal of these ports in view of cheaper rates prevailing at ports north of Norfolk, it is pointed out.

Will Draw Trade.

Placing southern ports on a rate parity with north Atlantic ports is expected to result in deflection of vast export traffic from which is called the central freight territory, probably having a more direct and earlier action against Montreal than other of the northern ports. Gulf ports may draw more heavily for the time being on this traffic, it is set out, but south Atlantic ports may be expected to gradually draw away this business as port facilities are increased and shipping is opened up, as necessarily will be the case, it is set out, at south Atlantic ports of Savannah, Brunswick and Jacksonville.

It is argued that while Atlanta and the state and the south generally will benefit greatly by the new ruling, Atlanta's benefit will be more of a "reflection" from big business at nearby ports. This city certainly will become a great distributing and rerouting center because of its favorable railroad facilities. Ports of Charleston, Savannah and Brunswick will have equal claim upon shipments via Atlanta, it is set out, and in that way Atlanta will be aided by immense shipping activity at its very doors.

Will Boost Port Plan.

Many other Georgians see in the shipping board's action a new impetus in the move to build a state-owned port terminal and warehouse facilities at one of the state's ports. Notable in this list is Dr. C. H. Kittrell, of Laurens county, author of the act which created the commission four years ago to study this question. Dr. Kittrell visited the great port at Montreal during his service as a member of the port commission and gathered valuable data which the commission submitted to the general assembly. A year later, or two years ago, the commission having completed the work for which it was created, dissolved.

"This means that Georgia will have to take some steps to build adequate port facilities," Dr. Kittrell told a Constitution representative Wednesday night. "Either the state must determine upon facilities to handle the immense volumne of exports which will move from this territory, or else railroads or municipalities or steamship interests must do it. I favor a state-owned port, of course."

Will Help Farmers.

Referring directly to abolition of the so-called discrimination against southern ports and southern shipping interests, Dr. Kittrell said the decision means real "emancipation of the southern farmer."

With great ports at Georgia's coast and huge steamships touching these ports regularly, Dr. Kittrell said, Georgia farmers will now be able to handle profitably their perishable and semi-perishable products. "Congestion at Montreal, Boston and New York ports," he pointed out, "is so great that southern ports will not find it difficult, once they are prepared to handle it, to divert central freight territory exports via Georgia ports." By central freight territory, is meant the north and middle western states whose products are varied and vast and which have found congestion so great a menace at big northern ports that serious losses have resulted in delays in many cases.

Wheat and corn, both semi-perishable products, Dr. Kittrell said, cannot be shipped north and west advantageously because of "prohibitive" freight rates, whereas opening of southern ports on a parity with other Atlantic seaboard ports would enable southern producers and shippers to ship east via the water route or to northern points by the same route. The former Laurens solon set out that the value of the competition which shipping interests between northern and southern ports will furnish inland rates will result in decided advantage to Georgia producers.

"I remember how steadfastly The Constitution has fought for lower rates," Dr. Kittrell said, "and I am happy that the fight is won."

Sees Large Terminals.

Another prominent Georgian declares that "this decision means that exploitation of southern production will end and that the value of port facilities will be appreciated to the extent that the world's largest terminals will be built along our coast to care for iron, cotton, wheat, corn and other products which we export in such immense quantities from our own southern states."

Railroads will be benefited to a great extent, some set out, in that these roads now will be able to go to take care of middle western shippers without the handicap of excessive port rates, which have operated to the advantage of northern ports previously. Instead, therefore, of vast trainloads of products designated for export passing through northern ports, particularly Montreal, southerners may see these same products passing through to southern ports, paying pro rata freight and handling charges which will amount annually to immense sums.

Traffic experts here point to the tremendous movement of American products through Montreal and to the fact that this business has become so profitable that extensive port improvements have been made and others are contemplated in order to be able to handle the increasing volume.

This new parity of rates, however, while not expected to result immediately in any great boom in exports at southern ports, is expected to result within the next few years in diverting much of the nation's exports through ports south of Norfolk—south Atlantic and gulf ports. The business has almost become a burden to certain big ports, it is set out, and the abolition of preferential rates not only opens practically new ports but furnishes a really needed relief to over-crowded and badly-congested northern ports.

Georgia and other states bordering on the Atlantic ocean or the gulf must take prompt and necessary steps to bid for this business by providing adequate port terminals, it is agreed. To do this, bonds must be floated, either by railroads, municipalities or states concerned, and this fact and the further fact that much time will be required to provide such terminals, argues for the belief in certain quarters tat Georgia's forthcoming general assembly session will bring concerted action so far as the state proper is concerned.

Will Change Traffic Routes.

Washington, January 21.—Action yesterday by the shipping board placing South Atlantic and gulf ports on a rate parity with North Atlantic ports, probably will result in deflection of a portion of the port traffic from central freight territory to North Atlantic ports to the South Atlantic and particularly gulf ports and may even attract American traffic which has heretofore moved by way of Montreal, in the opinion of shipping board officials.

Traffic experts of the shipping board point out that there has been a heavy movement of export shipments of grain through the port of Montreal. The business has become so profitable together with other American export business that the Montreal port has been able to make extensive improvements recently in its facilities for handling the business. With the newly gained parity of rates with the North Atlantic ports, some officials at the shipping board freely predicted that a great volume of business from central freight territory, some of which has been a burden to North Atlantic ports, will now move through the south and probably increase the assignment of shipping board vessels to those ports.

JOHNSON ASSAILS LEADERS OF KLAN

Athens, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—Repudiation of, the Ku Klux Klan officers by Jerry Johnson, deposed kligraph (secretary) of the Athens klan; filing of a libel suit for $100,000 against the organization and three men as codefendants; the promise of Rev. M. B. Miller, deposed exalted cyclops of the Athens chapter, to issue a statement shortly in which he will "place the responsibility for the unfortunate turn, which the klan affair has taken, where it rightfully belongs," and an editorial attacking the organization, today were developments in the sensational "Athens vice cases."

Johnson's statement was issued in vindication of Athens klansmen, and scored tactics of klan officials in handling the matter as they did. He repudiates the "one man system," which gives one man the right to oust members.

The suit was filed by Mrs. E. T. Epps, mentioned frequently in the connection with the "evidence" secured by T. C. Husted, alleged klan investigator. She names as defendants the klan, Husted, Dr. H. D. Coffee and B. Dunaway, all of whom were indicted recently in connection with information bared by Husted and his coworkers. Mrs. Epps was indicted on a charge of selling liquor, but her case was thrown out of court by action of the solicitor. Mrs. Epps' suit was filed in Clarke county superior court today.

Deposed Officers Hit Back.

Johnson Tuesday night repudiated state officers and declared that he and his associates in the Athens organization are planning to vindicate themselves and all Athens citizens connected with the affair. He issued a lengthy statement today.

"Athens citizens are going to refuse to become the goats of the men higher up," Mr. Johnson declared.

Breech Widens.

General Nathan Bedford Forrest, grand dragon of the klan for the realm of Georgia, and his chief-of-staff, M. O. Dunning, both of Atlanta, attended the meeting of the Athens klan Tuesday night, and according to reports of the meeting, which have seeped out during the day, attempted to effect a reconciliation between Athens klan officials and the Georgia officials. Miller and Johnson refused to consider the proposals, according to reports, and the breech widened.

The editorial of The Athens Banner-Herald, captioned "The Klan Affair," questions the sincerity of leaders of the klan, and blames them for the Athens affair. Their public condemnation of the methods used in the Athens cases is called a sham.

In one of the bitterest editorials published against the organization in Georgia, The Banner-Herald declares that the condemnation by national klan officers is for the unfavorable publicity given the organization rather than the unfair methods said to have been used by the investigators.

Clean-up Denounced.

Accusing high klan officials of a greed for money, which is "poured into the coffers of the organization," the editorial denounces the methods of clean-up activities as an attempt to further the impression that the klan is an active agent for morality.

Excerpts from the editorial follow.

"The announcement of the suspension will be received generally with keen but skeptical interest. Few intelligent people will believe in its sincerity.

"That the imperial palace is sincerely indignant over the disastrous result of this enterprise, and the resulting odium that has been added to the klan's already plentiful share, no one doubts. That its real indignation goes further and also honestly condemns either the methods employed, or the investigation's apparent chief purpose of entrapping and humiliating a few enemies of the klan, no one believes. The klan's record of insidious intrigue, deception and treachery, gathered from all parts of the country, challenges the belief that anything has been done by Athens members that really shocks the imperial conscience.

Grafters Are Hit.

"Grafters controlling the klan have been enriched by the flood of money from initiation fees, dues and sales of regalia, and have laughed in their sleeves at the ease with which men are duped. The officials of the palace, who enjoy the revenues flowing into its coffers, at heart care little or nothing for the principles the order makes such pretentions of championing. Nor are the demagogues, who have sought political preferment through affiliation with the klan, greatly concerned at heart over the tenets of the order. Greed for money actuates the one class, and a desire for votes inspires the other.

"An occasional demonstration of 'clean up' activity is made, having for its object the furtherance of the impression that the klan is an active agent for morality of conduct, and sometimes the additional object of revenge on some enemy of the klan.

"How long will the rank and file, whose money, paid in small amounts, swells into the stream of gold that flows into the pockets of the grafters in the 'imperial palace,' continue to stand for that monumental imposition upon their credulity? How long will they tolerate such spectacles as the one just witnessed in Athens, of our highest trial court of justice being forced to patiently grope for four days in the dark shadows created by the klan for a grand jury qualified to vindicate the laws of the land?

"The public justly condemns the methods of all of those, local and foreign, who participated in inducing violations of law for the purpose of exposing them. But we do not think that the public will be deceived into believing that the local klan committee has committed any sin in the sight of the imperial palace, other than that of permitting to become temporarily visible to the public eye the machinations of their superior officers in the so-called invisible empire."

Johnson's Statement.

Mr. Johnson's statement in part follows:

"Young people of our land cannot know the principles of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and I can in no way reach them in a message proclaiming it, therefore, in justice to myself, whose name has been broadcast to the nation as a member of the Klan of Athens, as one of its officers, I feel that I must explain the situation, since I must continue to work among the youth of our land, many of whom will never be familiar with the klan and its government. First, I would wish to say, that I am a Klansman 100 per cent. I believe in the organization with my soul and heart, but I cannot believe in the "One Man System," whereby one man from Atlanta, Ga., or any other state in the union can come to Athens and tell men absolutely the turns they shall make and further still that regardless of the publicity given, which was hurtful, to make no comment. I further still will not affiliate myself with such an organization, as long as I know my rights. Above all in the world I place the Church of the Living Christ first in my life and I think a "Man of God," as Dr. Miller, pastor of the First Christian church is, his statement should never at one time be allowed to be questioned by any Atlanta official, or anybody else.

"Upon joining Dr. Miller the first of January, I promised to go "down the line" with him in the uplift of Christianity in our community for the welfare of our young people, especially the boys of Georgia university.

"T. C. Husted was sent here by national headquarters, receiving his pay from them, therefore, making him an employee of the national order and not Dr. Miller. Further still, Dr. Miller is no detective and is by no means familiar with the handling of gambling houses, where on the other hand, Mr. Husted is a professional and should know his business."

GEORGIA KLAN NOT RESPONSIBLE, FORREST.

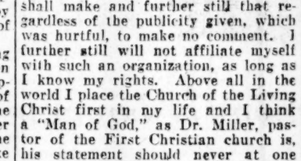

General Nathan Bedford Forrest Wednesday night stated that he had not been advised of the suit filed against the Klan in Athens Wednesday. He said that allegations of deposed Athens Klan members and the editorial of the Athens Banner-Herald in attributing responsibility for the alleged unfair methods of the Athens investigations were false.

"There is no truth in their assertions," General Forrest declared. "I am sorry that a purely local Athens matter should involve the whole organization. It is manifestly unfair to hundreds of Klansmen in all parts of the country."

NORTH ATLANTA M. E. BODY HONORS TYLER

Dr. R. Z. Tyler was elected secretary of the Preachers' and Missionary institute Wednesday morning at a meeting of the organization held in the Wesley Memorial church.

Plans were also formulated concerning the activities of the churches of north Atlanta with particular stress on the work of the laymen during the ensuing year.

Dr. W. L. Pierce, presiding elder of the North Atlanta district, opened the meeting with a brief talk concerning the need of unity of work among the churches of the conference, declaring that the time had come for them to realize that they must work as one. He asked that the laymen be brought into more active service in the church.

L. J. Ballard, managing editor of the Christian Advocate, outlined the policies of the publication for the ensuing year and asked cooperation of the preachers and missionaries.

A motion introduced by Rev. J. W. Quillian, pastor of Druid Hills M. E. church, asking members of the institute to pledge themselves to carry out the program of The Advocate during the month of February was unanimously adopted by the body. In this connection the month of February has been designated by the organization as "Wesleyan Christian Advocate" month.

During this month special services are to be conducted by the pastors, using as a subject of their sermons on the first and second Sundays of the month, "Christian Literature and The Christian Advocate." Besides the sermons, on the third Sunday of the month subscription cards will be distributed to the church members and an "every-member" canvass made for subscriptions. It is expected that the subscription list of the publication will be increased several thousand names, stated Dr. Dempsey.

A mass meeting is to be held in the Wesley Memorial church on February 22 for the purpose of discussing laymen activities, W. I. Bennett, a prominent Methodist layman, made a special appeal to the preachers to be present.

Other speakers at the meeting included Dr. S. P. Wiggins, secretary of missions in the North Georgia conference, and Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, secretary of education.

Among those present were Dr. Pierce, Dr. Tyler, Dr. Ballard, Dr. Wiggins, Dr. Quillian, Dr. Dempsey, Mr. Bennett, the Revs. C. J. Harrell, J. H. Allison, V. Bray, L. Harrell, G. H. Eakes, S. R. Belk, H. B. Mays, A. Hutchinson, W. W. Cash, Marvin Williams, J. M. Tumlin, M. M. Walraven, J. J. Blanks, J. W. O. McKibben and C. W. Fruit.

TRIP OF CHAPMAN VEILED IN MYSTERY

nesday. If Chapman was brought to Atlanta on the first regular outgoing train from Cincinnati, he would have shook the dust of the Buckeye State from his heels at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, and would reach the environs of Atlanta about 8 o'clock this morning.

As much pomp and official ceremony attended the return of Chapman to prison as did the famous Messrs. Loeb and Leopold, when they were taken to the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet. Authorities openly admitted that they would not be surprised if an attempt was made by confederates and underworld friends of Chapman to try to snatch him from the custody of his captors somewhere between Indianapolis and Atlanta. Every possible precaution was taken against such an untoward incident.

Police officials at every town along the route of travel where the train bearing Chapman was scheduled to stop were warned by telegrams to be on hand when the Chapman special passed through and to arrest and hold any suspicious-looking characters.

Chapman was arrested after a running gun duel with police and detectives at Muncie, Ind., 40 miles north of Indianapolis.

Started to Atlanta.

Indianapolis, Ind., January 21.—Gerald Chapman, who was captured in Muncie, Ind., Sunday, was started today, heavily shackled with handcuffs and leg irons, on his return to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., from which he had escaped in March, 1924, after serving a few months of a 25-year sentence for a $2,400,000 robbery in New York city. He was in the custody of W. N. Berrong and G. W. Hughes, deputy wardens from Atlanta, who arrived yesterday.

Fearing an effort might be made by confederates to effect his release, the route to be taken was not disclosed. The short distance from the city prison to the Union station was closely guarded and the prisoner was taken to the train through the baggage shaft. Police officials in cities where the train stops have been assigned to railroad stations to watch for suspicious characters without being advised of the nature of their work, it was stated here.

No further word had been received by officials here regarding the efforts of Connecticut authorities to obtain custody of Chapman, who is wanted in New Britain for the alleged slaying of a policeman.

ORDERS BENCH WARRANT CHARGING MURDER.

Hartford, Conn., January 21.—Judge Hinman today ordered a bench warrant issued charging Gerald M. Chapman, notorious bandit, with the murder of Policeman James Skelly, of New Britain, Conn., on October 12. Issuance of the warrant follows meeting yesterday by a grand jury. State Attorney H. M. Alcorn is to leave for Washington today to confer with Assistant Attorney General W. J. Donovan concerning his request to have Chapman brought to Connecticut for trial on the murder charge.

told that he was tired, and that the gruelling day in court had had its effects. But through it all he has retained unusual composure for one of his years. Not a word of the testimony nor a movement in the court misses his attention.

Gibby shot Quinn to death at the corner of Stewart avenue and Wells street three months ago.

Does Not Ask Chair.

Assistant Solicitor General Ed A. Stephens, leading counsel for the state, delivered the final argument. He made no appeal for the "chair," but did ask for a "verdict of guilty of an offense no less than murder."

"I am not going to ask you, gentlmen of the jury, to fix any particular punishment for the defendant," the solicitor said. "But I am asking you to find him guilty of murder. It is up to you to fix the punishment."

Mr. Stephens then stressed the point that a man "can not come into court and defend himself by saying merely that 'my life was in danger' unless he can show some good reasons for the act." One of the main contentions of the state's case has been that Quinn did not make any move that would have caused Gibby to think his life was in danger.

Defends Slayer.

R. B. Giles delivered the opening argument in the boy's defense. He declared that Gibby fired the fatal shot because he feared Quinn was going to kill him. He reviewed testimony which was introduced in an effort to show that Quinn had administered a severe beating to the boy earlier in the day.

W. W. Tindall next took the floor in Gibby's behalf, and was followed by Claude Brackett, also counsel for the defense.

Mr. Tindall declared that "John Quinn would have killed somebody that day."

"He would probably—more than probably—have killed this little fellow you see sitting over there," Mr. Tindall said, pointing to the boy, as he sat, eyes widened, drinking in every word that was spoken. "He shot in fear of his own life. John Quinn had beat him that very day, and had thrown rocks at him that would have killed him if they had found their mark. And the state would have you believe that this boy was sent out by his family with a gun to get big old John Quinn—a 185-pound brute. Turner Gibby did just what you or I would have done if we had been confronted with the same condition."

Self-Defense Claimed.

Mr. Brackett's argument was along the same line, maintaining that Gibby had shot in self-defense. He also attacked the testimony offered by Mr. and Mrs. R. Allen, who stated on the stand that they were passing the scene at the time of the shooting. Both witness had testified that Quinn had made no move that would indicate he intended to harm Gibby.

Mr. Brackett declared that it would have been impossible for Mr. Allen, while operating a car in heavy traffic, to have observed so carefully the movements of the two men.

The feature of the trial Wednesday came when Gibby, slightly flustered, took the stand is his own defense.

Gibby's Story.

"I didn't shoot to kill him," he said, "I only shot to make him let me alone."

"On the Sunday morning this thing happened, I was walking along Wells street with my hands in my pocket, and I saw Quinn. He was drunk. He said: "Oh, yes, you've got a knife, have you? You're going to kill me, are you?' I told him no, but he slapped me as hard as he could and ran into the street to get some rocks to throw at me. My brother stopped him and led him away.

"That afternoon my brother, Worth, rode his horse to our house, and when one of my other brothers asked me to go to the drug store for him I took the horse and went toward West End. At Wells and Stewart I saw Quinn, but not until he had started towards me. He had his hand in his hippocket.

"He said: 'I've got you now, and I'm going to kill you.' I slid down off the horse, keeping it between me and him, and shot him."

Gibby said he ran away in his fright, but when he found out he had killed Quinn, and that his father and brother had been arrested, he returned.

The defense rested its case with the boy's brief statement.

Victim's Widow Called.

Mrs. Ida May Quinn, widow of John Quinn and sister of Turner Gibby, was earlier in the trial called as a witness in defense of her brother. She told the court that "she knew her husband was a bad man." Objections to this statement, made by Solicitor Stephens, were sustained.

On cross-examination she stated that she had been forced by her husband to leave the house on the day of the shooting. This remark was ruled out by the judge also.

"On the Friday night before the killing didn't you tell your husband that you would kill him before the sun went down or your brother would?" Solicitor Stephens asked her.

She denied this, but upon redirect examination stated that her husband had threatened to "get" her brother.

Annie Lee Gibby, Turner's 11-year-old sister, was called to the stand by the defense. She testified that she had heard Quinn say that he was ready for the whole family.

Solicitor Stephens sought to prove by the introduction of several witnesses that Gibby shot without provocation. The first of these was E. G. Johnston, Quinn's brother-in-law, who declared he had been an eye-witness to the shooting. He said he saw Turner Gibby ride up to the scene on the horse, dismount when he came abreast of Quinn, who stood on the sidewalk, fire a shot without warning, and run away on foot as Quinn sank, mortally wounded.

Brother Takes Stand.

"Quinn barred our sister from his house," he said, explaining that the quarrel that preceded the shooting a few hours was inspired by what the Gibby boys considered an indignity to their sister. Gibby declared that Quinn had a gun in his pocket, and that he, himself, had advised Quinn not to carry it.

Tommy Gibby, a distant relative of Turner, but of a branch of the family separated by an old quarrel, took the stand and testified that the slayer had fired a shot at him as he fled from the scene after mortally wounding Quinn. Tommy Gibby testified that he watched the shooting from the porch of his home at 109 Wells street.

"I've got one of them down," he quoted Turner Gibby as shouting as he ran past the house, "and now I'm going to get another one." A shot followed this remark, Gibby said, and he fled into the house.

"Little Bill" Gibby declared emphatically that this second shot was accidental. He also testified that Quinn took several steps forward toward his brother before the latter fired.

American constitution now living in Georgia and he has many times urged the youth of the state to study this document and thus get a better understanding of their position as citizens of this, the greatest nation the world has ever known.

"The prizes offered by The Constitution to the winners in the twelve congressional district debates, and to the two winners in the state contest," will act as inducement to a deep and careful study of our fundamentals of government which will eventually prove of value immeasurable in dollars and cents to the individuals" said Secretary McLendon. "To add to encouragement of this study, it might be well to mention that in the legal profession it is an invariable rule that the man who knows and understands constitutional law best is the most successful man in his profession. This is an axiom that no lawyer will dispute."

Is National Contest.

The oratorical contest, details of which were announced in full in The Constitution of Tuesday last, is a national contest sponsored all over the country by the American Bar association. The nation is divided into seven zones for the purposes of the contest and Georgia is in the southeastern or fourth zone.

Briefly, the method of conducting the contest, worked out by Professor J. S. Stewart, of the department of English at the University of Georgia and president of the Georgia High School association, provides that each high school shall first of all select the best debater among its own students. These winners will then debate with all others in their own congressional districts.

The district winners will then meet in debate at Atlanta, where Governor Clifford Walker will preside.

The Georgia winner will then go to Nashville, Tenn., to debate with the other state winners in this zone and the zone winners will go to Washington, D. C., for the final national debate which will be presided over by President Coolidge.

In the Georgia debates The Constitution offers prizes of $100 in gold to the state winner and $20 in gold to second place, in the state contest, as well as a prize of $15 in gold to the winners of the 12 district debates.

The American Bar association will give $5,000 in cash prizes to the national winners, this being divided into seven prizes. First prize is $2,000; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $450; fifth, $400; sixth, $350; seventh, $300.

Dates for the contests have been set as follows: Schools, March 20; district, April 9 or 10; state, April 24; zone, May 1; national, May 8.

All orations must be original and may be on any one of the following subjects: "The Federal Constitution," "Washington and the Constitution," "Hamilton and the Constitution," "Jefferson and the Constitution," "Marshall and the Constitution," "Madison and the Constitution," "Webster and the Constitution," "Lincoln and the Constitution."

All bona fide high school students, residents of Georgia, are eligible, boys or girls. They must be under 19 years of age on February 1, 1925.

Annual Meeting Will Elect Officers At Capital City

All of the stars are honor guests at dinners given by the Atlanta Musical association, and a succession of dinners and dances take place during the week.

Flonzaley Quartet To Appear Saturday At Woman's Club

The Flonzaley quartet which appears Saturday afternoon at the auditorium of the Woman's club for its 10th Atlanta engagement, is announced to give a program of more than usual interest and beauty.

Appearing as heretofore in the series intime of the Atlanta Music club, the famous ensemble will be heard by an audience of the representative music lovers of the city who regard the annual concert of chamber music as the most exquisite and delectable of the winter's entire musical season.

The program for Saturday opens with the celebrated Haydn quartet in D minor, opus 76, which the Flonzaleys have played here before. This is followed by two movements of a quartet, opus 67, by Joseph Jongen, Belgian composer, best known for his symphonic poem, "Lalla Rookh." The name of Jongen is new to Atlanta; as is also that of Waldo Warner, whose miniature fairy suite, "The Pixy Ring," on the programs of the Flonzaleys this season, has elicited the most favorable comment from the reviewers. "The Pixy Ring" is in five movements bearing such charmingly whimsical titles as "Moon Beams," "Toad Stools," "Tinkling Blue-Bells," "Pixy-Laden" and "The Ring Dance," suggestive of elves and fairies, and the land of fancy.

In its eeriness the first movement is said to be reminiscent of Johann Strauss; the fourth as atmospheric as Dubussy. The solo parts for first violin and viola are described as particularly charming, with a most effective accompaniment of very decided modern harmonies. The work as a whole, though modern in treatment, is predominantly melodic.

The program also includes Schubert's "Death and the Maiden."

A Rust Preventive.

After using the washing boiler and while it is still warm, rub the inside with soap. Soap will prevent rusting and add to the suds when the boiler is filled with hot water next washday.

Removes Stains From Porcelain.

Equal parts of baking soda and chloride of lime smeared on the dark spots on a porcelain sink and left on for a few minutes and then washed off with soapy water will wash away those nasty dark stains at the same time.

The Hot Water Bottle.

A hot water bottle should be filled about three-quarters full, never to capacity, when used for warming a bed. When used to relieve pain, one-half full is plenty, as it will then give a soothing effect without proving too heavy for comfort.

LIVE STOCK AGENT ADVISES FARMERS

Macon, Ga., January 21.—Adhere to livestock and general crops is the advice given farmers by W. C. Middlebrooks, Bibb county agent, and J. A. Johnson, district agricultural agent, in urging that they not devote too much time and energy to the production of highly specialized crops.

"Specialized crops are fine, provided the farmer has plenty of land and plenty of labor," they say, "but to the farmer who wants to make money consistently, we recommend the other method."

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—(adv.)

WOMEN BORN 1873 TO 1881

Now Is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This is the second of a series of important functions held at the Atlanta Woman's club for the purpose of launching the campaign which is to culminate so happily in the coming of the world fliers, who appear under the auspices of this committee in March, giving opportunity to thousands of Atlantans to see and hear the greatest explorers of modern times.

Prominent among the guests who will join in welcoming Rear Admiral Fullam and in hearing of the success of the undertaking are Governor and Mrs. Clifford Walker, Mayor and Mrs. Walter Sims, W. R. C. The latter number is considered an important work by the distinguished pianist, Ashley Pettis, and is played by him in concert.

In teaching along progressive lines, Miss Farmer is endeavoring to introduce an idea that will alleviate the much-talked-of nervousness of pupils when playing in public, by having all the students sing two familiar songs, in which the audience will join, thereby producing a spirit of harmony and mutual interest on the part of both participants and listeners. BEAUTY CHATS
BY EDNA K. FORBES.

THE BEAUTY "PARLOR."

First of all I wonder why they call it a "parlor." It isn't a pretty word, it suggests a gloomy room with fancy gilt wall paper and too many clocks and gold chairs that tip over if you look at them—a stiff place from which "company" would flee. Our parlors, fortunately, are now becoming living rooms, and our mode of life and of hospitality has changed, too.

Beauty "parlors" are becoming beauty "shops," and equally desirable change. The places where once you sat uncomfortably while odd things were done to you with curling tongs and sticky skin pastes, by tight-waisted women attendants, have become cleverly decorated little shops where either service or bottled lotions are dispensed.

Yet some of the "shops" are very funny. As a matter of business I go into many of them, into every one that looks as though it would show me anything new or useful. Invariably the young girls who work therein are overpainted, perhaps because they are so surrounded by rouge and powder that they can't see it on their skins until it is as deep a tint as it is in the boxes. Almost always they call me "dearie." Now why must a young attendant, to show her sense of friendliness, address an utter stranger by this term of endearment? I've watched other customers, they all get it, all but the while-haired, middle-aged women.

In the very expensive places "dearie" has become "madam." But in America we have forgotten how to say "madam" naturally, though our mothers knew how as children when they addressed grown ups. Often it's 'badab" these days, for the chiffon-clothed, sleeveless young things have colds in their heads the winter long. Often "madam" is offensively servile—or exaggerated—always it's unnatural.

As for the things they force one to buy But that's another story.

Della Robbia: Dark circles around the eyes come from internal causes so you cannot eliminate them by using ointments or by using other local treatments. Consult your physician.

Minnie and Mollie: As the present tendency in hair dressing is to make the head look trig, and whenever possible simulate a sculptured profile, there is no reason for roughing your hair to build it out around your face.

Robert S. C.: I will be glad to send you the pilocarpine hair tonic formula if you forward a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Discouraged: It will help your nails if you massage a cream into them every night before retiring. Whenever the ridges are very rough go overy the nail surfaces with a fine emery board or a little powdered pumice, and then polish well with the buffer to smooth.

Tomorrow: Luxurious Baths.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

T. C. TALIAFERRO JOINS HAAS & HOWELL FIRM

Appointment of T. C. Taliaferro is manager of the fire insurance department of Haas & Howell, a prominent local insurance agency, was announced Wednesday.

For four years Mr. Taliaferro has had complete supervision of special service work for a large fire insurance company for 10 southern states. Prior to that time he was assistant chief engineer of the Southeastern Underwriters' association, where his duties gave him unusual opportunity to familiarize himself with all details of insurance engineering, schedule rating and fire prevention work. Mr. Taliaferro has thus been closely identified with the fire insurance business in Atlanta and the south for many years. He is a resident of Decatur, Ga.

This appointment is in line with the agency policy of rapid expansion of service facilities to meet increased needs of the community, due to its rapid growth.

This is the second important appointment announced by Haas & Howell in the past few months, this firm recently having brought George L. Jones from Baltimore to take charge of their casualty insurance department.

GOIN' RAIN NO MORE FOR AWHILE AND IT WILL BE FAIR, TOO

Fair and warmer weather is promised Atlanta and Georgia on Thursday, with the added probability that the warm, clear spell will continue for several days at least. This was the optimistic news given out on Wednesday by C. F. von Herrmann, in charge of the local office of the United States weather bureau.

As a result of the two days of fine weather, after the protracted period of rains, the flooded rivers of the state are nearly all fast receding from their highwater marks of last Monday, though the Apalachicola will continue to rise for the next couple of days as the waters from its tributaries work their way to the sea.

The temperature at Atlanta Wednesday was 34 in the early morning, but it rose rapidly during the day until the afternoon readings were in the high forties. It is expected to be even higher Thursday and Friday.

GEORGIA MARBLE CO. GETS BIG CONTRACT

The Georgia Marble company, of Tate, Ga., was awarded a contract for marble to be used in erection of the new capitol of Porto Rico, winning after competition with two of the oldest marble producing sections of the world, according to an announcement Wednesday by Alexander Anderson, general manager.

The two concerns presenting bids for the contract were Vermont and Italian marble companies. Therefore Georgia marble will be recognized as of the finest of quality, having been selected as the best and the Georgia firm being awarded the contract.

The contract, which represents about $800,000 worth of marble, all to be finished and polished, and will cover all the production of the quarries for nearly a year, it is stated.

Sam Tate, the president of the Georgia Marble company, has been in New York for some time on the deal and will make the necessary arrangements for shipping the order before returning to Georgia to personally look after the production, Mr. Anderson stated.

DESPONDENT WOMAN TRIES TO END LIFE

Mrs. Edith Johnson, 30, is in Grady hospital, where she was taken Wednesday afternoon after swallowing a large dose of bichloride of mercury in a downtown hotel.

She refused any explanation of her act other than, "I'm tired and want to die."

Mrs. Johnson has an 8-year-old daughter in St. Louis, and has been separated from her husband for the past five years, she told hospital officials.

She is expected to recover.

"Awful Dizzy Spells"

ABOVE is a picture of Mrs. Ella Wheeler Patty, of Quitman, Texas, who says her good health in recent years can be traced back to her use of Cardui. Two experiences, several years apart, are described by Mrs. Patty below:

"I got where I could hardly go, and was almost past doing my work. I dragged around—was in pain and misery all the time. Had bad pains in my sides and back—awful headaches.

"I realized I needed a female tonic—something to give me strength and build me up. When I was complaining around, each of my friends had her favorite remedy to recommend—they always do, you know!

"Well, one whom I had some confidence in said 'try Cardui,' and so I did. I could see that it helped me soon after I began to take it, so I continued to use it until my strength returned, and I was able to do my work without aches or pains.

"When I went through the change of life I took Cardui for months at a time as I needed it. . . . I had bad pains in my sides and awful dizzy spells. My head would ache dreadfully, and it seemed to me that I had most every kind of a spell that women have at that particular time of life.

"Cardui . . . relieved the dizziness and awful suffering with my head. I can't recommend it too highly for the change, for I could not have gotten along without it. Just as soon as I would start taking it I could feel the difference. I know how it helped me, and I am confident it will help any woman who will give it a fair trial.

"I am in fine health now—no aches or pains anywhere. I can work all 'round the young women of these days."

Red Hair and Blue Sea

BLUE RIBBON FICTION

By Stanley R. Osborn.

SYNOPSIS.

Palmyra Tree, on board the yacht Rainbow, which is leaving the California coast for the South Seas is startled to see a sinewy hand with a black lace mitt on it thrust through her porthole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Rutger. She is not certain which she loves.

Palmyra determines to unearth the owner of that sinister hand. She discovers Ponape Burke, who confesses he is a smuggler of coolies. Burke permits her a glimpse of a savage brown man, Olive, hiding with him.

Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Rutger. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The yacht Rainbow is wrecked, and the party lands on an uninhabited island. Burke appears on the Pigeon of Noah, and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate, and finds herself a prisoner. Burke sails away with her, telling her it was he who wrecked the Rainbow. Thurston and Van Buren start in vain pursuit. Burke grows ugly at Palmyra's refusal to listen to his love making, and leaves her alone on a deserted island for a few months with barely enough food to last until he shall return for her.

In the morning she sees Olive, the brown man, swimming toward her. Exhausted from a long swim, he falls asleep. When he awakens, he attempts sign language. Finally he communicates to her the idea that he and she are to swim away together in the limitless sea. He makes her a life preserver of cocoanut husks and they start their trip across the empty ocean. They rest at night on a barren beach. Palmyra manages to send a message for help, and they start on their ocean journey. Burke's ship is seen in pursuit of them. By clever maneuvering Olive eludes it. A ship is sighted at last. It is the imperial Japanese gunboat with Thurston and Van Buren aboard, and Commander Sakamoto in command. Olive's signals fail to reach the men in the gunboat, and they pass on without observing the tragic pair in the canoe. Soon they see the Pigeon of Noah in close pursuit. Escape seems impossible, but Olive hurdles a reef with marvelous skill. They land on Olive's island at last. Palmyra is greeted by Thurston, Rutger and her parents. Palmyra breaks her engagement to Rutger because she loves John Thurston.

INSTALLMENT LII.

PALMYRA IN PERIL.

The four women, though shrunken with age, possessed the strength of daily labor among the yams and taro. And, with that devilish thing around Palmyra's throat, chokingly tight now and ready instantly to clamp down on her windpipe, one of them alone could have held her silent, helpless.

Until an alarm had been given, the people would be unsuspicious. The French trader across the way, who otherwise might have been an obstacle, had locked up his place, in the European manner, and gone out to breakfast. The native passersby were coming in detached groups. Palmyra's captors need wait only until no one was near. Then, closing round her, they could whisk her across, appearing no more than a quintette of friends.

Once under cover of the wall, the girl could be hurried away along the lane and into the bush without observation.

But almost at the moment of the sortie there came an interruption. One of the old women, stooping down to glance out, discovered the girl's father and mother and Constance Crawford approaching—already close. Panic ensued. If her captors had not been dangerous before, they certainly were now.

The prisoner would have screamed. Unconsciously, she extended her lungs to take in the necessary air. But, on the second, that fiber cord cut deep into her flesh. Once more she fought for the breath of life. And then, as before, relief, and that same fierce whisper: "No 'peakey, no 'peakey!"

The girl must now be hidden. Gasping, she was thrust under the mosquito net; thrown flat, head on bamboo pillow. Two of the four followed, sat cross-legged on either side, pressed against her.

These two and a third snatched off the hat and veil that would have formed so revealing a silhouette against road or sea, now glaring bright again with sun. They spread over the girl one of the voluminous dresses; mopped her hair roughly up into native style; smeared her face with mat-makers dye so it would show through the netting brown.

Meanwhile the crone who had lured her here had taken a machete and seated herself on the patch of grass before the house. Nonchalantly, as the parents and Constance idled beside a stump of mast not a dozen feet away, she lighted a leaf wrapped cigaret and then, as the South sea islander mows his lawn, began to hack at the grass.

Within the house, Palmyra's two guardians had begun a low voiced singing. She perceived herself as a sick woman. These two kindly old souls sat inside the net to comfort her, while, before the hut, a third waited ready to answer solicitous inquiry. And any commotion of struggle which might catch the transient eye would be taken for a round of that massage which is the native's cure-all.

Had it not been for that fiber round her throat, almost making her eyes pop out, Palmyra would have found it difficult to think seriously of an imprisonment which held her—the wharf immediately upon the one hand, the road upon the other—quite visible to any passerby.

Her captors had taken impish advantage of that trait in human nature which causes man never really to look at a thing in plain sight. The burglar ferrets out diamonds in a mattress, but misses them on the table with a soiled handkerchief tossed over them.

The very openness of her hiding place concealed her. Who would look where there was no cellar, no garret, no closets; no household impedimenta, no draperies to obstruct the view? And who would think a white girl could be disguised as a native? In the Orient there would have been the Mohammedan face veil, the voluminous silks and linens; in colder climes, the drooping hat brim, the high fur collar. But here no wraps, no head coverings; nothing beyond Mother Hubbard or Mother Nature.

At first it seemed to the girl that father or mother or Constance must immediately discover her. But, almost within hand clasp, they refused to look in at her, continued to gaze up and down the road for her.

The old women muttered in fear. One dropped an additional leaf blind at the back. To have lowered others would have been to make the house conspicuous.

Mrs. Tree spoke anxiously. "I wonder where Palmyra is?"

"She's perfectly safe here," reassured the father.

The mother glanced along the road again. "I'd feel better," she said, "if the Okayama's engines were not still out of commission."

"They're waiting for the other cruiser from Truk with a casting," explained Constance.

The father laughed easily. "With daughter safe ashore, the engine doesn't figure," he said. "And you know"—patting his side significantly—"we're on the watch." He was carrying a heavy naval revolver.

Meanwhile the prisoner herself was suffocatingly warm. Even without the cotton dress, and the two women pressing against her, she would, in this climate, have suffered for wearing her plaid raincoat.

But she was intensely alert. At the slightest opportunity she meant to scream, to fight. Since her escape from Burke she herself had carried a small automatic pistol. At the first chance she'd use it.

She realized by now that those three out there would not discover her. She must attract their attention—even though the attempt might, in the panic of the old women, mean death. For, absolutely, she could be murdered here in her parents' very sight—and they serenely unaware.

Finally, at the mother's suggestion, the three turned to seek further along the street. Palmyra nerved herself for a desperate lunge.

Now, however, she saw Van Buren Rutger approaching, and sank back again. The others had not known. Van did know.

But just as the trio had strolled away and the newcomer almost reached the house, here, unexpectedly, was the man Martin. He ran up to Van. Excitedly he spoke.

Van stared, incredulous, yet alarmed.

"I was up this here swamp trail," Martin explained, pointing. "I sees some kanakas with guns on ahead. And one of 'em had deserted; scared stiff and wanting some one to tell the police. Said there was twenty of 'em all armed. Had the girl along. Running her for the Pueliko rocks."

The rocks were a noticeable formation not far inland.

Palmyra saw that Martin's deserter had assumed the plot to have gone through without this delay. And now Martin's effort to save her would keep Van from discovering her.

"Sure," affirmed Martin. "That's him. I seen him bossing the job. After her this time for himself."

Van uttered a groan. He tried to meet the emergency. But, as always, he was bound by that inborn supercivilization which was his curse. He should have acted; he could only stare at the other in agitation.

(Some time ago we published a verse, I'M GLAD I AM A MAN, by Willard M. Baxter. The challenge did not go unanswered, as witness the following.—EDITOR.)

When I see some guy who is a freak
Convince himself that he's a Sheik,
I'm glad I am a woman.
When I see how a furtive smile,
A roll of eyes, a little style
Will make a fellow chase a mile,
I'm glad I am a woman!

When I hear fellows make the claim
That they can manage any dame,
I'm glad I am a woman;
For everywhere I go I see
Meek husbands, henpecked as can be;
'Tis an amusing sight to me.
I'm glad I am a woman!

When I see fellows work like sin
Accumulating lots of tin,
I'm glad I am a woman.
I know that on some girl they'll blow,
Like millionaires, that pile of dough,
For candy, dinners, and a show.
I'm glad I am a woman!

LOVE LETTERS OF FAMOUS MEN.

Dear Martha:

So you didn't get my last letter? That's funny.

I crossed the Delaware to mail it, and it was no easy trip either. I'd give that dollar I threw across the Potomac river to know what became of it. Well, I guess it can't be helped, but it surely does beat the British!

By the way, write me at Valley Forge, as I expect to spend the rest of the winter there. No, I'm not fooling, and I mean every word of what I said when I saw you last. You know I never told a lie.

Speaking of lies, you know I had some time explaining to dad about that box of cherry chocolates I sent you last month. You see, dear, that candy was his and I—well, I did misrepresent a little bit. You know how dad is. I expect he'll pull the story out about swiping a whole tree of cherries. Queer about him, isn't it?

Well, ta ta, dear, and remember, I am your own.

Up ran Sam Pell, just a simple

But his muscle—for example—
Was too strong for dudes to trample.

Temple said she "tried to vamp" him;
Polly answered, "Lamp him. Thump him!"
Simple Sam Pell said "I'll rumple
Temple, now Miss Dalyrimple."
(Bing! he hit him) "That's a sample."
Temple called the "sample" ample!

THE EDITOR'S GOSSIP SHOP

A series which has met with great appeal—even though to write one of them is comparatively harder than writing anything else for THE FUN SHOP—is the TONGUE-TWISTER poem series.

There is a great appeal in these poems because we have punctured a myth about the word "tongue-twister."

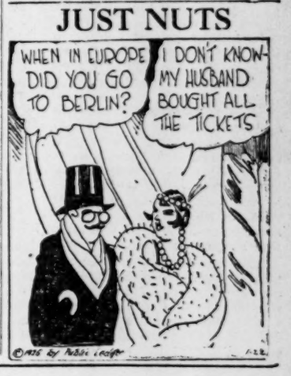

Many of our customers thought that "tongue-twister" meant the first letter of each world being the same—alliteration, in other words.

Well, you know as well as we do that one can get his tongue "twisted" by using words somewhat similar in pronunciation.

While enjoying the TONGUE-TWISTER poems, read them carefully. Then send us some. Even though your contribution may not be a finished one, if it possesses any merits we will touch it up and make it acceptable.

Readers are invited to contribute. All humor—epigrams (or humorous mottoes), jokes, anecdotes, poetry, burlesques, satires and bright sayings of children—must be original and hitherto unpublished. Accepted material will be paid for at the rate of $1 to $10 per contribution and from 25 cents to $1 per line for poetry according to its character and value in the judgment of the editor. Unaccepted contributions cannot be returned. All manuscripts must be written on one side of the paper only and should be addressed The Constitution Fun Shop Headquarters, 8 West 40th Street, New York City.

Georgia Oyster Gets O. K.;

No Peril Here, Expert Says

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Dr. Pauly S. Galtsoff, greatest living expert on the oyster, ex-lieutenant in the armies of the late Czar Nicholas of all the Russias; honor graduate of the University of Moscow and victim of the depredations of the Russian bolsheviki, Wednesday arrived in Atlanta.

It is as an oyster expert that Dr. Galtsoff comes to Georgia. He is now employed by the bureau of fisheries of the federal government at Washington and is sent to Georgia to assist state authorities in making a survey of the oyster beds and potential sea food industries of the Georgia coast. He left Atlanta Wednesday night with Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner, for Savannah. They will attend a conference of the oyster packers in that city on Friday and Dr. Galtsoff will then go to Darien headquarters of the state tidewater commission, where he will make his own headquarters during his work in this state.

The coming of Dr. Galtsoff at this particular time is of peculiar interest to the oyster industry of Georgia, following reports that a typhoid epidemic in the north and east has been charged to oysters gathered from northern waters.

DR. PAUL GALTSOFF.

No Chance Here.

There is no possibility of the Georgia oyster being contaminated, declared Dr. Galtsoff on Wednesday.

"While of course I have not had time to make a scientific examination on this point," he declared, "it is sufficient to look at the map of your coast and see that there is no possibility of such contamination. If oysters are responsible for the spread of typhoid in the north—and this has not been decided yet—they are contaminated from sewage which flows to their beds from the rivers. There isn't an oyster bed on the coast of Georgia which possibly could be reached by any such discharge from any stream or river."

This assurance that Georgia oysters are pure was extremely gratifying to Commissioner Twitty, "We should let the world know that, whether other oysters are safe or not, Georgia oysters are absolutely beyond question," said the commissioner.

Commissioner Twitty also pointed out that Georgia oysters are packed under ideal conditions, due to the fact that all the canneries in this state are comparatively small, thus allowing direct personal supervision in all their operations.

It is understood the packers' meeting in Savannah is to devise ways and means of informing the oyster-loving public that Georgia oysters are absolutely safe from typhoid contamination and in working out details for various branches of their industry.

Dr. Galtsoff stands well over six feet and weighs more than 200 pounds. If the balance of the czar's armies were men like him it is hard to understand how the Germans were able to stand before them.

He was a lieutenant in the Volinsk regiment for three years during the world war, he said, serving first on the Galicia and later on the Polish front. He is most decidedly not a supporter of the soviet regime, or bolsheviki, in Russia.

A Moscow Graduate.

A graduate of the University of Moscow, he held a government position at Sebastopol, in the Crimea, under the old Russian government. His home was in Moscow and, he remarked, he "unfortunately kept that home, with all his valuable in its safe," when he went to his post in Sebastopol. When the bolsheviki seized the reins of government the first thing they did was to confiscate all safes and their contents. Dr. Galtsoff's safe at Moscow went with the rest.

"They took everything, personal belongings and all," he said. "Even a gold medal they gave me at Moscow university," he added.

In the Crimea, where Dr. Galtsoff was stationed at Sebastopol, the soviet did not meet with much success for several years. "They came in for about four months in 1918," he said, adding, "but we soon drove them out." Then they came back for two or three months a year or so later, but again the "White armies" succeeded in expelling them. However, in November, 1919, the last of the "White" armies, under General Wrangel, was decisively defeated and it wasn't long after before Dr. Galtsoff and about 125,000 others left their homes in Sebastopol for Constantinople. Dr. Galtsoff then came to America.

When he reached this country he couldn't speak English, but a man of the scholarly attainments and with the international reputation in his special line was too valuable to overlook and it was only a few months before he had been engaged by the federal authorities to give the benefit of his knowledge of the oyster and other branches of oceanography to this government and its people.

He lately has been working for his department on the oyster beds off Long Island and declares that the conditions there are far different from those in Georgia.

Praise for Georgia.

"It is about 30 years since the federal government made any inspection of Georgia's oyster resources," he said, "but we know Georgia has wonderful potentialities for oyster culture. I don't mean to say that you have the oysters you could raise, but it is only a problem of methods and ways and means to produce them off your coast."

He explained that the chief trouble with Georgia oysters is that they grow so thickly that they are stunted and misshapen. He suggests that a system similar to that adopted by the French, of placing tiling for the oyster larvae to grow on, and then breaking the tiling up and spreading it over the beds, could be adopted. "Or something similar, perhaps better adapted to your conditions," he said.

Dr. Galtsoff stated that while he would not have time to survey all the Georgia waters, he would make complete examinations of selected area, testing density of water, amount of feed present for oysters, condition of bottoms and other factors which enter into cultivation of bivalves.

"I met one delightful native of the southern states while I was in Sebastopol," said Dr. Galtsoff. "He was a representative of your government named Admiral McCluskey, I think, and he lived in South Carolina. When he came back to America he brought with him seven Russian orphan children he had adopted.

"I saw photographs of some of these children in a Washington newspaper last week. They look very happy as Americans. And I can understand it. For, like America, I too, and am very happy in my work here."

New York Boys Land in Jail

While Seeking Atmosphere

BY KENNETH L. EAGON.

Ward Clarke, 19, and Morris Spevack, same age, law students at New York university, New York city, craved "atmosphere, inspiration and environment."

They came to Atlanta and got plenty.

Last night they languished in separate cells at the police station charged with "suspicion." They were arrested Wednesday night, together with Oliver Leath, 20, of Indianola, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, whom they cultivated en route in their pilgrimage.

Boys Craved Thrills.

"It's this way," explained Clarke to a reporter for The Constitution. "There'll be heck to pay if my dad finds out anything about this. Boy, it's too terrible to conceive. My pal, Morris, and I were studying law at the University of New York. We were getting along fine. But things were too prosaic, too blase. We craved thrills, the excitement of life, adventure, and what not?

"So we decided to leave New York, flat broke, and beat our way south for atmosphere, inspiration and environment. Incidentally, it was too cold in New York. It's hot enough here."

Both Clarke and Spevack are scions of wealthy New York families and Atlanta police have telegraphed back east concerning disposition of the two youths.

They said they weren't doing anything more serious Wednesday night than gathering in a lot of Dixie ozone and getting acclimated to the balmy south. Together with the Leath lad, the trio were looking the town over along Ashby street, near the Hanson Motor company plant.

Crowd Gathers.

Somehow a crowd gathered. The New Yorkers started to jabber away in slang and the mob grew in proportion until someone turned in an alarm and the police sent out the riot squad.

"What's all the shooting about?" inquired young Clarke, when he and his playmates were placed under arrest on a blanket charge of suspicion. "We were just playing with the natives and having a lot of fun. Shucks, can't you fellows take a joke?"

That didn't get down and the trio took their respective cells.

FRIENDLY ADIEU FOR JUSSERAND

Washington, January 21.—Ambassador Jusserand, of France, left Washington today after 22 years of diplomatic service, with a warm, spontaneous au revoir welling toward him from an unusually large crowd of the capital's residents who had come to know him as a friend.

Conscious of the part he had played for so long in keeping intact the traditional friendship between the two republics, official, diplomatic and private Washington gathered at the station in an effort to express the regret and sense of loss his retirement has caused.

The veteran diplomat, dean of the corps in Washington, having made his official good-bye calls yesterday, spent his last hours here quietly at the embassy.

About a quarter of an hour before the departure of his train, the platform was filled with the staffs of embassies and legations presenting a diplomatic spectacle such as rarely is seen. Secretary Weeks and numerous other officials also were on hand to wish this old friend a last good-bye.

Only a few minutes before the departure of the train M. and Mme. Jusserand arrived, accompanied by Joseph C. Grew, under-secretary of state, and J. Butler Wright, assistant secretary of state. With them came also a large group of friends, including former Associate Justice Joseph McKenna and a number of senators and representatives, who had joined them in the waiting room.

Their arrival brought the crowd waiting on the platform surging forward in the hope of a final handshake or a word of farewell. The time was short, but the retiring ambassador and his wife did their best and proceeded slowly to their car, where numerous bouquets had been placed by admirers.

The train was on the verge of starting when they reached their compartment and the hiss of the engine gave the signal for the outburst of cheers that sent them finally on the first stage of their journey home. Their schedule called for only a brief stay in New York, a visit to friends in Boston and then, January 28, departure from New York for France.

FLORIDA MODIFIES POULTRY QUARANTINE

Announcement of a modification in the Florida quarantine against shipment of poultry into that state, was made Wednesday by Peter F. Bahnsen, Georgia state veterinarian. Florida is the first state to lessen the stringency of its ban against shipments of poultry into the state since discovery of the European fowl pest in this country.

Under the modified ruling Georgia poultry shippers may now send baby chicks and poultry for market, exhibition and breeding purposes, into Florida, provided the shipment is accompanied by affidavit, executed by the shipper, setting forth that no European fowl pest or fowl plague or similar disease existed in the flocks from which the poultry came.

Dr. Bahnsen pointed out last week that any hardships caused Georgia poultry raisers were not the result of the Georgia embargo against shipments from other states, but of embargoes of other states against shipments from Georgia.

The new Florida order applies to all states except those known to be infected with the fowl disease.

REMOVAL OF BAR AGAINST FERGUSON IN TEXAS IS ASKED

Austin, Texas, January 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The first step to set aside the impeachment of former Governor James E. Ferguson was taken in the state senate today.

A resolution, introduced by J. Roy Hardin, of Kaufman, recited that the results of the election in November indicated it was the "sense of the people of Texas that the Ferguson name be vindicated," and that "all disqualifications incident to the impeachment be removed."

The resolution was made a special order for next Wednesday.

Ferguson was convicted on a charge of misuse of state funds in 1917 and removed from the governorship. Yesterday his wife, Miriam A. Ferguson, was inaugurated as governor. During her campaign she made removal of the impeachment stigma her chief appeal for support.

CAR DEMOLISHED, DRIVER NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH

Scott Trammell, of Washington, D. C., narrowly escaped death Wednesday morning when his automobile was demolished at Belmont Crossing, near Smyrna, by inbound N. C. & St. L. train No. 5.

Trammell, who was bruised and received several cuts from flying glass, was rushed to the Nolan hospital in Marietta for treatment.

"I am touring the south after retiring from service in the United States army," he declared. "I didn't see the train until it was too late to stop."

Trammell's machine, a sedan of expensive make, was struck by the train just as the front wheels mounted the tracks. It is a complete wreck. A small dog, which Trammell declares had been his mascot for several years, leaped through an open window of the car, just as the front end crumbled beneath the wheels of the train. He leaped a fence and disappeared.

U. S. TO PAY $1.55 FOR SILENT BUGLE OF BILL FISKE

Washington, January 21.—What happened to Bill Fiske's bugle?

This mystery is destined to go down with the questionable age of Ann as one of the great unsolved interrogations.

Who is Bill? Why, he had a bugle and what happened to it no one knows. But the people of the United States are going to pay $1.55 for it anyway, for the item has been approved by the treasury department, by house and senate committees, by the president and innumerable other committees, commissions and officials.

FAYETTEVILLE SETS BOND ISSUE DATE

Fayetteville, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—Council has called an election to be held here February 18, when bonds for waterworks and lights will be voted upon.

The ordinance calls for $15,000 for installation of a light plant and $17,000 for a waterworks system.

HOWARD ASHBURN IS MAYOR OF MOULTRIE

Moultrie, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—City council tonight elected Howard Ashburn as mayor of Moultrie to succeed Judge W. A. Covington, who recently resigned because of his removal to Lakeland, Fla.

Mr. Ashburn, who is a prominent business man, will be sworn in February 1. He will serve until October 1 when the next city election will be held.

ALICE LONGWORTH GOES TO CHICAGO TO AWAIT STORK

Washington, January 21.—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the late President Roosevelt and a prominent society figure here, left here Wednesday for Chicago to await the arrival of the stork.

She probably will stay at the home of Mrs. Medill McCormick until about the middle of February, when she is expected to enter a hospital. Her husband, Representative Longworth, of Ohio, will remain here until that time because his position as house majority floor leader requires his attendance in congress.

ANTIQUE DEALERS UNLOADING FAKES ON AMERICANS

New York, January 21.—Herbert Cascinsky, an authority on antique woods and furniture, has arrived here from Europe with the statement that it was "pathetic the way Americans have been cheated" by European dealers in antique furniture.

"There is no such thing as a Chippendale wash stand, as people didn't wash much in those days," he said. "Neither is there an authentic Chippendale sideboard, a Queen Anne walnut dining table and upholstered furniture predating the Cromwellian period."

"There are no grandfather's clocks antedating 1670. There were no chairs, as we know chairs, before Henry VIII. We have specimens of ecclesiastical chairs, but there were no domestic chairs before 1560."

Almost all of the oak furniture brought here since the days of Queen Elizabeth, he called "absolute fakes."

Discussing furniture of the present day, Mr. Cascinsky said there is probably more creativeness in Grand Rapids than there is in all Europe.

C. E. COUNCIL HEARS MARION DAVIES SPEAK

"How Does Jesus Appear to You?" was the subject of an address by Marion M. Davies, honorary president of the Christian Endeavor council, at the bi-monthly meeting of the Atlanta Christian Endeavor union Tuesday night.

A jeweled pin for wearing the largest percentage of emblems of the Christian Endeavor was awarded to the president of the Piedmont Avenue Presbyterian society. This society, formerly the Harris Street Presbyterian society, had a perfect attendance.

The Lakewood Heights Christian society was admitted to the union and presented an active roll of 28 members and 24 visitors.

The East Atlanta Christian society was awarded the attendance banner, having an attendance of 108 visitors and a complete membership for a percentage of 640. The Piedmont Avenue church was second with a percentage of 588, and the Clifton Presbyterian was third with 426 per cent.

Supper was served to the committee chairmen and officers of the union, arranged by Mrs. E. C. Calloway, Mrs. J. C. Howard, Mrs. Dan Cheatwood, Mrs. R. L. Barnett and Mrs. J. A. Craig.

DEATH OF M'CLINTOCK PROBED IN SIX STATES

Chicago, January 21.—Judge Harry Olson, chief justice of the municipal court, who asked that the investigation be started into the death six weeks ago of William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire orphan," tonight said that the investigation had now extended into Oklahoma, Arkansas, Arizona, New Mexico, California and Canada.

The inquest, resumed yesterday, was continued for a month at his request, in order to allow more time to checkup on information from these widely separated points.

Judge Olson said tonight that an anonymous telephone call to a relative today while he was attending a funeral was to the effect that he had been shot and killed. He said he believed this to be a part of an attempt to intimidate possible witnesses in the McClintock investigation.

JURY IN BOOZE CASE LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

Jersey City, N. J., January 21.—The jury in the trial of ten police officers and two civilians, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in connection with the Weehawken liquor situation, still was locked up early tonight, five hours after it was given the case.

The jury took the case after a day of sensational summations, in which the name of United States Senator Edward I. Edwards prominently was featured. The senator was charged by three dry enforcement agents yesterday with being the chief backer of the liquor conspirators.

It was announced that the case would be held from the jury until the senator had had opportunity to testify and answer the charges involving him, if he desired, but word was brought that Mr. Edwards would meet the allegations with silence.

JACKSON HONORED

Georgia Hearts in Tribute to General.

The anniversary of the birthday of Stonewall Jackson, famous general of the Confederacy, military genius and scholar, was celebrated in the hearts of southern people Wednesday.

No particular demonstration or observance was held in this city due to the fact that the birthdays of General Jackson and General Robert E. Lee are but three days apart and were observed jointly on Lee's anniversary.

JAPAN TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET BY NEW TREATY

Peking, January 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Though the text of the Russo-Japanese treaty, it is announced, will be withheld from publication pending ratification, it is ascertained that it contains two protocols covering recognition of the soviet by Japan and exploitation of coal and oil fields, a reservation by M. Karakhan, the soviet ambassador, repudiating any responsibility for the Portsmouth treaty and an expression of regret for the Nikolaievsk massacre of 1920, in which many Japanese were killed.

Both sides agree that the Portsmouth treaty may be examined and amended, but at present it forms the basis for the reestablishment of relations. The discussion of a treaty of commerce and navigation is to commence immediately. In the meantime, intercourse shall be on an understanding of mutual liberty of residence and the enjoyment of protection, reciprocity in the ownership of property, engagement in industries and trade without restriction or discrimination on the basis of most-favored-nation treatment.

Under the limitations forced by the climatic conditions, all districts of northern Saghalien are to be restored to the soviet as they are evacuated.

It is provided that neither party shall enter into any treaty or military alliance or other secret understanding detrimental to mutual safety nor engage in detrimental progaganda.

HARALSON JURY MAY CONSIDER STEWART CASE

Buchanan, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—It is expected that the grand jury Thursday will consider the Stewart case, when five men held at preliminary trial charged with the death of Mrs. Stewart will be brought before that body and indictments sought.

Mrs. Robert Stewart was killed at Draketown in November when she went to the rescue of her husband, who was being lured from his home by a band of alleged nightriders.

HANGS SELF BY STRAP IN BATHROOM OF HOME

Reading, Pa., January 21.—Albert M. Luden, 32, son of William H Luden, wealthy manufacturer here, was found hanging by a strap to a bathroom door last night in his bungalow at Pennside. Luden lived alone. He was employed in the confectionery plant of his father in this city. His father and other members of the household are wintering in Florida.

Neighbors of Luden noticed that gas had been burning continuously in the house for several days but saw no one moving about. They forced an entrance and found the body.

HIGH WATERS RACE TO SOUTH GEORGIA

Albany, Ga., January 21.—(Special.)—After a rise of six inches last night, Flint river had fallen two inches at 7 o'clock this morning, and has added a few more inches to its downward course during the day. Albany has held her own during the last 24 hours, but highways are still flooded and train service is slow. The Central washout on the Macon-Atlanta line, two miles above Albany, will be closed in time for trains to pass over tonight, and tourist service between Florida and the west, which has been detoured for several days, can be restored.

None of the important highway bridges in the immediate vicinity of Albany went out, though all are still covered with water, and many approaches were swept away. A number of districts are still completely isolated.

One of the most dramatic incidents of the flood was enacted last night when the river began to break across the southern extension of Jackson street, known locally as the River road, into a thickly populated negro section known as Ragsdale, where many of the residents own their homes. The settlement is in a basin suggestive of a large amphitheater containing six or seven blocks. The rise of the river during the night caused it to break over the River road, and water began pouring into Ragsdale.

An alarm was sent out, and the county convict gang was hustled out of quarters and into trucks for a race to the scene. The water was getting a good start and in a half hour would have eaten away the surface of the narrow bridge on which the river road runs at that point. Working like beavers, the convicts, with the help of a number of volunteers, threw a dike along one side of the road, and built another across it 100 yards further on. They worked by the light of fires and automobile headlights and succeeded in preventing the water from breaking over the ridge.

Had it gotten into the Ragsdale basin, it would have driven more than 1,000 persons from their homes, and many of the houses would have been entirely covered by water.

A fall of a foot or more is expected in the river tonight.

The first contact of Newton, Ga., with the outside world was established late today when H. C. Jernigan, a Newton druggist, reached Albany after making a long detour in his car over almost impassable roads. He states that not a human being remains in the county seat of Baker county, the waters of Flint river and Coolewahee creek being in full possession. The river was still rising this afternoon.

The water is 8 to 10 feet deep in the public square and up to the eaves of stores, warehouses and other buildings. Not a dwelling in the town is habitable, and despite the fact that merchants placed most of their stocks on upper shelves and tables placed on counters when the flood waters began to rise in the town most of the merchandise will be a total loss. Water is up to the wires on telephone poles in some parts of the town and families camped on the surrounding ridges or being cared for in farm houses nearby, are only able to see the tops of buildings containing all their earthly possessions as they look into the flooded county seat. The water stands five feet deep in the lower rooms of the court house, the floor of which is several feet above the ground.

One wall of the brick warehouse of R. L. & W. H Hall, in which cotton, cottonseed and peanuts are stored, has collapsed, but the full extent of the damage cannot be determined until the waters recede, which probably will not be possible for several days.

Booze Charge On Edwards To Be Probed

Jersey City, January 21.—The charges of three prohibition agents that Senator Edward I. Edwards, of New Jersey, was a director of the $50,000,000 bootlegging ring, which is said to operate in the state, are to be presented to a grand jury.

Prosecutor John Milton, of Hudson county, who presented to a grand jury the evidence upon which Police Commissioner J. O. Stearns, of Weehawken, ten policemen and a civilian were indicted for bootlegging, announced Wednesday night that Senator Edwards' case also would go before the jury.

Lionel Wilson, one of the prohibition agents, swore that he closed a deal with Edwards for 100 cases of Scotch whisky on November 14, 1923.

Hard Luck
MANY people go through life blaming "hard luck" when they don't feel good, when they lose their job, etc. But "hard luck" is not the cause of crippling Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or High Blood Pressure. These diseases most likely have started in disordered kidneys: kidneys that have been abused and neglected—kidneys whose appeals for assistance and relief have not been heeded. Don't wait for "good luck" to bring you relief. Restore health to your kidneys and assist them to get rid of the poisons that are afflicting you with chronic diseases. YAARAB MOSQUE PROJECT REVIVED

Reelection of Potentate Charles A. Bowen and his entire administration and launching of a movement for immediate financing and erection of a great Shrine mosque on a site opposite the Georgian Terrace hotel featured the annual meeting of Yaarab temple Wednesday night in Taft hall.

At this session Potentate Bowen announced that the lot on Peachtree street opposite the Georgian Terrace, purchased some years ago for the purpose of building a mosque, was now clear of all debt, and that it was the desire of the officers to immediately consider plans for financing the building of Yaarab's own home. On motion, the lot committee and building committee which have been functioning for several years were released with thanks of the temple for their splendid work, and the way was thus paved for appointment of new committees to finance and superintend construction of a mosque. The financial statement showed that the temple was clear of all debt and had a gratifying bank balance.

The first movement to erect a magnificent mosque on the Peachtree site near Ponce de Leon was started several years ago but for some time past these plans have been in abeyance.

No Contests for Office.

With no contests for any of the elective offices, Potentate Bowen was Wednesday night reelected for a second administration over Yaarab temple. Wylie West was reelected chief rabban, and Tom Law was reelected assistant rabban for the second term.

Frank Luckiesh was reelected for a third term as high priest and prophet. Captain John C. Joiner, now well into the eighties and the only Oriental guide Yaarab temple has ever had, was unanimously reelected. James S. Floyd, who has been treasurer for many years, and George Argard, who has been recorder almost as long as Captain Joiner has been Oriental guide, were both reelected.

Representatives to the imperial council in Los Angeles next June will be Past Potentate Forrest Adair, life member; Past Potentate Henry C. Heinz, who will make his eighth trip; Potentate Bowen, John F. Burdine and Governor Clifford Walker, the latter being the out-of-town representative.

Large Attendance

The annual meeting drew a large crowd of the nobility, who came to participate in election of officers and to hear the financial statement of the temple.

Past Potentate Heinz read a set of resolutions on the death of the late George R. Donovan, who was chairman of the finance committee at the time of his death and one of the most loved nobles of Yaarab temple. Potentate Bowen notified the nobility that Yaarab temple would give a big ceremonial session on Wednesday, February 18, at which the imperial potentate would be present, together with other distinguished visitors. Plans are already under way for an elaborate affair, and it is expected that the ceremonial will be opened with a pantomime by the Oriental band; the Chanters are scheduled to repeat their splendid minstrel with new songs and jokes, while the million-dollar band and patrol will have prominent parts in the spectacular event.

Applications for membership in this class must be in the possession of Recorder Argard on February 7, accompanied by check for $112.

STATE-WIDE HUNT IS INSTITUTED FOR ALLEGED BIGAMIST

Lairsy is said to have five wives; two living in Atlanta, and one each in Waycross, Tallahassee and Jacksonville.

Information brought to the solicitor general's office was to the effect that Lairsy married a Miss Bagley, of Jacksonville in August, 1908.

In 1914 he is alleged to have married Miss Nellie Richards, of Tallahassee; in January, 1924, Mrs. Beatrice Wilson, of this city, and in July, Miss Mattie McCoy, also of Atlanta.

An effort to locate him on the part of Mrs. McCoy Lairsy is said to have led to an investigation which resulted in the disclosure of his matrimonial ventures.

To insure consideration each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of five per cent (5%) of the bid submitted. This certified check to be on a national bank or state bank, and made payable to the Board of School Commissioners of Mobile county, State of Alabama, as a guarantee of good faith, in that the contractor will enter into a contract and will make an acceptable bond to the Board of School Commissioners for fifty per cent (50%) of the contract price for the faithful performance of the work, in accordance with the plans and specifications. The bond required must be filed with the Board of School Commissioners within ten days after award of contract. This check is to be forfeited as reasonable liquidated damages in case the contractor fails or refuses to sign contract and make bond within the time stipulated above.

The contractor will be permitted to file with his bid, and in lieu of certified check, a bid bond in the amount of five per cent (5%) of the amount of his bid, in which case such bond shall be furnished by a regular bonding company acceptable by the owners.

Separate bids will be received on general contract, and on plumbing, heating and electrical work, and such other portions as may be determined later.

The plans and specifications must be returned to the office of the Architect on or before the date and hour set for the receiving of the bids, and upon their receipt in good condition the above payment will be refunded. This deposit of $25.00 for plans and specifications will be forfeited in case plans and specifications are not returned as set forth in the above, or, in the event that damaged sets of plans and specifications are returned.
